Dodd Says He Was Under Red Threat

Roughed Up

General Discloses POWs Planned Prison Break on Island

Seoul, Korea, May 12 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd said tonight Red prisoners who held him a hostage 78 hours on Koje Island threatened to kill him, resist United Nations troops and stage an island-wide prison break if force were used to get him out.

But the balding, gray-haired general said he was convinced, nevertheless, that the United Nations command threats to use force "had a decided effect" in gaining his release.

The general, reading from a four-page statement, in a clear, strong voice, said "the demands made by the POWs are inconsequential and the concessions granted by the camp authorities were of minor importance."

Dodd read his statement to the press after being held behind a wall of secrecy for 48 hours. He wore a pistol on his hip, strapped into a holster with a gaudy silver buckle.

Was Well Treated

He seemed healthy, despite his ordeal.

Newsmen were not permitted to ask the general a single question when he finished his prepared statement.

In the statement Dodd said he had been well treated in Compound 76, where 6,000 die-hard North Korean Communist soldiers are POWs. He said the Reds gave him medical attention and "attended to my personal needs."

The general described a preliminary meeting at which the prisoners explained their grievances about "food, clothing, medical supplies" and several alleged "injuries to the prisoners." They gave him a chance to reply, then voted on the answer.

He said the meeting was presided over by Col. Lee Bak Koc, "elected leader" of a prisoner association inside the compound. "It appeared that in all cases (of dispute) Colonel Lee ruled in my favor," said Dodd.

Planned Release May 11

The general said he was housed in a blanket-covered room in a "previously prepared tent."

There were "rice mats on the floor, a built-in bunk, a table with flowers, and a rack on which to hang my clothes," said Dodd.

He also said the Communists had planned to release him during a flowered-decked ceremony on May 11. They planned to garland the general with wreaths and march him between rows of POWs when they turned him over to Gen. Charles F. Colson, who was named camp commander when Dodd was seized.

Reds Attack in South

Pusan, Korea, May 12 (AP)—Police today said two South Korean policemen and one Communist guerrilla were killed Friday night when the Reds attacked the town of Hamyang 45 miles west of Pusan in deep South Korea. Police said the Reds, about 50 in number, attacked the town with mortars, rockets and machine guns. Police drove the attackers off and today were reported hot after them in the hills. The guerrillas joined another group of 50 Reds.

Would Limit Shipments

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R.-Calif.) today proposed that shipments of jet planes to American allies be limited to 10 per cent of the nation's production until the U. S. Air Force is fully equipped with jets. He offered this as an amendment to the $6,900,000,000 foreign aid bill now before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Hit-Run Drivers Keep Police Busy Sunday; 1 Caught

Downtown Man Is Arrested After Car Hit Safety Zone Pole; Another Says Auto Damaged

Sunday was hit and run day in Kingston but not on the baseball field.

Police received five reports of drivers leaving the scenes of mishaps yesterday, and only one was caught and booked for an alleged violation.

Another variety of the hit and run was reported early today when a man who was treated for injuries at Kingston Hospital, said he was beaten by a man who got out of a sedan to attack him and then drove away.

A report at 2:20 a. m., Sunday said that George Dugan, 27, of 7 East Pierpont street was arrested by Officers William Hanley and James Harbeck on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident after the car he was driving allegedly struck and damaged a safety zone pole at Broadway and Albany avenue.

Picked Up on Warrant

All lights on that safety zone and the one at Albany avenue and Maiden Lane were reported out after the accident. Dugan was admitted to bail for appearance today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino. He failed to appear, and was picked up on a bench warrant for appearance in city court Tuesday morning.

Ten minutes later Dale Jackson of 24 East Union street said that as he was about to place his baby in his taxicab in front of the taxi office, 17 West Strand, the taxi

Water Board Holds Up Money Transfer To Public Works

The local water board today requested publication of the following resolution asking that its president and secretary withhold the signing of a check that would transfer $50,000 from water department funds to the public works department.

The resolution, adopted at a recent meeting, was offered by Commissioner John Schwenk and seconded by Commissioner Harry LeFever, Jr. It said:

"Whereas, in the judgment of the Board of Water Commissioners the amount of monies on hand and deposited to the credit of the Water Fund Account derived from water rates is insufficient to meet payrolls, contracted obligations, bonded debt retirement and interest on bonds and for the proper maintenance and management of the department, and to protect the city's investment in its water supply, it is hereby

"Resolved, That the President and Secretary of the Water Board be directed to withhold signing of a check transferring $50,000 from the Water Department Account to the Department of Public Works until the legality of the action of the mayor and common council authorizing the transfer of said funds can be determined, and it is further

"Resolved, That the president of the Board of Water Commissioners be authorized to employ legal counsel to advise the board in respect to the legality of the transfer of said funds and take such legal action in respect thereto as may be advisable."

UN Leaders Say Parley Used by Foe

Sharp Accusation Made That Armistice Talks Used as Propaganda Sounding Board

Lies Are Charged

Tirade Was Prepared in Advance, Official Report Says

Munsan, Korea, May 12 (AP)—The United Nations command today sharply accused the Communists of using the Korea armistice talks for a propaganda sounding board.

The UNC communique said the Reds fired "their most vicious propaganda attack of the 10-month-old armistice negotiations" in a 34-minute "tirade, obviously prepared in advance" and "filled with invective, distortions and palpable lies."

Another plenary session was scheduled for 11 a. m., Tuesday (9 p. m., EST, Monday). But Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, senior UN delegate, told the Reds the UN command formally disassociatess itself from the propaganda purposes for which you are utilizing these meetings."

Nam Il Gives Blast

North Korean Gen. Nam Il delivered the blast at the UN command. It was studded with Red accusations that the allies mistreated Red prisoners of war.

Never before had newsmen covering the negotiations in Panmunjom seen the usually mild-mannered admiral so angry. After the 52-minute session Joy said:

"We were subjected today to one of the most vicious propaganda blasts we have ever had. The Communists told us in effect that unless we intend to disrupt the meetings they would insist on meeting every day and use these meetings overtly for propaganda although they did not use those words."

Nam Il again flatly rejected Joy's proposal for an indefinite recess until the Communists have something concrete to offer.

Have Instructions

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, UN spokesman, said the Reds have instructions to insist on continuing the talks and "to utilize them entirely for a propaganda

Ridgway Departs Far East Command

General Will Visit U. S. Prior to Going to Europe

Tokyo, May 12 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who blocked the Communists in Korea and engineered the end of the Allied occupation of Japan, left today on his way to Europe to succeed Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

It was only a year, a month and a day ago that Ridgway, soldier, diplomat and Pentagon trouble-shooter, took over from Gen. Douglas MacArthur as supreme commander of allied powers in Japan.

Zoning Board Rules Against Use of Site by Roofing Firm

Present use of the property at 75-77 Pine street, owned by Rudi Hohenberger and leased to the Henry A. Olsen, Inc., roofing concern for parking of motor trucks, storing of roofing equipment and materials "both in the interior and exterior of the building" has been declared in violation of the Kingston Zoning ordinance which was enacted on August 8, 1928.

Members of the Kingston Zoning Board, Joseph Avis, chairman, Fred J. Baker and Thomas F. Saccomvan, have made an order directing that such use be terminated on September 1, 1952. If respondents intend to review or appeal from the order of the Zoning Board to the Supreme Court, such appeal must be perfected within 60 days of the service of the order upon the respondents. The order is dated May 7, and has just been served.

A written complaint was made to the Zoning Board by Thomas W. Miller, Frank Lasher, Elizabeth A. Edmonston, Thomas A. Miller and several other residents of the area who brought the matter before the Zoning Zoard and against both Rudi Hohenberger, owner, and Henry A. Olsen, Inc., lessee, respondents.

The property was formerly used by the Heneph Corporation, manufacturers and distributors of drugs. That corporation was a family corporation and was in existence when the zoning ordinance was adopted in 1928. The property in question is located in a residential district.

Under the decision of the zoning board, which will have far reaching results and will establish a precedent for future rulings, it is stated that the respondents now occupying the premises have conducted a business without obtaining a "certificate of occupancy." The lessee operates a roofing construction business and maintains and stores "several trucks, and equipment used in the melting of tar and pitch which equipment is stored on the vacant lot adjoining the building and considerable supplies and materials are stored on the exterior of the building and by the general course of their

Rail Network Gets Saturation Bombing

Seoul, Korea, May 12 (AP)—United Nations warplanes today blasted the North Korean rail network with another of their new saturation bombings designed to make track repairs as tough as possible for the Reds.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said fighter-bombers made 28 cuts in a short stretch on the vital Kanggye-Sinanju line near Huichon in the northwest. Nine U. S. B-29s hit the Huichon rail bridge yesterday with 90 tons of bombs. Fighter-bombers cratered rails in more than 80 places on a small section south of Sunchon at the same time.

The stretches of track are on main rail routes from Manchuria to the North Korean capital, Pyongyang.

Eisenhower Leaves Some Supporters Uncertain of Plans

No Assurances Are Given General Will Speak —Duff Gives His Opinion

By JACK BELL

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's assertion that he won't campaign for the Republican presidential nomination appeared today to have left some of his supporters up in the air about future developments.

Hours after Eisenhower said in Norway that he won't strive for the nomination, Gov. Thomas A. Dewey of New York told a television audience yesterday he believes the general will declare his position on major issues when he returns to this country early in June.

But Dewey could offer his questioners no assurance the general will make any speeches beyond a scheduled homecoming address at Abilene, Kans., June 4. Eisenhower said in Norway that if the people want him for president "they will know where to find me."

Sen. James Duff of Pennsylvania, who sometimes has not agreed with Dewey on the strategy of the Eisenhower pre-convention drive, told this reporter he believes the best way to win a nomination fight or any other kind of battle is to take the offensive.

Ought to Speak Out

Although he didn't say so in as many words, Duff made it clear he thinks Eisenhower ought to speak out on the major issues shortly after his return to this country.

Whatever he says or doesn't say about domestic problems, Eisenhower is expected to make his foreign policy views clear in his Abilene address or in subsequent talks which he might agree to make.

Dewey said he believes Eisenhower is the only candidate who can handle this country's ticklish foreign policy problem in the next four years and still keep the nation solvent.

"He won the peace in the last war and if it had not been lost by the politicians we would still have a good peace," Dewey declared.

Can't Frighten Farmers

Dewey, unsuccessful GOP presidential nominee in 1944 and 1948, also said the Democrats would not be able again to frighten the farmers just before the election as, he said, they did in 1948. Without going into details he said they "pulled the plug out from under corn, hogs and beans" in an effort to "convince the farmers what would happen if the Republicans got in."

"If they try it again this time," he added, "they're going to get caught."

The New York governor, who denies he seeks any cabinet post but still is regarded as a possible Eisenhower appointee for secretary of state, discussed foreign policy issues with Secretary of State Acheson and Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter Saturday night during a break in the Gridiron Club dinner here.

Dewey indicated in yesterday's television interview that this was merely a casual meeting.

More Time Than Indicated

However, this reporter observed that Dewey spent much more time with Acheson and Frankfurter than he indicated to the TV audience. Also, there was no one else to be seen in the room except a hotel attendant and two reporters who wandered in by accident and returned outside the door. Dewey said there were 25 other persons within five feet of him and the conversation was "as secret as if we'd held it in Macy's window."

Eisenhower's apparent decision to sit out most of the rest of the pre-convention campaign is likely to result in a new barrage of demands by backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the general to speak out on the issues.

Taft has about wound up his pre-convention campaign and returns to work in the Senate today.

The Ohio senator contends he has in sight the support of half of the 1,206 convention votes,

Coykendall Plans Part in Reunion

Columbia University Board Chairman to Attend KHS Reunion

FREDERICK COYKENDALL

Frederick Coykendall (Ulster Academy, 1888) is one of the prominent men returning to participate in the First Reunion of Kingston graduates on Friday, May 16. Chairman of the Columbia University Trustees and president of the Cornell Steamboat Company, he now resides at 1 West 72nd street, New York city.

Coykendall was born in Kingston, Nov. 23, 1872, son of the late Samuel Decker and Mary Augusta Cornell Coykendall. Receiving his early education at Ulster Academy and Columbia Grammar School in New York, he entered Columbia College in 1891 and received the A.B. degree in 1895, graduating with Phi Beta Kappa honors. In 1897 he received degrees of civil engineering and master of arts.

Has Varied Life

He became secretary of the Cornell Steamboat Company in 1897, manager in 1900 and president in 1913. He became associated with Columbia University Press in 1921, was made director in 1926 and president in 1946. He has also served as vice president and a director of Duttons, Inc., and was vice president and a director of the old Rhinecliff and Kingston Ferry Company.

He served for 12 years after graduation as a member of the standing committee of the Association of the Alumni of Columbia College, has been treasurer and member of the board of governors of Columbia University Club, was later president of the

Stanley Costello, 51, Is Victim of Skidding Accident South of Circle

Stanley Costello, 50, of 378 Main street, Poughkeepsie, was instantly killed about 5:30 a. m. today when his automobile skidded into the path of a tractor-trailer on Route 9W two miles south of the Highland traffic circle, state police reported.

Costello, an engineer employed by the New York State Department of Public Works, died of a fractured skull and crushed chest, troopers said. Coroner Ernest A. Kelly of Kingston investigated at the scene and issued a verdict of accidental death.

Alone in Car

Troopers said Costello was alone in his car, which they described as a "complete wreck" after it was actually "run over" by a milk tank tractor trailer owned by the Central Milk Haulers, Inc., of Norwich, and driven by Richard D. Miller, 26, of Morris.

Costello was driving north, passing a van type tractor trailer owned by the Continental Baking Company of Paterson, N. J., being operated in a northerly direction by William Elsaesser, Jr., 50, of Paterson.

Car Turns Sidewise

Costello apparently applied his brakes as he was abreast of the other vehicle, and his 1948 sedan skidded on the wet pavement, turning sidewise into the path of the southbound milk tanker, troopers said.

Both trucks were loaded at the time of the accident.

The highway at the point of the accident is of three lane macadam construction. Rain was falling and the road surface was wet, troopers said. No arrest was made.

State police of the Highland station in charge of Sgt. William Martin conducted the investigation. Sheriff Cluett Schantz was also notified.

Costello's body was taken to the Plass Funeral Home in Highland.

Workers, Officials Ready for Meeting On Oil Shutdown

All Nations Are Urged to Ease Use of Gas For Planes—Cars Feel Pinch

Denver, May 12 (AP)—With a major settlement for background, striking oil workers and company officials got ready for tomorrow's showdown meeting with the Wage Stabilization Board. The government goal: to halt the nation-wide strike with its world-wide effects.

The United States and Britain asked all nations to conserve dwindling supplies of aviation gasoline. They warned global restrictions may follow.

Military flying is down to essentials. More civilian flights are suspended each day. Motorists are feeling the growing pinch. Three disastrous fires heightened the shortage.

O. A. Knight, president of the CIO Oil Workers International, largest of the 22 unions striking for higher wages, flew to Washington yesterday to prepare for the meeting called by the WSB.

Knight has said that, after months of postponement before the walkout started 13 days ago, the striking refinery and pipeline workers are determined not to work without a contract. There was no sign they had changed their mind.

Scattered Agreements Signed

Scattered agreements have been signed through the industry. But the first major agreement which union officials conceded might set a settlement pattern was okayed by workers yesterday.

It is between the Independent Union of Petroleum Workers and Standard Oil of California. It provides a basic wage increase of 18½ cents an hour. That's the compromise figure Knight said would be acceptable instead of the 25-cent raise sought originally on the current $2 to $2.10 hourly rate.

The contract worked out in Los Angeles also calls for increased shift differentials of 6, 7½ and 12 cents an hour. That's the union

Sentiment Grows for Easing Down Payments on Houses

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Sentiment is growing in some government circles for an easing of down payment requirements on houses in the medium and upper price brackets, which have not been selling too well.

Several members of the Federal Reserve Board, which administers Regulation X over housing credit, favor the move, it was learned today.

The board is surveying the prospects and will talk things over with Raymond Foley, housing and home finance administrator, who would have to concur. The housing agency was reported cooler toward the proposal than some reserve board memebers.

A final decision is expected in the next few weeks.

Regulation X now requires a sliding scale of down payments starting at $1,550 for a conventional loan on an $8,000 house and zooming to 50 per cent down on all houses above $24,500

Loans guaranteed by the government for veterans carry smaller down payments, from $750 on an $8,000 house to 45 per cent for houses above $24,500.

Some board members think the present scale has some lumps in it, with down payments increasing out of proportion to the price on homes of $15,000 and above.

These members say one-third down payment would be an adequate requirement for the highest-priced home. Starting downward from this point, they would install a lower and more even scale of down payment requirements until they approached the present scale at about the $15,000 class.

Under the present regulation, for an $18,000 house, on conventional loans the down payment is $6,700 and on GI loans $5,800. Thus a house costing $10,000 more than the $8,000 class carries more than half of the difference—more than $5,000—included in the down payment.

The housing market as a whole is booming, but surveys by the reserve board show that sales of

Industry Statements Are Opener

Courses Are Open

Some Alternatives May Leave Big Point Out in Final Answer

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Arguments on the legality of President Truman's seizure of the steel mills began before the Supreme Court at 11:22 a. m. (EST) today.

John W. Davis, speaking for six major steel companies led off for the industry in its efforts to have the high tribunal uphold District Judge David A. Pine's ruling last month that the seizure was unlawful.

Philip B. Perlman, solicitor general and acting attorney general, awaited his turn to plead for a reversal of Pine's decision.

All Seats Occupied

All of the approximately 300 seats in the high domed, marble-pillared court room were occupied when the court convened at 11 a. m. Would-be spectators formed in the corridors.

The front-row seats were reserved for attorneys, members of Congress and other dignitaries.

The court's ruling, whenever it comes, will be of historic importance.

But the big question—whether the President has inherent powers under the constitution to seize private industries in national emergencies—may go unanswered because of the various alternative courses open to the high tribunal.

Department's Argument

In fact, the Justice Department argued that the issue before the court was whether, "in dealing with an immediate crisis gravely threatening the continuance of the production of perhaps the most essential commodity of our present civilization, the President could take temporary action, of a type not prohibited by either the constitution or the statutes, to avert the imminent threat * * *

"We believe that the solution does not require the pressing of juristic principles to 'abstract extremes.' "

The brief concluded:

"We have demonstrated the non-constitutional grounds which, we believe, compel reversal. When the constitutional question is reached, there is ample authority to sustain the President's action."

The industry is asking the Supreme Court to uphold the April 29 decision of Federal Judge David A. Pine. Pine ruled that Truman's steel seizure order of April 8, issued to head off a strike was unconstitutional. He ordered the mills returned to their owners.

Reversal Is Asked

The Justice Department, supported by the CIO Steel Workers Union, is asking that Judge Pine's injunction against seizing the mills be reversed.

The court may rule only on the narrow issue of the injunction itself and not decide the broad problem of just how much unwritten power a president has to meet a national emergency. Or, back to the lower court for further arguments and findings.

There was no indication when the high court would hand down its decision. It could be within six days or not for months.

The court set aside six hours for the two sides to present their viewpoints, starting this afternoon.

The veteran attorneys representing the administration and the steel industry are basing their oral arguments on briefs filed with the court Saturday.

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's assertion that he won't campaign for the Republican presidential nomination appeared today to have left some of his supporters up in the air about future developments.

The New York governor, who denies he seeks any cabinet post but still is regarded as a possible Eisenhower appointee for secretary of state, discussed foreign policy issues with Secretary of State Acheson and Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter Saturday night during a break in the Gridiron Club dinner here.

Dewey indicated in yesterday's television interview that this was merely a casual meeting.

More Time Than Indicated

However, this reporter observed that Dewey spent much more time with Acheson and Frankfurter than he indicated to the TV audience. Also, there was no one else to be seen in the room except a hotel attendant and two reporters who wandered in by accident and returned outside the door. Dewey said there were 25 other persons within five feet of him and the conversation was "as secret as if we'd held it in Macy's window."

Eisenhower's apparent decision to sit out most of the rest of the pre-convention campaign is likely to result in a new barrage of demands by backers of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the general to speak out on the issues.

Taft has about wound up his pre-convention campaign and returns to work in the Senate today.

The Ohio senator contends he has in sight the support of half of the 1,206 convention votes,

Some Alternatives May Leave Big Point Out in Final Answer

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Arguments on the legality of President Truman's seizure of the steel mills began before the Supreme Court at 11:22 a. m. (EST) today.

John W. Davis, speaking for six major steel companies led off for the industry in its efforts to have the high tribunal uphold District Judge David A. Pine's ruling last month that the seizure was unlawful.

Philip B. Perlman, solicitor general and acting attorney general, awaited his turn to plead for a reversal of Pine's decision.

All Seats Occupied

All of the approximately 300 seats in the high domed, marble-pillared court room were occupied when the court convened at 11 a. m. Would-be spectators formed in the corridors.

The front-row seats were reserved for attorneys, members of Congress and other dignitaries.

The court's ruling, whenever it comes, will be of historic importance.

But the big question—whether the President has inherent powers under the constitution to seize private industries in national emergencies—may go unanswered because of the various alternative courses open to the high tribunal.

Department's Argument

In fact, the Justice Department argued that the issue before the court was whether, "in dealing with an immediate crisis gravely threatening the continuance of the production of perhaps the most essential commodity of our present civilization, the President could take temporary action, of a type not prohibited by either the constitution or the statutes, to avert the imminent threat * * *

"We believe that the solution does not require the pressing of juristic principles to 'abstract extremes.' "

The brief concluded:

"We have demonstrated the non-constitutional grounds which, we believe, compel reversal. When the constitutional question is reached, there is ample authority to sustain the President's action."

The industry is asking the Supreme Court to uphold the April 29 decision of Federal Judge David A. Pine. Pine ruled that Truman's steel seizure order of April 8, issued to head off a strike was unconstitutional. He ordered the mills returned to their owners.

Reversal Is Asked

The Justice Department, supported by the CIO Steel Workers Union, is asking that Judge Pine's injunction against seizing the mills be reversed.

The court may rule only on the narrow issue of the injunction itself and not decide the broad problem of just how much unwritten power a president has to meet a national emergency. Or, back to the lower court for further arguments and findings.

There was no indication when the high court would hand down its decision. It could be within six days or not for months.

The court set aside six hours for the two sides to present their viewpoints, starting this afternoon.

The veteran attorneys representing the administration and the steel industry are basing their oral arguments on briefs filed with the court Saturday.

Hit-Run Drivers Keep Police Busy Sunday; 1 Caught

Downtown Man Is Arrested After Car Hit Safety Zone Pole; Another Says Auto Damaged

Sunday was hit and run day in Kingston but not on the baseball field.

Police received five reports of drivers leaving the scenes of mishaps yesterday, and only one was caught and booked for an alleged violation.

Another variety of the hit and run was reported early today when a man who was treated for injuries at Kingston Hospital, said he was beaten by a man who got out of a sedan to attack him and then drove away.

A report at 2:20 a. m., Sunday said that George Dugan, 27, of 7 East Pierpont street was arrested by Officers William Hanley and James Harbeck on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident after the car he was driving allegedly struck and damaged a safety zone pole at Broadway and Albany avenue.

Picked Up on Warrant

All lights on that safety zone and the one at Albany avenue and Maiden Lane were reported out after the accident. Dugan was admitted to bail for appearance today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino. He failed to appear, and was picked up on a bench warrant for appearance in city court Tuesday morning.

Ten minutes later Dale Jackson of 24 East Union street said that as he was about to place his baby in his taxicab in front of the taxi office, 17 West Strand, the taxi

Water Board Holds Up Money Transfer To Public Works

The local water board today requested publication of the following resolution asking that its president and secretary withhold the signing of a check that would transfer $50,000 from water department funds to the public works department.

The resolution, adopted at a recent meeting, was offered by Commissioner John Schwenk and seconded by Commissioner Harry LeFever, Jr. It said:

"Whereas, in the judgment of the Board of Water Commissioners the amount of monies on hand and deposited to the credit of the Water Fund Account derived from water rates is insufficient to meet payrolls, contracted obligations, bonded debt retirement and interest on bonds and for the proper maintenance and management of the department, and to protect the city's investment in its water supply, it is hereby

"Resolved, That the President and Secretary of the Water Board be directed to withhold signing of a check transferring $50,000 from the Water Department Account to the Department of Public Works until the legality of the action of the mayor and common council authorizing the transfer of said funds can be determined, and it is further

"Resolved, That the president of the Board of Water Commissioners be authorized to employ legal counsel to advise the board in respect to the legality of the transfer of said funds and take such legal action in respect thereto as may be advisable."

Reds Attack in South

Pusan, Korea, May 12 (AP)—Police today said two South Korean policemen and one Communist guerrilla were killed Friday night when the Reds attacked the town of Hamyang 45 miles west of Pusan in deep South Korea. Police said the Reds, about 50 in number, attacked the town with mortars, rockets and machine guns. Police drove the attackers off and today were reported hot after them in the hills. The guerrillas joined another group of 50 Reds.

Would Limit Shipments

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R.-Calif.) today proposed that shipments of jet planes to American allies be limited to 10 per cent of the nation's production until the U. S. Air Force is fully equipped with jets. He offered this as an amendment to the $6,900,000,000 foreign aid bill now before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Zoning Board Rules Against Use of Site by Roofing Firm

Present use of the property at 75-77 Pine street, owned by Rudi Hohenberger and leased to the Henry A. Olsen, Inc., roofing concern for parking of motor trucks, storing of roofing equipment and materials "both in the interior and exterior of the building" has been declared in violation of the Kingston Zoning ordinance which was enacted on August 8, 1928.

Members of the Kingston Zoning Board, Joseph Avis, chairman, Fred J. Baker and Thomas F. Saccomvan, have made an order directing that such use be terminated on September 1, 1952. If respondents intend to review or appeal from the order of the Zoning Board to the Supreme Court, such appeal must be perfected within 60 days of the service of the order upon the respondents. The order is dated May 7, and has just been served.

A written complaint was made to the Zoning Board by Thomas W. Miller, Frank Lasher, Elizabeth A. Edmonston, Thomas A. Miller and several other residents of the area who brought the matter before the Zoning Zoard and against both Rudi Hohenberger, owner, and Henry A. Olsen, Inc., lessee, respondents.

The property was formerly used by the Heneph Corporation, manufacturers and distributors of drugs. That corporation was a family corporation and was in existence when the zoning ordinance was adopted in 1928. The property in question is located in a residential district.

Under the decision of the zoning board, which will have far reaching results and will establish a precedent for future rulings, it is stated that the respondents now occupying the premises have conducted a business without obtaining a "certificate of occupancy." The lessee operates a roofing construction business and maintains and stores "several trucks, and equipment used in the melting of tar and pitch which equipment is stored on the vacant lot adjoining the building and considerable supplies and materials are stored on the exterior of the building and by the general course of their

General Will Visit U. S. Prior to Going to Europe

Tokyo, May 12 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, who blocked the Communists in Korea and engineered the end of the Allied occupation of Japan, left today on his way to Europe to succeed Gen. Dwight Eisenhower as commander of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

It was only a year, a month and a day ago that Ridgway, soldier, diplomat and Pentagon trouble-shooter, took over from Gen. Douglas MacArthur as supreme commander of allied powers in Japan.

As he left he turned over his United Nations and Far Eastern commands to Gen. Mark Clark. Clark then kissed the young and charming Mrs. Ridgway goodbye and she walked up the pane ramp with her distinguished husband.

Coykendall Plans Part in Reunion

Columbia University Board Chairman to Attend KHS Reunion

FREDERICK COYKENDALL

Frederick Coykendall (Ulster Academy, 1888) is one of the prominent men returning to participate in the First Reunion of Kingston graduates on Friday, May 16. Chairman of the Columbia University Trustees and president of the Cornell Steamboat Company, he now resides at 1 West 72nd street, New York city.

Coykendall was born in Kingston, Nov. 23, 1872, son of the late Samuel Decker and Mary Augusta Cornell Coykendall. Receiving his early education at Ulster Academy and Columbia Grammar School in New York, he entered Columbia College in 1891 and received the A.B. degree in 1895, graduating with Phi Beta Kappa honors. In 1897 he received degrees of civil engineering and master of arts.

Has Varied Life

He became secretary of the Cornell Steamboat Company in 1897, manager in 1900 and president in 1913. He became associated with Columbia University Press in 1921, was made director in 1926 and president in 1946. He has also served as vice president and a director of Duttons, Inc., and was vice president and a director of the old Rhinecliff and Kingston Ferry Company.

He served for 12 years after graduation as a member of the standing committee of the Association of the Alumni of Columbia College, has been treasurer and member of the board of governors of Columbia University Club, was later president of the

Stanley Costello, 51, Is Victim of Skidding Accident South of Circle

Stanley Costello, 50, of 378 Main street, Poughkeepsie, was instantly killed about 5:30 a. m. today when his automobile skidded into the path of a tractor-trailer on Route 9W two miles south of the Highland traffic circle, state police reported.

Costello, an engineer employed by the New York State Department of Public Works, died of a fractured skull and crushed chest, troopers said. Coroner Ernest A. Kelly of Kingston investigated at the scene and issued a verdict of accidental death.

Alone in Car

Troopers said Costello was alone in his car, which they described as a "complete wreck" after it was actually "run over" by a milk tank tractor trailer owned by the Central Milk Haulers, Inc., of Norwich, and driven by Richard D. Miller, 26, of Morris.

Costello was driving north, passing a van type tractor trailer owned by the Continental Baking Company of Paterson, N. J., being operated in a northerly direction by William Elsaesser, Jr., 50, of Paterson.

Car Turns Sidewise

Costello apparently applied his brakes as he was abreast of the other vehicle, and his 1948 sedan skidded on the wet pavement, turning sidewise into the path of the southbound milk tanker, troopers said.

Both trucks were loaded at the time of the accident.

The highway at the point of the accident is of three lane macadam construction. Rain was falling and the road surface was wet, troopers said. No arrest was made.

State police of the Highland station in charge of Sgt. William Martin conducted the investigation. Sheriff Cluett Schantz was also notified.

All Nations Are Urged to Ease Use of Gas For Planes—Cars Feel Pinch

Denver, May 12 (AP)—With a major settlement for background, striking oil workers and company officials got ready for tomorrow's showdown meeting with the Wage Stabilization Board. The government goal: to halt the nationwide strike with its world-wide effects.

The United States and Britain asked all nations to conserve dwindling supplies of aviation gasoline. They warned global restrictions may follow.

Military flying is down to essentials. More civilian flights are suspended each day. Motorists are feeling the growing pinch. Three disastrous fires heightened the shortage.

O. A. Knight, president of the CIO Oil Workers International, largest of the 22 unions striking for higher wages, flew to Washington yesterday to prepare for the meeting called by the WSB.

Knight has said that, after months of postponement before the walkout started 13 days ago, the striking refinery and pipeline workers are determined not to work without a contract. There was no sign they had changed their mind.

Scattered Agreements Signed

Scattered agreements have been signed through the industry. But the first major agreement which union officials conceded might set a settlement pattern was okayed by workers yesterday.

It is between the Independent Union of Petroleum Workers and Standard Oil of California. It provides a basic wage increase of 18½ cents an hour. That's the compromise figure Knight said would be acceptable instead of the 25-cent raise sought originally on the current $2 to $2.10 hourly rate.

The contract worked out in Los Angeles also calls for increased shift differentials of 6, 7½ and 12 cents an hour. That's the union

Sentiment Grows for Easing Down Payments on Houses

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Sentiment is growing in some government circles for an easing of down payment requirements on houses in the medium and upper price brackets, which have not been selling too well.

Several members of the Federal Reserve Board, which administers Regulation X over housing credit, favor the move, it was learned today.

The board is surveying the prospects and will talk things over with Raymond Foley, housing and home finance administrator, who would have to concur. The housing agency was reported cooler toward the proposal than some reserve board memebers.

A final decision is expected in the next few weeks.

Regulation X now requires a sliding scale of down payments starting at $1,550 for a conventional loan on an $8,000 house and zooming to 50 per cent down on all houses above $24,500

Loans guaranteed by the government for veterans carry smaller down payments, from $750 on an $8,000 house to 45 per cent for houses above $24,500.

Some board members think the present scale has some lumps in it, with down payments increasing out of proportion to the price on homes of $15,000 and above.

These members say one-third down payment would be an adequate requirement for the highest-priced home. Starting downward from this point, they would install a lower and more even scale of down payment requirements until they approached the present scale at about the $15,000 class.

Under the present regulation, for an $18,000 house, on conventional loans the down payment is $6,700 and on GI loans $5,800. Thus a house costing $10,000 more than the $8,000 class carries more than half of the difference—more than $5,000—included in the down payment.

The housing market as a whole is booming, but surveys by the reserve board show that sales of

Uptown Merchants Set Store Hours For '52 Holidays

Members of the Kingston Merchants Association (Uptown) at a meeting this noon voted to keep their stores open until 9 p. m. on Thursday, May 29, and on Thursday, July 3.

The vote of 33 for to three opposed was taken on a motion offered to have evening hours for the convenience of the customers on the nights before the two holidays, Memorial Day and Independence Day, which this year fal. on Friday. The stores will be closed on the two holidays.

Clyde Wonderly, Jr., president of the association, presided at the meeting, held at the Kirkland Hotel.

Parking Discussed

The problem of adequate parking in the uptown area was again discussed. Several sites are being considered by the committee, and according to President Wonderly definite recommendations, including the approximate cost of providing additional facilities, will be made at the group's next meeting.

The association also voted to draft a letter to Postmaster William R. Kraft, asking a new location for the uptown post office and recommending that the Post Office Department accept the bid submitted by the Old First Dutch Church on a building to be erected, if the bid is accepted, adjacent to the church's former parsonage at 52 Main street. A letter from the American Red Cross asking support of the Armed Forces Blood program was read.

167 C of C Renewals Are Paid for Year

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce has already received payment for 167 membership renewals for the 1952-53 fiscal year starting May 1. J. Ellis Briggs, chairman of the membership committee said, "this early return approaches 50 per cent of the members billed for their annual dues at this time. Our committee appreciates this prompt voluntary renewal by mail. It saves a lot of time and money otherwise required in making personal contacts."

"Our committee will make an effort to secure a total paid-up membership of at least 500 this year," Briggs said today. "We are preparing a prospect list and expect, with the help of about 25 committeemen, to call on the prospects." "Many members take out duplicate memberships, as additional support," Briggs said, "above the minimum annual dues of $25, as a larger investment in community progress. The support usually represents the importance of any business or industry in the community."

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce will take place Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., at the Governor Clinton Hotel. President Lawrence J. MacAvery requests a full attendance.

In making this announcement today President MacAvery also said that the first open membership meeting of the year will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 8 p. m., Monday, May 19. Notices will be mailed to all members. Brief reports will be given and all members will have the opportunity to suggest activities in which the Kingston Chamber of Commerce should interest itself. MacAvery said, "We are anxious to develop the kind of a program desired by the members who support the Chamber. Only by getting suggestions can we do this and every member will have this opportunity next Monday night."

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 12 (AP)—The stock market made little headway today. Prices were a pretty even mixture of gains and losses. Trading was very quiet.

The lack of activity was noticeable right from the opening bell. The usual accumulation of weekend orders was absent.

Most of the price changes were in fractions.

Quiet sessions have been the rule of late and many traders felt the dullness would crop up frequently until the Supreme Court has ruled on legality of government seizure of the steel mills.

Spotters Will Be Fingerprinted Tonight

Mrs. George Matthews, chief observer of the Kingston Ground Observation Post, announced that all persons who have volunteered for duty as spotters and who have not yet been fingerprinted should report to the Civil Defense office in the city hall between 7 and 9 o'clock tonight to have their fingerprints taken.

It is necessary that all spotters who go on active duty when the post opens May 17 have their fingerprints recorded, she said.

Men are still needed to fill the midnight to 6 a. m. shifts, Mrs. George Dewey Logan, post supervisor, revealed today. Any volunteers may also report tonight to the Civil Defense office, she said.

400 Make Plans To Attend First Reunion of KHS

At least 400 graduates of Kingston High School and its predecessor academies have already notified committee members that they will attend the first reunion to be held here May 16 as one of the events marking Kingston's 300th Anniversary.

The committee expects that hundreds of others—particularly those who still live in Kingston—will show up at the reunion without giving advance notice.

The general reunion will be held Friday at the municipal auditorium in conjunction with the high schools annual May Day exercises. On Saturday and Sunday individual classes may plan their own get-togethers, and indications are that many of them are already preparing for dinners or parties.

1883 Representatives Due

The reunion was planned for the classes up to and including 1935 from Kingston Academy, Ulster Academy, Ponckhockie Union School and Kingston High School. Classes as early as 1883 are expected to be represented.

Among the prominent graduates now residing outside the city who have already signified their intention of attending are Frederick Coykendall (Ulster Academy, 1888), chairman of the Columbia University Trustees, New York city, and Ross S. Vogt (KHS, 1924) mayor of Ridgefield Park, N. J.

The graduates will meet under their class banners at the stadium at 2 p. m. Friday, May 16. They will parade part way around the cinder track, and as each class passes the reviewing stand, an announcer will mention the statistics and some of the outstanding personalities of the class.

Automobiles will be provided for those graduates unable to walk in the parade.

Will Witness Exercises

The graduates will then take seats in the grandstand, from where they will watch the May Day exercises.

If it rains, the graduates will meet at 2 p. m. in the municipal auditorium. The May Day exercises, however, will not be held until Monday morning.

These plans were developed at a meeting last week at the high school, attended by 35 persons on the first reunion committee. Clarence S. Rowland, general chairman, presided. School chairmen include County Judge John M. Cashin, Kingston Academy; Eugene B. Carey, Ulster Academy; Dr. Arthur M. Cragin, Ponckhockie Union School, and Bert Bishop, Kingston High School. Also on the committee is John Henry Martin, principal of KHS. The remainedr of the committee consists of a chairman for each graduating class in the period covered.

With the reunion scheduled for Friday afternoon, the way was left open for each class to schedule any dinners, luncheons, dances, gab fests or parties during the weekend for those who elect to remain in the city.

The general committee decided to leave the arrangements for such gatherings in the hands of each class chairman. Any announcements of plans of that nature will also be made by the individual chairmen.

The Governor Clinton Hotel has been selected as reunion headquarters. The committee has announced that the hotel lounge will be reserved for Friday afternoon for any informal get-togethers, and the hotel facilities will be available for meals, special luncheons and dinners.

Says Idea Fantastic

Washington, ay 12 (AP)—Admiral William M. Fechteler said today the idea that the western allies might be "completely run out of Europe is so fantastic" that he had never given it much consideration. The chief of naval operations expressed this view in a Pentagon news conference which was devoted largely to questions based upon a French newspaper article last week. The paper Le Monde said Fechteler, who recently visited the Atlantic Treaty nations, had made a secret report saying the Russians and their satellites could quickly overrun western Europe.

Yanks' Morgan Accepted

New York, May 12 (AP)—Tom Morgan, 21-year-old New York Yankee pitcher, today was accepted for army service. The date of his call to service will depend on his local draft board at El Monte, Calif.

Murray Street Man Held as Prowler

Frank Smith, 51, of 108 Murray street, was arrested early Sunday on a disorderly conduct charge following two reports that a prowler was active in the Hoffman street area.

City Judge Raymond J. Mino sentenced Smith to 10 days in jail when he was arraigned today.

The first report that a prowler was loitering in a Hoffman street yard came at 12:40 a. m.

Officers Charles Hoehing and John Crespino went to the scene, picked up a man, but the complainant was unable to identify him. About 10 minutes later a second call for police said a prowler was again active, and Smith was arrested.

Police headquarters received another report of a prowler on Post street but a tour of the area by officers brought no results.

Four Thefts Are Told to Police; $250 Is Looted

Four thefts were reported to the police over the weekend and today.

Mrs. Anthony Erena, proprietor of the Junior Deb Shoppe, Wall and Main streets, reported at 1:40 p. m. Saturday that about $250 was taken from a purse which she had left in the back of the shop.

The money was taken, she indicated, by someone who was trying on a dress and a definite suspect is to be questioned.

Food Taken at MJM

The theft of a small amount of food from a refrigerator in the MYM school, apparently over the weekend, was reported at 7:19 a. m., today.

Officers Leonard Ellsworth and Carl Janasiewicz were sent to investigate and reported that entrance was gained through a window. It was indicated that the person or persons involved had gone through a lot of truble to get into the building but took only part of the food in the refrigerator.

The Guarantee Auto Parts, 682 Broadway reported at 1 p. m., Saturday that a spare wheel and tire valued at $60 had been taken from a truck parked behind the store. The theft was apparently committed Friday night, the report said.

James Sass, of 142 Hunter street, reported at 11:15 a. m., Sunday that a camera was taken from his car while it was parked on Fair street Saturday night near the Senate House Museum.

Detective Clarence Brophy was assigned to investigate the thefts.

Four Persons Hurt In 9W Accident

Four persons received minor injuries in an automobile accident on Route 9W a half mile south of Marlborough about 10:15 p. m. Sunday, state police reported.

Harry G. Leathem, 57, of North Bergen, N. J., suffered contusions to the nose and a rib injury; his wife, Elizabeth, 54, son, Robert, 14, and a passenger, Florence Georgetti, 18, also of North Bergen, received minor contusions and abrasions, troopers said. They told troopers they would seek medical treatment later.

The state police report listed Leathem as the driver of an automobile which ran into the rear of a new curbside truck which was coupled to another truck being driven by Frank Rockwell, Jr., 27, of Granite Court, Kingston. The trucks had stopped along the highway after one of them lost a wheel, troopers said. They were owned by the J. B. E. Olson Corp., Athens, and were being transported to Maryland by the Dealers Transporting Company of Brooklyn, troopers said. The rear ends of both trucks received minor damage, and the entire front end of Leathem's automobile was damaged, according to the report. No arrests were made.

Grogan to Give Answers on Union

John J. Grogan, national president of the Shipbuilders Union CIO, will be in the city tomorrow to answer questions by local shipyard employes and give a radio address between 7:15 and 7:30 p. m., it was announced today.

Grogan's visit here will be in conjunction with the union election to be held May 15 at which time the area shipyard workers will decide whether they favor affiliation with the AFL or CIO.

A former New Jersey state assemblyman, Grogan is now a commissioner in the City of Hoboken. He was scheduled to confer in Washington today with E. L. Cochrane, chief of the U. S. Maritime Administration, on a bill affecting the long-range shipbuilding program.

It was announced today that the CIO Shipbuilders Union is negotiating with the Bethlehem Steel Co., for a wage increase of 20 cents above the present rate of $1.80 an hour for skilled workmen, along with proposed changes in working conditions, health and welfare benefits. About 32,000 workers in this company are affected.

Ridgway Departs

left at 3:09 p. m. (1:09 a. m., EST) for Honolulu.

At Haneda airport were diplomats and high brass. The crowd cheered when Ridgway said from the plane ramp:

"I am deeply honored by this ceremony. To see the armed forces lined up side by side seems to me not only a tribute of purpose but also of the peoples they represent and all the free people of the world.

"I have complete and unshakeable faith in this command. Both Mrs. Ridgway and I want to express our heartfelt thanks for your services and our best wishes to you always."

The Ridgways, Clark and Japanese Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida had walked shoulder to shoulder to the plane.

Ridgway will travel via Honolulu and San Francisco to Washington, where he will confer with President Truman before proceeding to his NATO command.

Sentiment Grows

houses costing $15,000 and more are relatively slow.

There were almost 100,000 housing starts in March, the second highest mark on record. Original estimates of 800,000 starts this year are being revised upward to more than one million.

Because of this tendency toward a boom situation, the board will examine the prospects carefully and any changes probably will be considered moderate by the board.

Spokesmen for realtors and builders, however, say the proposed changes would be a big help to them in selling medium and high-priced homes.

Board members said the proposed new scale would have little effect on total mortgage credit, or inflation, but would remove some inequities.

Is Reported Missing

Thomas Peoples, of 281 North street, reported to the police at 5:10 p. m., Saturday that his daughter, Nazarene Peoples, 17, was missing from home. She was described as about five feet tall, weighs 130 pounds and was wearing dungarees and carrying a red overnight bag when she left.

Uptown Merchants Set Store Hours For '52 Holidays

Members of the Kingston Merchants Association (Uptown) at a meeting this noon voted to keep their stores open until 9 p. m. on Thursday, May 29, and on Thursday, July 3.

The vote of 33 for to three opposed was taken on a motion offered to have evening hours for the convenience of the customers on the nights before the two holidays, Memorial Day and Independence Day, which this year fal. on Friday. The stores will be closed on the two holidays.

Clyde Wonderly, Jr., president of the association, presided at the meeting, held at the Kirkland Hotel.

Parking Discussed

The problem of adequate parking in the uptown area was again discussed. Several sites are being considered by the committee, and according to President Wonderly definite recommendations, including the approximate cost of providing additional facilities, will be made at the group's next meeting.

The association also voted to draft a letter to Postmaster William R. Kraft, asking a new location for the uptown post office and recommending that the Post Office Department accept the bid submitted by the Old First Dutch Church on a building to be erected, if the bid is accepted, adjacent to the church's former parsonage at 52 Main street. A letter from the American Red Cross asking support of the Armed Forces Blood program was read.

167 C of C Renewals Are Paid for Year

The Kingston Chamber of Commerce has already received payment for 167 membership renewals for the 1952-53 fiscal year starting May 1. J. Ellis Briggs, chairman of the membership committee said, "this early return approaches 50 per cent of the members billed for their annual dues at this time. Our committee appreciates this prompt voluntary renewal by mail. It saves a lot of time and money otherwise required in making personal contacts."

"Our committee will make an effort to secure a total paid-up membership of at least 500 this year," Briggs said today. "We are preparing a prospect list and expect, with the help of about 25 committeemen, to call on the prospects." "Many members take out duplicate memberships, as additional support," Briggs said, "above the minimum annual dues of $25, as a larger investment in community progress. The support usually represents the importance of any business or industry in the community."

The regular monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce will take place Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., at the Governor Clinton Hotel. President Lawrence J. MacAvery requests a full attendance.

In making this announcement today President MacAvery also said that the first open membership meeting of the year will be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel at 8 p. m., Monday, May 19. Notices will be mailed to all members. Brief reports will be given and all members will have the opportunity to suggest activities in which the Kingston Chamber of Commerce should interest itself. MacAvery said, "We are anxious to develop the kind of a program desired by the members who support the Chamber. Only by getting suggestions can we do this and every member will have this opportunity next Monday night."

Financial and Commercial

New York, May 12 (AP)—The stock market made little headway today. Prices were a pretty even mixture of gains and losses. Trading was very quiet.

The lack of activity was noticeable right from the opening bell. The usual accumulation of weekend orders was absent.

Most of the price changes were in fractions.

Quiet sessions have been the rule of late and many traders felt the dullness would crop up frequently until the Supreme Court has ruled on legality of government seizure of the steel mills.

Spotters Will Be Fingerprinted Tonight

Mrs. George Matthews, chief observer of the Kingston Ground Observation Post, announced that all persons who have volunteered for duty as spotters and who have not yet been fingerprinted should report to the Civil Defense office in the city hall between 7 and 9 o'clock tonight to have their fingerprints taken.

It is necessary that all spotters who go on active duty when the post opens May 17 have their fingerprints recorded, she said.

Men are still needed to fill the midnight to 6 a. m. shifts, Mrs. George Dewey Logan, post supervisor, revealed today. Any volunteers may also report tonight to the Civil Defense office, she said.

400 Make Plans To Attend First Reunion of KHS

At least 400 graduates of Kingston High School and its predecessor academies have already notified committee members that they will attend the first reunion to be held here May 16 as one of the events marking Kingston's 300th Anniversary.

The committee expects that hundreds of others—particularly those who still live in Kingston—will show up at the reunion without giving advance notice.

The general reunion will be held Friday at the municipal auditorium in conjunction with the high schools annual May Day exercises. On Saturday and Sunday individual classes may plan their own get-togethers, and indications are that many of them are already preparing for dinners or parties.

1883 Representatives Due

The reunion was planned for the classes up to and including 1935 from Kingston Academy, Ulster Academy, Ponckhockie Union School and Kingston High School. Classes as early as 1883 are expected to be represented.

Among the prominent graduates now residing outside the city who have already signified their intention of attending are Frederick Coykendall (Ulster Academy, 1888), chairman of the Columbia University Trustees, New York city, and Ross S. Vogt (KHS, 1924) mayor of Ridgefield Park, N. J.

The graduates will meet under their class banners at the stadium at 2 p. m. Friday, May 16. They will parade part way around the cinder track, and as each class passes the reviewing stand, an announcer will mention the statistics and some of the outstanding personalities of the class.

Automobiles will be provided for those graduates unable to walk in the parade.

Will Witness Exercises

The graduates will then take seats in the grandstand, from where they will watch the May Day exercises.

If it rains, the graduates will meet at 2 p. m. in the municipal auditorium. The May Day exercises, however, will not be held until Monday morning.

These plans were developed at a meeting last week at the high school, attended by 35 persons on the first reunion committee. Clarence S. Rowland, general chairman, presided. School chairmen include County Judge John M. Cashin, Kingston Academy; Eugene B. Carey, Ulster Academy; Dr. Arthur M. Cragin, Ponckhockie Union School, and Bert Bishop, Kingston High School. Also on the committee is John Henry Martin, principal of KHS. The remainedr of the committee consists of a chairman for each graduating class in the period covered.

With the reunion scheduled for Friday afternoon, the way was left open for each class to schedule any dinners, luncheons, dances, gab fests or parties during the weekend for those who elect to remain in the city.

The general committee decided to leave the arrangements for such gatherings in the hands of each class chairman. Any announcements of plans of that nature will also be made by the individual chairmen.

The Governor Clinton Hotel has been selected as reunion headquarters. The committee has announced that the hotel lounge will be reserved for Friday afternoon for any informal get-togethers, and the hotel facilities will be available for meals, special luncheons and dinners.

Says Idea Fantastic

Washington, ay 12 (AP)—Admiral William M. Fechteler said today the idea that the western allies might be "completely run out of Europe is so fantastic" that he had never given it much consideration. The chief of naval operations expressed this view in a Pentagon news conference which was devoted largely to questions based upon a French newspaper article last week. The paper Le Monde said Fechteler, who recently visited the Atlantic Treaty nations, had made a secret report saying the Russians and their satellites could quickly overrun western Europe.

Murray Street Man Held as Prowler

Frank Smith, 51, of 108 Murray street, was arrested early Sunday on a disorderly conduct charge following two reports that a prowler was active in the Hoffman street area.

City Judge Raymond J. Mino sentenced Smith to 10 days in jail when he was arraigned today.

The first report that a prowler was loitering in a Hoffman street yard came at 12:40 a. m.

Officers Charles Hoehing and John Crespino went to the scene, picked up a man, but the complainant was unable to identify him. About 10 minutes later a second call for police said a prowler was again active, and Smith was arrested.

Police headquarters received another report of a prowler on Post street but a tour of the area by officers brought no results.

Four Thefts Are Told to Police; $250 Is Looted

Four thefts were reported to the police over the weekend and today.

Mrs. Anthony Erena, proprietor of the Junior Deb Shoppe, Wall and Main streets, reported at 1:40 p. m. Saturday that about $250 was taken from a purse which she had left in the back of the shop.

The money was taken, she indicated, by someone who was trying on a dress and a definite suspect is to be questioned.

Food Taken at MJM

The theft of a small amount of food from a refrigerator in the MYM school, apparently over the weekend, was reported at 7:19 a. m., today.

Officers Leonard Ellsworth and Carl Janasiewicz were sent to investigate and reported that entrance was gained through a window. It was indicated that the person or persons involved had gone through a lot of truble to get into the building but took only part of the food in the refrigerator.

The Guarantee Auto Parts, 682 Broadway reported at 1 p. m., Saturday that a spare wheel and tire valued at $60 had been taken from a truck parked behind the store. The theft was apparently committed Friday night, the report said.

James Sass, of 142 Hunter street, reported at 11:15 a. m., Sunday that a camera was taken from his car while it was parked on Fair street Saturday night near the Senate House Museum.

Detective Clarence Brophy was assigned to investigate the thefts.

Four Persons Hurt In 9W Accident

Four persons received minor injuries in an automobile accident on Route 9W a half mile south of Marlborough about 10:15 p. m. Sunday, state police reported.

Harry G. Leathem, 57, of North Bergen, N. J., suffered contusions to the nose and a rib injury; his wife, Elizabeth, 54, son, Robert, 14, and a passenger, Florence Georgetti, 18, also of North Bergen, received minor contusions and abrasions, troopers said. They told troopers they would seek medical treatment later.

The state police report listed Leathem as the driver of an automobile which ran into the rear of a new curbside truck which was coupled to another truck being driven by Frank Rockwell, Jr., 27, of Granite Court, Kingston. The trucks had stopped along the highway after one of them lost a wheel, troopers said. They were owned by the J. B. E. Olson Corp., Athens, and were being transported to Maryland by the Dealers Transporting Company of Brooklyn, troopers said. The rear ends of both trucks received minor damage, and the entire front end of Leathem's automobile was damaged, according to the report. No arrests were made.

Grogan to Give Answers on Union

John J. Grogan, national president of the Shipbuilders Union CIO, will be in the city tomorrow to answer questions by local shipyard employes and give a radio address between 7:15 and 7:30 p. m., it was announced today.

Grogan's visit here will be in conjunction with the union election to be held May 15 at which time the area shipyard workers will decide whether they favor affiliation with the AFL or CIO.

A former New Jersey state assemblyman, Grogan is now a commissioner in the City of Hoboken. He was scheduled to confer in Washington today with E. L. Cochrane, chief of the U. S. Maritime Administration, on a bill affecting the long-range shipbuilding program.

It was announced today that the CIO Shipbuilders Union is negotiating with the Bethlehem Steel Co., for a wage increase of 20 cents above the present rate of $1.80 an hour for skilled workmen, along with proposed changes in working conditions, health and welfare benefits. About 32,000 workers in this company are affected.

Ridgway Departs

left at 3:09 p. m. (1:09 a. m., EST) for Honolulu.

At Haneda airport were diplomats and high brass. The crowd cheered when Ridgway said from the plane ramp:

"I am deeply honored by this ceremony. To see the armed forces lined up side by side seems to me not only a tribute of purpose but also of the peoples they represent and all the free people of the world.

"I have complete and unshakeable faith in this command. Both Mrs. Ridgway and I want to express our heartfelt thanks for your services and our best wishes to you always."

The Ridgways, Clark and Japanese Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida had walked shoulder to shoulder to the plane.

Ridgway will travel via Honolulu and San Francisco to Washington, where he will confer with President Truman before proceeding to his NATO command.

Sentiment Grows

houses costing $15,000 and more are relatively slow.

There were almost 100,000 housing starts in March, the second highest mark on record. Original estimates of 800,000 starts this year are being revised upward to more than one million.

Because of this tendency toward a boom situation, the board will examine the prospects carefully and any changes probably will be considered moderate by the board.

Spokesmen for realtors and builders, however, say the proposed changes would be a big help to them in selling medium and high-priced homes.

Board members said the proposed new scale would have little effect on total mortgage credit, or inflation, but would remove some inequities.

Is Reported Missing

Thomas Peoples, of 281 North street, reported to the police at 5:10 p. m., Saturday that his daughter, Nazarene Peoples, 17, was missing from home. She was described as about five feet tall, weighs 130 pounds and was wearing dungarees and carrying a red overnight bag when she left.

Wyoming Coed Found on Prairie

Laramie, Wyo., May 12 (AP)—A University of Wyoming coed, apparently left for dead by a brutal assailant, was found unconscious yesterday on a lonely prairie north of here.

The girl, Virginia Anderson, 24, Mauston, Wis., is in critical condition from a head injury, shock and exposure. She was still unconscious today.

Sheriff Ted Burnstad theorized she was the victim of an attempted rape but said his office "is without a clue or lead." She had been missing since late Friday.

A medical examination showed no signs of rape, Burnstad said, but her underclothing had been ripped off. Her legs, knees and ankles were cut and scratched, indicating she had been dragged along the ground.

Girl, 8, Is Killed

Teaneck, N. J., May 12 (AP)—The eight-year-old daughter of television entertainer Texas Jim Robertson was struck and killed last night by a hit-and-run car as she crossed a street here. Police said little Lucy Robertson and an 11-year-old boy were crossing Teaneck road near Route 4 when the car hit her. The boy was uninjured. Robertson, a singer, was visiting friends here with his family when the mishap occurred. The Robertson's home is in Nyack, N. Y.

Measles Are Reported

St. John's, Newfoundland, May 12 (AP)—A U. S. Air Force plane from Pepperell Air Base near here flew medical supplies to Goose Bay, Labrador, yesterday to combat a measles epidemic in an isolated Eskimo community. The mercy flight was made after a missionary radioed a request for help in fighting the disease outbreak at Nain, 250 miles north of Goose Bay.

The present Aga Khan, Moslem leader, is third of his immediate line.

Run When It Will Benefit You

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Would you please write me when to 'run for the barn' in the play at Samba?" requests an Evanston correspondent.

"I contend," the letter continues, "that when your partner has to strip his hand to go down, when the opponents have three or four long sequences on the table and your side can't get started, or when your opponents get control of the discard pile—you should make a dash for out.

"Under what other circumstances should you run?"

In general, you should run for the barn whenever you think that prolonging the hand will permit the opponents to benefit more than your side does. If you have the advantage, keep the hand alive; if the enemy have the advantage, try to meld out quickly.

It may take a bit of thinking to see which side has the advantage, but the signs are usually very clear. My correspondent has listed a few of them.

If your partner has to use a large number of cards to make the initial meld from his hand, it is usually a sign that he is giving up the discard pile to the enemy. He wants to get out from under; and it will do you no good to tug one way when he is obviously tugging the other way.

This is not invariably true, however. If your partner puts down one or two sequences as part of his initial meld, he may be suggesting that there are good chances of turning them into completed sambas.

In such a situation you can judge by noticing how many cards your partner has left in his hand; and you can estimate the probability that he has cards that will be useful in those sambas by remembering his previous discards.

Another important time to run is when the opponents are more skillful players than you and your partner. For example, suppose you happen to draw the worst player in the game as your partner.

It's foolish to go out for big winnings with a partner who may make a fatal blunder at any moment. Try for small winnings or small losses by going for a fast out on every hand.

Is it fair to your partner to meld out quickly in this way? It's your best chance to win, and your partner would rather win than lose. When your partner has gained more experience, you will be more adventurous; but caution is better until he has improved his game.

If you had to go to the hospital tomorrow—
How would you pay the bill?

Here's how 250,000 people in Greater New York had their bills for hospital services paid for them in full, last year!

When the unexpected accident or illness creates the unexpected hospital bill, as it does for 1 in 3 families every year, over 5,000,000 people in the New York area will be protected by Blue Cross.

In one year alone, New York's Blue Cross (Associated Hospital Service) saved $400 to $4,000 on hospital bills for each of 23,900 members. This shows that a great many people are faced with big hospital bills.

Blue Cross covers IN FULL . . . a wide range of hospital services!

In one year alone, New York's Blue Cross protection paid hospital service bills in full for 250,000 members. This is significant for two reasons. First, only Blue Cross provides for hospital care IN FULL in so many cases. Second, payment of so many bills helps dramatize the fact that every year, 1 in 3 families in Greater New York face hospital bills.

Why risk your savings and your peace of mind when Blue Cross offers such wonderful protection, for your entire family, at so little cost.

What the Blue Cross Plan does:

New York's Blue Cross Plan (Associated Hospital Service) PROVIDES IN FULL for a semi-private room and for a wide range of hospital services at any one of over 260 participating hospitals.

This full coverage is effective for the first 21 days, after which Blue Cross gives you an additional 180 days at a 50% discount. This full coverage applies to many essential services such as drugs, X-ray and laboratory services, oxygen, dressings and casts, operating room, etc., for members using private or semi-private rooms.

Blue Cross is easy to pay for!

Never does Blue Cross cost any one person as much as a subway ride per day . . . and for a family of 5, costs are about 3 cents per person per day.

Wyoming Coed Found on Prairie

Laramie, Wyo., May 12 (AP)—A University of Wyoming coed, apparently left for dead by a brutal assailant, was found unconscious yesterday on a lonely prairie north of here.

The girl, Virginia Anderson, 24, Mauston, Wis., is in critical condition from a head injury, shock and exposure. She was still unconscious today.

Sheriff Ted Burnstad theorized she was the victim of an attempted rape but said his office "is without a clue or lead." She had been missing since late Friday.

A medical examination showed no signs of rape, Burnstad said, but her underclothing had been ripped off. Her legs, knees and ankles were cut and scratched, indicating she had been dragged along the ground.

Girl, 8, Is Killed

Teaneck, N. J., May 12 (AP)—The eight-year-old daughter of television entertainer Texas Jim Robertson was struck and killed last night by a hit-and-run car as she crossed a street here. Police said little Lucy Robertson and an 11-year-old boy were crossing Teaneck road near Route 4 when the car hit her. The boy was uninjured. Robertson, a singer, was visiting friends here with his family when the mishap occurred. The Robertson's home is in Nyack, N. Y.

Measles Are Reported

St. John's, Newfoundland, May 12 (AP)—A U. S. Air Force plane from Pepperell Air Base near here flew medical supplies to Goose Bay, Labrador, yesterday to combat a measles epidemic in an isolated Eskimo community. The mercy flight was made after a missionary radioed a request for help in fighting the disease outbreak at Nain, 250 miles north of Goose Bay.

The present Aga Khan, Moslem leader, is third of his immediate line.

Run When It Will Benefit You

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"Would you please write me when to 'run for the barn' in the play at Samba?" requests an Evanston correspondent.

"I contend," the letter continues, "that when your partner has to strip his hand to go down, when the opponents have three or four long sequences on the table and your side can't get started, or when your opponents get control of the discard pile—you should make a dash for out.

"Under what other circumstances should you run?"

In general, you should run for the barn whenever you think that prolonging the hand will permit the opponents to benefit more than your side does. If you have the advantage, keep the hand alive; if the enemy have the advantage, try to meld out quickly.

It may take a bit of thinking to see which side has the advantage, but the signs are usually very clear. My correspondent has listed a few of them.

If your partner has to use a large number of cards to make the initial meld from his hand, it is usually a sign that he is giving up the discard pile to the enemy. He wants to get out from under; and it will do you no good to tug one way when he is obviously tugging the other way.

This is not invariably true, however. If your partner puts down one or two sequences as part of his initial meld, he may be suggesting that there are good chances of turning them into completed sambas.

In such a situation you can judge by noticing how many cards your partner has left in his hand; and you can estimate the probability that he has cards that will be useful in those sambas by remembering his previous discards.

Another important time to run is when the opponents are more skillful players than you and your partner. For example, suppose you happen to draw the worst player in the game as your partner.

It's foolish to go out for big winnings with a partner who may make a fatal blunder at any moment. Try for small winnings or small losses by going for a fast out on every hand.

Is it fair to your partner to meld out quickly in this way? It's your best chance to win, and your partner would rather win than lose. When your partner has gained more experience, you will be more adventurous; but caution is better until he has improved his game.

SMALL, MOBILE DEFENSE FORCE

Every sober-minded American recognizes that in building adequate defenses this country is trying to steer a difficult course between too little security and too heavy and lasting a drain upon the economy.

It is no contribution toward a solution of this problem to hack away at the military and foreign aid budget recklessly. Nor is it any better to propose astronomical sums for defense and then declare they should be immune to the pruner's knife.

What we are looking for in these times are genuinely constructive suggestions which show a full awareness of the basic dilemma. We are trying to avoid letting Joseph Stalin conquer America and its allies either directly by military assault or indirectly through the bankruptcy of this nation.

We got such a proposal when John Foster Dulles and others recommended that, instead of trying to defend every nook and cranny of the free world with foot soldiers, we create a highly mobile and powerful striking force to be held in strategic locations for swift dispatch to trouble zones.

This arrangement has obvious virtues both militarily and economically, since it would impart great flexibility to defensive operations while saving large numbers of men who otherwise would be committed to widely stretched border defense.

Now General Eisenhower has added another constructive thought. As reported in secret testimony given to a Senate committee in his behalf by General Gruenther, his NATO chief of staff, Eisenhower believes that we should place our reliance upon a relatively small active striking force—backed up by a very substantial and highly effective reserve force.

This proposal is in the same direction as the Dulles plan. Said Gruenther: "General Eisenhower's philosophy in meeting this (Russian) threat is that if we try to meet the Soviets division for division and plane for plane, we are going to lose the battle from the economic viewpoint."

This plan would avoid maintaining large, costly standing armies. It would avoid equipping them to the full with weapons which might easily be outmoded by the time a war began.

A relatively small force, if sufficiently strong and mobile, is not inconsistent with the hardest necessities of real security, provided also that it is buttressed by thoroughly trained reserves and an industrial capacity capable of a lightning shift to war goods to equip them.

From such sources as Dulles and Eisenhower and Senator Douglas of Illinois, we are getting fresh elements for a sensible, safe and financially feasible policy of defense.

It is fair to hope that the administration is taking full note of these proposals. They are an attempt to give not only American but Allied policy real substance and clear objectives. They are original, imaginative and contain the spark of positive leadership.

All but the most partisan administration supporters will concede we have not had too much of these qualities lately in the conduct of our foreign affairs.

Life in Russia must be truly exasperating. Only in Moscow and Leningrad is there television. If a resident there is lucky enough to have a set and if it should go on the blink he may have to wait days for its repair. There are but few repairmen, and spare parts are hard to get. And when finally it is fixed all he gets is what the government wants him to get.

HIGHWAYS' GRIM PROBLEMS

The National Safety Council throws out a statistic or two that should give us warning of peril on the highways in the months ahead.

Gasoline consumption in the United States for the first two months of 1952 is up 10 per cent over 1951. This figure is generally used by the Council in computing highway travel.

This 1952 increase, coming before vacation driving has really begun, presages the greatest total of travel miles in U. S. history. And since the death curve tends to follow the travel curve consistently, we may be in for a new high in motor traffic fatalities.

These deaths are the grimmest of all reminders that this country doesn't have its highway problems even half solved. When will we get around to facing up to this difficult situation?

CHAINING POWER

Thomas James Norton, an important scholar in the field of government, in his book, "Undermining The Constitution," says:

"The constitutional government of the United States is scientific. Science is defined as classified knowledge, or the conclusions which the classification compels. The causes of all the breakdowns of governments in history were gone over in the Constitutional Convention and it was concluded that law making, law enforcing, and law interpreting must be definitely in different hands. . . .

"All officials, state and national, were put under oath to support the Constitution and observe the boundaries to power specified in it. As far as could be, men with power were chained."

The problem that the founding fathers faced was the abuse of power. George III and his minister, Lord North, had abused power. Because of that, they lost the richest jewel in the British crown, the American colonies that subsequently became the United States.

Those who wrote our Constitution realized that the day might come when the United States itself would find power abused by officials chosen by the electorate. They sought to avert such a condition, but Jefferson once wrote of the Constitution: "It would still have one fault in my eye, that of perpetual re-eligibility of the President."

The American people have corrected this fault by the Twenty-Second Amendment to the Constitution, which limits the President to two terms. This amendment became necessary because Franklin D. Roosevelt had violated the unwritten tradition established by George Washington of a two-term limitation.

However, the two-term limitation can have an effect contrary to that desired, namely, that the President, not seeking public approval, may, if he is not restrained by morals, act irresponsibly. This spectacle, we are, in a measure, now witnessing in the President's claim to unlimited power, which has had to go to the Supreme Court for decision.

The method by which the President is chosen is of very great importance, as in it is involved what Alexander Hamilton called cabal, intrigue, corruption. In 1932, the principal Democratic contestants for the Presidency were: Alfred E. Smith, Newton D. Baker, Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Nance Garner. The most popular candidate was Al Smith; the most skillful manager was James A. Farley.

It is no secret that Franklin D. Roosevelt was nominated through the influence of William Randolph Hearst. Henry L. Stoddard, in "It Costs to Be President," recited the following:

". . . Paul Block, the well-known publisher, and I sat in his room for a good-night exchange of opinion. He then said that he had been talking over the telephone with 'W. R.' and that a deal had been arranged by which the 69 Texas and California delegates, after complimenting Garner on two or three ballots, would swing to Roosevelt. He added that Garner would go on the ticket as vice president and McAdoo was to have no opposition in California for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

"The news was in confidence, however, for Hearst, of course, had no power to release delegates pledged to any candidate. That was for Garner and McAdoo to do. Hearst, however, undertook to talk with both of them and with Mayor Cermak of Chicago, who controlled the Illinois delegation. He persuaded all three that after a few ballots they should turn to Roosevelt, and they did."

This, in effect, nullified the convention. It was similar to the nomination of Warren G. Harding through the influence of Colonel George Harvey in the smoke-filled hotel room. In the 1940 convention, Thomas Lamont and the National Association of Manufacturers put over a former member of Tammany Hall, Wendell Willkie, on the Republican Party.

In fact, anyone who attends the convention of either party, which this year will be on television, knows that debate, discussion, due consideration is impossible. Starting slowly and dully, the convention moves, in a crescendo, to the roar of a circus.

The delegates shout and shriek and march about in mass pandemonium. They even hire actors to help them in their antics and I presume, now that television has been added, there will be the usual models in differing degrees of undress. In this raucous atmosphere, few men can deliberate. So, the more serious-minded gather in hotel rooms to transact their business and the telephone becames a more important instrument of the people's will than the chosen delegate.

FACIAL PARALYSIS

Some years ago I noticed a university student whose face was pulled all to one side. There were no symptoms present at the time — no lameness or other sign of paralysis — so I suspected Bell's palsy. I discovered that this had been diagnosed by his own physician, who had assured him that he would soon be well and there were not likely to be any after effects.

In The Lancet, London, Drs. J. A. James and W. R. Russell state that facial paralysis was recognized by Dr. Bell in 1821. The term Bell's palsy is now generally used for facial paralysis of the peripheral or surface type, and of acute onset, for which no local cause is found.

It often develops when the victim is feeling perfectly well and evidence of general infection is seldom found, though the palsy often follows an infection of nose and throat. Exposure to a draft may suddenly bring on an attack. In he case of my student friend, infection of one of his back teeth was blamed. Drs. James and Russell state that "the actual paralysis is sometimes preceded by some aching pain referred to the mastoid region (the big lump behind the ear). Pain below the ear may persist for some days after the paralysis appears. There is great variety in the amount of drooping of the paralyzed side of the face."

The disease usually takes one of two courses: (1) Recovery begins within one to three weeks and is complete in four to six weeks. This shows a passing or temporary block of the facial nerve; (2) the muscles remain completely paralyzed for two or more months during which time the electrical reactions show that the facial nerve has degenerated. Usually recovery takes place slowly at an interval of three to nine months from onset.

These two types of facial paralysis occurred with about equal frequency in the 58 cases of Bell's palsy observed in the outpatient department of these physicians' hospital.

"Treatment can be effective only if started within a few hours after onset of the palsy," the doctors tell us.

Bell's palsy is not the dangerous type of paralysis.

The Skeptics

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — When the nine black-robed justices of the Supreme Court assemble today, they will not hear arguments merely on seizure of the steel mills. They will also have echoing in the background of the court chamber 150 years of argument over the same vital question of the President's power and where does it stop.

They will likewise have as precedents at least four famed Republicans who did pretty much the same thing as Mr. Truman, Democrat.

It's possible that the Supreme Court may try to duck this basic issue. If so, they have an easy way out. They can cite their own opinion in 1867 when the state of Mississippi sought an injunction against President Andrew Johnson to prevent him from "reconstructing" Mississippi's government, and when the court ruled that no court has the power to enjoin the President of the United States.

Therefore, the Supreme Court today, citing this, could find that Judge Pine had no right to enjoin Secretary of Commerce Sawyer who was carrying out the direct orders of the President.

This, however, would not decide the fundamental issue of the President's power — a debate which began about the time the Constitution was written and which has probably found more Republicans than Democrats upholding the powers now claimed by Mr. Truman. Here are some of them.

Illegal War With France

Republican No. 1 to side with Mr. Truman was none other than the founder of the party, Alexander Hamilton. Hamilton went so far as to claim that the President of the United States had just as great power as the King of England when he ruled the 13 colonies. Among other things, Hamilton declared that, though the Constitution gives Congress the power to declare war, the President also has the power to make or declare war without the consent of Congress.

Republican No. 2 was President John Adams who conducted an undeclared naval war with France in 1798. He even recalled George Washington from retirement at Mount Vernon to assume command of the American armed forces in preparation for a full-scale military operation. All this he did without authorization from and despite bitter opposition from Congress.

Incidentally, Thomas Jefferson, founder of Harry Truman's party, disagreed with Hamilton and Adams. But later, on becoming president, Jefferson followed their ideas by conducting war on the barbary pirates; President Madison likewise ordered Gen. Andrew Jackson to take over Florida without any okay from Congress.

Property Illegally Seized

Republican No. 3 to set important precedents for Harry Truman was the man generally considered the foremost leader of the Republican party—Abraham Lincoln.

It was Lincoln who, without any congressional permission, engineered the most sweeping seizure of private property in all American history — the Emancipation Proclamation. There is no doubt, as far as actual legality was concerned, that the freeing of hundreds of millions of dollars worth of slaves was highly questionable.

Lincoln pushed the presidential power to its limits in other respects. He set up military commissions to supersede the courts, suspended the writ of habeas corpus, and forcibly disbanded the Maryland Legislature.

Republican No. 4 who seems to agree with President Truman was Teddy Roosevelt. It was Teddy's belief that, regardless of congressional consent, the President was the "steward" of the national welfare, and empowered to take any action for the national safety so long as the constitution did not specify otherwise.

Thus "TR" seized Panama without even intimating to Congress what he was up to. After taking over the isthmus he asked his attorney general, Philander C. Knox, to write an opinion upholding the legality of his action.

"Mr. President," replied Knox, "I should prefer that your action be without a single taint of legality."

Two Roosevelts

In 1902, Teddy Roosevelt was confronted with a nation-wide anthracite strike. There was no war on, and no emergency. However, Teddy felt that the strike threatened the national welfare and that the coal operators, because of their obstinate anti-unionism, were responsible.

So Teddy sent word to J. P. Morgan that, if government proposals for settlement were not accepted, he would order federal troops to seize and operate the mines.

J. P. Morgan, less combative than the steel masters of 1952, persuaded the coal operators to yield. Seizure was averted.

Aside from these distinguished Republicans, the Supreme Court will doubtless examine some interesting precedents by Democrats, among them, Andrew Jackson who flouted the will of Congress regarding the Bank of the United States; to say nothing of Frankiln D. Roosevelt.

Several times Roosevelt ordered the seizure of strike-bound plants not only during the war, but prior to war.

Most notable case came shortly before Pearl Harbor when he seized the North American Aviation Plant in California after Communist sympathizers called a strike in the fall of 1940. FDR promptly ordered the army to take over.

Another drastic seizure by Roosevelt was the interment of more than 100,000 west coast Japanese-Americans in 1942. Though most of them were American born, Roosevelt rooted them up from the west coast and sent them to internment camps in the Rocky mountain states. Much of their property was left behind.

He did this without an O.K. from Congress, though later the Supreme Court voted to uphold him.

These are some of the things the nine justices will have in their minds when they listen to arguments on the steel seizure today. This is also why grizzled Will Davis, eminent patent attorney, remarked at a recent meeting of the Defense Mobilization Committee:

"It's the Supreme Court's job to save the Constitution, but it's the President's job to save the country."

Background of Taft Statement on Roughness of Preconvention Campaign Is Traced

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 12—Just why, it is being asked, is the present preconvention campaign in the Republican party the "roughest in 40 years," as Senator Taft described it the other day?

The Ohio senator made reference to the bitter campaign of 1912, in which his father was engaged, as being somewhat parallel. But those who remember the 1912 preconvention contest will agree that only in certain phases was that contest parallel to what is happening this year.

In the first place, the battle between the then President William Howard Taft and former President Theodore Roosevelt for the Republican presidential nomination was confined almost entirely to domestic issues. The cost of living had risen in 1910, and the people had elected for the first time in many years a Democratic majority in the House of Representatives. There was a rebellion inside the Republican party, with the western faction of the party—known as the "Progressive Wing"—making the issue primarily the tariff, which those Republicans under the leadership of Senator Dolliver of Iowa had blamed for the high rise in the cost of living.

But the deep cleavage inside the Republican party was one of ideology and political philosophy long before it became apparent that former President Theodore Roosevelt would make an attempt to get back in office. What Mr. Roosevelt really did was to take advantage of the split in the party and side with the anti-administration liberals and progressives, or the "Bull Moose" faction, as it was then known, broke away from the Republican national convention at Chicago and formed a third party—a revolt which resulted in the easy election of Woodrow Wilson, who polled less than the total combined popular vote of Taft and Roosevelt. Mr. Taft got only 8 electoral votes and Mr. Roosevelt 88. Mr. Wilson rode into office with a total electoral vote of 435, far more than the 266 required.

Many people who travelled across the country during that campaign, as did this correspondent, were indeed impressed by the vehemence and bitterness between the factions in the Republican Party. Former President Roosevelt went so far over to the radical side that he even favored in his public addresses a constitutional amendment which would permit Congress to veto Supreme Court decisions. At one time he advocated the recall not only of the decisions, but the recall of the Supreme Court justices themselves.

But while the 1912 campaign divided the followers of the so-called Conservative and Progressive candidates very sharply, there is no such cleavage today between the supporters of General Eisenhower and those of Senator Taft. If one examines the sources of support for the two rivals, it will be found, of course, that the bulk of the Conservative faction is behind the Ohio Senator, while the Liberals and Progressives are in the main behind General Eisenhower or candidates like Governor Warren and former Governor Stassen, who represent the viewpoint of that wing of the party.

The odd part of it, however, is that, if one examines Senator Taft's views on domestic questions, they are not far different from those of the other faction in the party. While General Eisenhower has not himself campaigned, the viewpoint of his followers like Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and Governor Dewey is not so far away from that of the Ohio senator. On matters like public housing, Federal aid to education and labor-management legislation, there is not a great difference between the two groups.

It is primarily in the realm of foreign policy that there is such a wide difference this year between the two factions in the Republican Party—that is, those supporting General Eisenhower and those supporting Senator Taft. Except for the intensity of the campaign and the sharpness of the attacks on one another as between the spokesmen of Eisenhower and those of Senator Taft, the 1912 and 1952 campaigns are not parallel. But undoubtedly what Senator Taft had in mind, when he said that this year's campaign was the roughest since that of 40 years ago, is that he has been kept battling in the primaries as no candidate has ever been required to battle before. Certainly the Ohio Senator has covered more ground than any presidential aspirant in history has heretofore in a preconvention campaign.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Perhaps many of the readers saw the April 21st issue of Life and read about the collection the Rev. William Holman made for the Southport, Conn., library some half century ago. It seems in the late '90's Mrs. Virginia Monroe donated the library itself. She was a book collector at heart and having faith in the Rev. Mr. Holman's knowledge she gave him small grants of money to buy what he thought best. Also a Mrs. Mary Wakeman, whose bookplate appears in many of the volumes found in this library, gave him small grants of money. She also was a book collector and authograph enthusiast. Altogether they seem to have a record that only $15,229 was given to buy these books and manuscripts for the Pequot library in Southport. What do you think this collection is worth today? Just a mere half a million. It is being loaned to Yale at the present time where it will be catalogued properly and be available to scholars.

It is remarkable that throughout these years someone by sheer accident didn't drop in and find these treasures there and make it known to the world. It is said to contain "autographs of all the signers of the Declaration of Independence" also a "pamphlet written by Columbus and published in 1493." I don't know how they can even place a value on such an item. And what is strangest, most of these books the Rev. Mr. Holman bought just stood on open shelves accessible to the most casual reader. They did not deem it even necessary throughout this half a century to put them in locked book closets.

The strangest part of this story is that the poor little, rich, library with some half a million lovely, irreplaceable documents and books tucked away on its shelves, needed money to run it. What were they going to do? Why have a nice cozy little auction to raise the necessary small funds for its operation. Somehow an expert was called in to appraise it. Who it was, they do not say but they declare he went "goggle-eyed" when he estimated its value at some half a million dollars. So deciding that such treasure should not be broken up, the library decided to lend it to Yale.

There are good pictures in "Life" of the crammed book shelves on which the treasures stood. One is a large illustrated first edition of Richard Hakluyt's "Principall Navigations" published in 1589. It is said many of the books were sent to England for binding after Holman bought them. One of Audubon's mammoth books on bird prints printed in 1861 is there. To show the size of it, it is shown with a man sitting next to it and it comes up to his shoulders from the floor. No doubt many book collectors and hobbyists who lived near Southport or stopped there on reading the article are sorry they did not stop in and look such a half a million dollar collection over at their leisure. Well, no doubt, there are other such collections in other parts of the country's still undiscovered.

IBM Dedication To Mark Rapid Growth

Dedication of the two new wings to the present I.B.M. Plant No. 2, Saturday, June 14, will mark the formal opening of an additional 632,000 square feet of floor area to the plant's present manufacturing facilities. This will increase the total floor space in the plant to approximately 1,200,000 square feet. In addition, expanded plant facilities are being completed to the water supply and industrial waste systems as well as new roads and parking lots.

The two additional three-story structures are to the north and south of the present building which was dedicated in 1948 and added 210,000 square feet of floor space.

With the great expansion in space, a remarkable increase in the plant's population has been noted. As of the week ending May 2, 1952, there were 5,662 employes on the plant's payroll.

Rooming House Destroyed

Milford, Pa., May 12 (AP)—A three-hour fire gutted a two-story rooming house near here last night and caused damage estimated at $5,000 to $10,000. No one was in the building. The interior of the rooming house, owned by Robert Goodman, of New York city, was ruined, Milford Fire Chief Foster Terwilliger said. Goodman, who had been preparing for the summer tourist season, had locked up the house near Dingmans Ferry only a few hours earlier and started to return to New York. Apparent cause of the fire, Terwilliger said, was a defective fuel oil heater.

SMALL, MOBILE DEFENSE FORCE

Every sober-minded American recognizes that in building adequate defenses this country is trying to steer a difficult course between too little security and too heavy and lasting a drain upon the economy.

It is no contribution toward a solution of this problem to hack away at the military and foreign aid budget recklessly. Nor is it any better to propose astronomical sums for defense and then declare they should be immune to the pruner's knife.

What we are looking for in these times are genuinely constructive suggestions which show a full awareness of the basic dilemma. We are trying to avoid letting Joseph Stalin conquer America and its allies either directly by military assault or indirectly through the bankruptcy of this nation.

We got such a proposal when John Foster Dulles and others recommended that, instead of trying to defend every nook and cranny of the free world with foot soldiers, we create a highly mobile and powerful striking force to be held in strategic locations for swift dispatch to trouble zones.

This arrangement has obvious virtues both militarily and economically, since it would impart great flexibility to defensive operations while saving large numbers of men who otherwise would be committed to widely stretched border defense.

Now General Eisenhower has added another constructive thought. As reported in secret testimony given to a Senate committee in his behalf by General Gruenther, his NATO chief of staff, Eisenhower believes that we should place our reliance upon a relatively small active striking force—backed up by a very substantial and highly effective reserve force.

This proposal is in the same direction as the Dulles plan. Said Gruenther: "General Eisenhower's philosophy in meeting this (Russian) threat is that if we try to meet the Soviets division for division and plane for plane, we are going to lose the battle from the economic viewpoint."

This plan would avoid maintaining large, costly standing armies. It would avoid equipping them to the full with weapons which might easily be outmoded by the time a war began.

A relatively small force, if sufficiently strong and mobile, is not inconsistent with the hardest necessities of real security, provided also that it is buttressed by thoroughly trained reserves and an industrial capacity capable of a lightning shift to war goods to equip them.

From such sources as Dulles and Eisenhower and Senator Douglas of Illinois, we are getting fresh elements for a sensible, safe and financially feasible policy of defense.

It is fair to hope that the administration is taking full note of these proposals. They are an attempt to give not only American but Allied policy real substance and clear objectives. They are original, imaginative and contain the spark of positive leadership.

All but the most partisan administration supporters will concede we have not had too much of these qualities lately in the conduct of our foreign affairs.

If a resident there is lucky enough to have a set and if it should go on the blink he may have to wait days for its repair. There are but few repairmen, and spare parts are hard to get. And when finally it is fixed all he gets is what the government wants him to get.

HIGHWAYS' GRIM PROBLEMS

The National Safety Council throws out a statistic or two that should give us warning of peril on the highways in the months ahead.

Gasoline consumption in the United States for the first two months of 1952 is up 10 per cent over 1951. This figure is generally used by the Council in computing highway travel.

This 1952 increase, coming before vacation driving has really begun, presages the greatest total of travel miles in U. S. history. And since the death curve tends to follow the travel curve consistently, we may be in for a new high in motor traffic fatalities.

These deaths are the grimmest of all reminders that this country doesn't have its highway problems even half solved. When will we get around to facing up to this difficult situation?

CHAINING POWER

Thomas James Norton, an important scholar in the field of government, in his book, "Undermining The Constitution," says:

"The constitutional government of the United States is scientific. Science is defined as classified knowledge, or the conclusions which the classification compels. The causes of all the breakdowns of governments in history were gone over in the Constitutional Convention and it was concluded that law making, law enforcing, and law interpreting must be definitely in different hands. . . .

"All officials, state and national, were put under oath to support the Constitution and observe the boundaries to power specified in it. As far as could be, men with power were chained."

The problem that the founding fathers faced was the abuse of power. George III and his minister, Lord North, had abused power. Because of that, they lost the richest jewel in the British crown, the American colonies that subsequently became the United States.

Those who wrote our Constitution realized that the day might come when the United States itself would find power abused by officials chosen by the electorate. They sought to avert such a condition, but Jefferson once wrote of the Constitution: "It would still have one fault in my eye, that of perpetual re-eligibility of the President."

The American people have corrected this fault by the Twenty-Second Amendment to the Constitution, which limits the President to two terms. This amendment became necessary because Franklin D. Roosevelt had violated the unwritten tradition established by George Washington of a two-term limitation.

However, the two-term limitation can have an effect contrary to that desired, namely, that the President, not seeking public approval, may, if he is not restrained by morals, act irresponsibly. This spectacle, we are, in a measure, now witnessing in the President's claim to unlimited power, which has had to go to the Supreme Court for decision.

The method by which the President is chosen is of very great importance, as in it is involved what Alexander Hamilton called cabal, intrigue, corruption. In 1932, the principal Democratic contestants for the Presidency were: Alfred E. Smith, Newton D. Baker, Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Nance Garner. The most popular candidate was Al Smith; the most skillful manager was James A. Farley.

It is no secret that Franklin D. Roosevelt was nominated through the influence of William Randolph Hearst. Henry L. Stoddard, in "It Costs to Be President," recited the following:

". . . Paul Block, the well-known publisher, and I sat in his room for a good-night exchange of opinion. He then said that he had been talking over the telephone with 'W. R.' and that a deal had been arranged by which the 69 Texas and California delegates, after complimenting Garner on two or three ballots, would swing to Roosevelt. He added that Garner would go on the ticket as vice president and McAdoo was to have no opposition in California for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

"The news was in confidence, however, for Hearst, of course, had no power to release delegates pledged to any candidate. That was for Garner and McAdoo to do. Hearst, however, undertook to talk with both of them and with Mayor Cermak of Chicago, who controlled the Illinois delegation. He persuaded all three that after a few ballots they should turn to Roosevelt, and they did."

This, in effect, nullified the convention. It was similar to the nomination of Warren G. Harding through the influence of Colonel George Harvey in the smoke-filled hotel room. In the 1940 convention, Thomas Lamont and the National Association of Manufacturers put over a former member of Tammany Hall, Wendell Willkie, on the Republican Party.

In fact, anyone who attends the convention of either party, which this year will be on television, knows that debate, discussion, due consideration is impossible. Starting slowly and dully, the convention moves, in a crescendo, to the roar of a circus.

The delegates shout and shriek and march about in mass pandemonium. They even hire actors to help them in their antics and I presume, now that television has been added, there will be the usual models in differing degrees of undress. In this raucous atmosphere, few men can deliberate. So, the more serious-minded gather in hotel rooms to transact their business and the telephone becames a more important instrument of the people's will than the chosen delegate.

FACIAL PARALYSIS

Some years ago I noticed a university student whose face was pulled all to one side. There were no symptoms present at the time — no lameness or other sign of paralysis — so I suspected Bell's palsy. I discovered that this had been diagnosed by his own physician, who had assured him that he would soon be well and there were not likely to be any after effects.

In The Lancet, London, Drs. J. A. James and W. R. Russell state that facial paralysis was recognized by Dr. Bell in 1821. The term Bell's palsy is now generally used for facial paralysis of the peripheral or surface type, and of acute onset, for which no local cause is found.

It often develops when the victim is feeling perfectly well and evidence of general infection is seldom found, though the palsy often follows an infection of nose and throat. Exposure to a draft may suddenly bring on an attack. In he case of my student friend, infection of one of his back teeth was blamed. Drs. James and Russell state that "the actual paralysis is sometimes preceded by some aching pain referred to the mastoid region (the big lump behind the ear). Pain below the ear may persist for some days after the paralysis appears. There is great variety in the amount of drooping of the paralyzed side of the face."

The disease usually takes one of two courses: (1) Recovery begins within one to three weeks and is complete in four to six weeks. This shows a passing or temporary block of the facial nerve; (2) the muscles remain completely paralyzed for two or more months during which time the electrical reactions show that the facial nerve has degenerated. Usually recovery takes place slowly at an interval of three to nine months from onset.

These two types of facial paralysis occurred with about equal frequency in the 58 cases of Bell's palsy observed in the outpatient department of these physicians' hospital.

"Treatment can be effective only if started within a few hours after onset of the palsy," the doctors tell us.

Bell's palsy is not the dangerous type of paralysis.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — When the nine black-robed justices of the Supreme Court assemble today, they will not hear arguments merely on seizure of the steel mills. They will also have echoing in the background of the court chamber 150 years of argument over the same vital question of the President's power and where does it stop.

They will likewise have as precedents at least four famed Republicans who did pretty much the same thing as Mr. Truman, Democrat.

It's possible that the Supreme Court may try to duck this basic issue. If so, they have an easy way out. They can cite their own opinion in 1867 when the state of Mississippi sought an injunction against President Andrew Johnson to prevent him from "reconstructing" Mississippi's government, and when the court ruled that no court has the power to enjoin the President of the United States.

Therefore, the Supreme Court today, citing this, could find that Judge Pine had no right to enjoin Secretary of Commerce Sawyer who was carrying out the direct orders of the President.

This, however, would not decide the fundamental issue of the President's power — a debate which began about the time the Constitution was written and which has probably found more Republicans than Democrats upholding the powers now claimed by Mr. Truman. Here are some of them.

Illegal War With France

Republican No. 1 to side with Mr. Truman was none other than the founder of the party, Alexander Hamilton. Hamilton went so far as to claim that the President of the United States had just as great power as the King of England when he ruled the 13 colonies. Among other things, Hamilton declared that, though the Constitution gives Congress the power to declare war, the President also has the power to make or declare war without the consent of Congress.

Republican No. 2 was President John Adams who conducted an undeclared naval war with France in 1798. He even recalled George Washington from retirement at Mount Vernon to assume command of the American armed forces in preparation for a full-scale military operation. All this he did without authorization from and despite bitter opposition from Congress.

Incidentally, Thomas Jefferson, founder of Harry Truman's party, disagreed with Hamilton and Adams. But later, on becoming president, Jefferson followed their ideas by conducting war on the barbary pirates; President Madison likewise ordered Gen. Andrew Jackson to take over Florida without any okay from Congress.

Property Illegally Seized

Republican No. 3 to set important precedents for Harry Truman was the man generally considered the foremost leader of the Republican party—Abraham Lincoln.

It was Lincoln who, without any congressional permission, engineered the most sweeping seizure of private property in all American history — the Emancipation Proclamation. There is no doubt, as far as actual legality was concerned, that the freeing of hundreds of millions of dollars worth of slaves was highly questionable.

Lincoln pushed the presidential power to its limits in other respects. He set up military commissions to supersede the courts, suspended the writ of habeas corpus, and forcibly disbanded the Maryland Legislature.

Republican No. 4 who seems to agree with President Truman was Teddy Roosevelt. It was Teddy's belief that, regardless of congressional consent, the President was the "steward" of the national welfare, and empowered to take any action for the national safety so long as the constitution did not specify otherwise.

Thus "TR" seized Panama without even intimating to Congress what he was up to. After taking over the isthmus he asked his attorney general, Philander C. Knox, to write an opinion upholding the legality of his action.

"Mr. President," replied Knox, "I should prefer that your action be without a single taint of legality."

Two Roosevelts

In 1902, Teddy Roosevelt was confronted with a nation-wide anthracite strike. There was no war on, and no emergency. However, Teddy felt that the strike threatened the national welfare and that the coal operators, because of their obstinate anti-unionism, were responsible.

So Teddy sent word to J. P. Morgan that, if government proposals for settlement were not accepted, he would order federal troops to seize and operate the mines.

J. P. Morgan, less combative than the steel masters of 1952, persuaded the coal operators to yield. Seizure was averted.

Aside from these distinguished Republicans, the Supreme Court will doubtless examine some interesting precedents by Democrats, among them, Andrew Jackson who flouted the will of Congress regarding the Bank of the United States; to say nothing of Frankiln D. Roosevelt.

Several times Roosevelt ordered the seizure of strike-bound plants not only during the war, but prior to war.

Most notable case came shortly before Pearl Harbor when he seized the North American Aviation Plant in California after Communist sympathizers called a strike in the fall of 1940. FDR promptly ordered the army to take over.

Another drastic seizure by Roosevelt was the interment of more than 100,000 west coast Japanese-Americans in 1942. Though most of them were American born, Roosevelt rooted them up from the west coast and sent them to internment camps in the Rocky mountain states. Much of their property was left behind.

He did this without an O.K. from Congress, though later the Supreme Court voted to uphold him.

These are some of the things the nine justices will have in their minds when they listen to arguments on the steel seizure today. This is also why grizzled Will Davis, eminent patent attorney, remarked at a recent meeting of the Defense Mobilization Committee:

"It's the Supreme Court's job to save the Constitution, but it's the President's job to save the country."

Background of Taft Statement on Roughness of Preconvention Campaign Is Traced

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, May 12—Just why, it is being asked, is the present preconvention campaign in the Republican party the "roughest in 40 years," as Senator Taft described it the other day?

The Ohio senator made reference to the bitter campaign of 1912, in which his father was engaged, as being somewhat parallel. But those who remember the 1912 preconvention contest will agree that only in certain phases was that contest parallel to what is happening this year.

In the first place, the battle between the then President William Howard Taft and former President Theodore Roosevelt for the Republican presidential nomination was confined almost entirely to domestic issues. The cost of living had risen in 1910, and the people had elected for the first time in many years a Democratic majority in the House of Representatives. There was a rebellion inside the Republican party, with the western faction of the party—known as the "Progressive Wing"—making the issue primarily the tariff, which those Republicans under the leadership of Senator Dolliver of Iowa had blamed for the high rise in the cost of living.

But the deep cleavage inside the Republican party was one of ideology and political philosophy long before it became apparent that former President Theodore Roosevelt would make an attempt to get back in office. What Mr. Roosevelt really did was to take advantage of the split in the party and side with the anti-administration liberals and progressives, or the "Bull Moose" faction, as it was then known, broke away from the Republican national convention at Chicago and formed a third party—a revolt which resulted in the easy election of Woodrow Wilson, who polled less than the total combined popular vote of Taft and Roosevelt. Mr. Taft got only 8 electoral votes and Mr. Roosevelt 88. Mr. Wilson rode into office with a total electoral vote of 435, far more than the 266 required.

Many people who travelled across the country during that campaign, as did this correspondent, were indeed impressed by the vehemence and bitterness between the factions in the Republican Party. Former President Roosevelt went so far over to the radical side that he even favored in his public addresses a constitutional amendment which would permit Congress to veto Supreme Court decisions. At one time he advocated the recall not only of the decisions, but the recall of the Supreme Court justices themselves.

But while the 1912 campaign divided the followers of the so-called Conservative and Progressive candidates very sharply, there is no such cleavage today between the supporters of General Eisenhower and those of Senator Taft. If one examines the sources of support for the two rivals, it will be found, of course, that the bulk of the Conservative faction is behind the Ohio Senator, while the Liberals and Progressives are in the main behind General Eisenhower or candidates like Governor Warren and former Governor Stassen, who represent the viewpoint of that wing of the party.

The odd part of it, however, is that, if one examines Senator Taft's views on domestic questions, they are not far different from those of the other faction in the party. While General Eisenhower has not himself campaigned, the viewpoint of his followers like Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and Governor Dewey is not so far away from that of the Ohio senator. On matters like public housing, Federal aid to education and labor-management legislation, there is not a great difference between the two groups.

It is primarily in the realm of foreign policy that there is such a wide difference this year between the two factions in the Republican Party—that is, those supporting General Eisenhower and those supporting Senator Taft. Except for the intensity of the campaign and the sharpness of the attacks on one another as between the spokesmen of Eisenhower and those of Senator Taft, the 1912 and 1952 campaigns are not parallel. But undoubtedly what Senator Taft had in mind, when he said that this year's campaign was the roughest since that of 40 years ago, is that he has been kept battling in the primaries as no candidate has ever been required to battle before. Certainly the Ohio Senator has covered more ground than any presidential aspirant in history has heretofore in a preconvention campaign.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Perhaps many of the readers saw the April 21st issue of Life and read about the collection the Rev. William Holman made for the Southport, Conn., library some half century ago. It seems in the late '90's Mrs. Virginia Monroe donated the library itself. She was a book collector at heart and having faith in the Rev. Mr. Holman's knowledge she gave him small grants of money to buy what he thought best. Also a Mrs. Mary Wakeman, whose bookplate appears in many of the volumes found in this library, gave him small grants of money. She also was a book collector and authograph enthusiast. Altogether they seem to have a record that only $15,229 was given to buy these books and manuscripts for the Pequot library in Southport. What do you think this collection is worth today? Just a mere half a million. It is being loaned to Yale at the present time where it will be catalogued properly and be available to scholars.

It is remarkable that throughout these years someone by sheer accident didn't drop in and find these treasures there and make it known to the world. It is said to contain "autographs of all the signers of the Declaration of Independence" also a "pamphlet written by Columbus and published in 1493." I don't know how they can even place a value on such an item. And what is strangest, most of these books the Rev. Mr. Holman bought just stood on open shelves accessible to the most casual reader. They did not deem it even necessary throughout this half a century to put them in locked book closets.

The strangest part of this story is that the poor little, rich, library with some half a million lovely, irreplaceable documents and books tucked away on its shelves, needed money to run it. What were they going to do? Why have a nice cozy little auction to raise the necessary small funds for its operation. Somehow an expert was called in to appraise it. Who it was, they do not say but they declare he went "goggle-eyed" when he estimated its value at some half a million dollars. So deciding that such treasure should not be broken up, the library decided to lend it to Yale.

There are good pictures in "Life" of the crammed book shelves on which the treasures stood. One is a large illustrated first edition of Richard Hakluyt's "Principall Navigations" published in 1589. It is said many of the books were sent to England for binding after Holman bought them. One of Audubon's mammoth books on bird prints printed in 1861 is there. To show the size of it, it is shown with a man sitting next to it and it comes up to his shoulders from the floor. No doubt many book collectors and hobbyists who lived near Southport or stopped there on reading the article are sorry they did not stop in and look such a half a million dollar collection over at their leisure. Well, no doubt, there are other such collections in other parts of the country's still undiscovered.

IBM Dedication To Mark Rapid Growth

Dedication of the two new wings to the present I.B.M. Plant No. 2, Saturday, June 14, will mark the formal opening of an additional 632,000 square feet of floor area to the plant's present manufacturing facilities. This will increase the total floor space in the plant to approximately 1,200,000 square feet. In addition, expanded plant facilities are being completed to the water supply and industrial waste systems as well as new roads and parking lots.

The two additional three-story structures are to the north and south of the present building which was dedicated in 1948 and added 210,000 square feet of floor space.

With the great expansion in space, a remarkable increase in the plant's population has been noted. As of the week ending May 2, 1952, there were 5,662 employes on the plant's payroll.

Rooming House Destroyed

Milford, Pa., May 12 (AP)—A three-hour fire gutted a two-story rooming house near here last night and caused damage estimated at $5,000 to $10,000. No one was in the building. The interior of the rooming house, owned by Robert Goodman, of New York city, was ruined, Milford Fire Chief Foster Terwilliger said. Goodman, who had been preparing for the summer tourist season, had locked up the house near Dingmans Ferry only a few hours earlier and started to return to New York. Apparent cause of the fire, Terwilliger said, was a defective fuel oil heater.

Mock Republican Convention at Teachers College

A mock Republican National Convention will take place on the campus of New Paltz State Teachers College, May 13-15. Sponsored by the college newspaper "The Vandal," the mock convention has been planned to follow the pattern of the national convention as closely as possible.

GOP "national" chairman, Frank Manzi, will preside over the assemblage of 670 delegates and alternates who comprise the state delegations.

Campaign managers, representing the four national party candidates—Eisenhower, Taft, Stassen, and Warren—are carrying out campus campaigns complete with posters, leaflets, lapel buttons, and publicity stunts. Jerry Musin heads the Eisenhower forces; Ralph Mason, the Taft supporters; William Gumm, the Stassenites; and Martin Kennedy, the Warren camp.

The convention will open Wednesday evening, May 13, in the College auditorium with Senator Arthur H. Wicks, majority leader of the New York state Senate, delivering the keynote address. He will be introduced by Jay LeFevre, former national congressman.

The slate of party candidates will be presented by the Committee on Permanant Organization; and permanent convention officers will be elected and installed. Student chairman of the committee is Peggy Poetz.

The Committee on Rules and Order will establish the procedures to be used throughout the convention, and the party platform will be set forth by the Committee on Resolutions.

During the two following days convention business will center about the actual balloting, final election, and selection of the vice-presidential candidate.

Mock party conventions such as the one at New Paltz are being carried out on college and university campuses throughout the country. The purpose is to acquaint students with actual convention procedures so that they may better understand the workings of the real national party conventions when they take place later this summer.

Strikes and Defense

Editor, The Freeman

The constitutional right of individuals to strike for improvement of wages and working conditions cannot be without dissension, relative to collective bargaining between employers and employes affiliated with labor unions.

A prolonged stoppage in our steel and oil productivity at this critical period, when these materials are vital to our allies, and American soldiers in Korea, who are fighting for the freedom of all men everywhere, would have a disastrous impact on our national economy, as well as hindering the ability of the armed forces to bring the conflict to a successful conclusion.

This should not be a time for consideration of personal gain, to the point of crushing others down, because we are all soldiers here at home and our responsibility lies in not only helping the home fires burning, but to be conscious of the fact that whatever sacrifices we are called upon to make is small in comparison to the soldier, who in many cases makes the supreme sacrifice.

During the months of armistice conversations with the enemy, the soldier has not stopped fighting by any means. Therefore, why shouldn't we settle our labor difficulties without interruptions at the conference table?

Let us all unite to accomplish that principle (in Korea and throughout the world) upon which this great country was founded nearing 176 years ago, "Freedom."

Sincerely yours,
EDWIN J. HIGBY

For health and constant enjoyment of life give me a keen and ever-present sense of humor; it is the next best thing to an abiding faith in Providence.
—G. B. Cheever

It was visiting day at the prison and the uplifters were on deck.

Kindly Lady—My good man, I hope that since you have come here you have had time for meditation and have decided to correct your faults.

Prisoner—I have that, mum. Believe me, the next job I pull, this baby wears gloves.

The tax situation: You work like a dog all your life so you can live like a dog.

Two former patients of a mental hospital were trading anecdotes of their "asylum" experiences over a bridge table. One wondered what had happened to their fellow patients; the other suggested that a get-together be arranged for those who, like themselves, had returned to the so-called normal world. They ran a bridge party to which they invited other former patients. It was a big success, led to similar parties and finally culminated in the founding of one of the most unusual organizations in this country—a league of former mental patients banded together for mutual aid, and to help others find the road back to sanity.

Bobbie—Muvver, did that man make that horse?
Mother—No, Bobbie, of course not.
Bobbie—Well, yesterday I saw him tack its feet on.

In a cemetery at South Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, this sign appears: "Persons are prohibited from picking flowers from any but their own graves."

Kingston High School News

Commencement Speakers

Magna Cum Laude

Magna Cum Laude inducted 17 seniors with averages of 90 per cent or higher. Carol Strongin with an average of 94.888 will be valedictorian at the Commencement exercises and Beatrice Newkirk with an average of 93.294 will be salutatorian.

Other students in Magna Cum Laude are Gunther Polac with an average of 92.764; Myra Epstein, 92.083; Judith Strong, 91.725; Barbara Hutton, 91.688; Louis Adler, 91.305; Ruthann Christensen, 91.292; Adeline Gilson, 90.923 and Ernest Myer, 90.862.

The following also were selected: Elaine Solomon, 90.742; Peter Bruck, 90.631; Thomas DeMicco, 90.468; Gertrude Linck, 90.410; Dorothy Tarr, 90.363; William Gaudette, 90.200 and Thomas Brower, 90.142.

Kiwanis Scholarships

At a special assembly Thursday, the Rev. Arthur Oudemool guest speaker from the Kingston Kiwanis Club informed the students of KHS about the scholarships offered by the Kingston Kiwanis Club. The Kiwanis Club is offering eight scholarships to be awarded to eight seniors graduating this June. The senior boys have a possibility of winning four scholarships of $300 each to any college of their choice while the girls have a chance of winning four scholarships of $100 each to enter nurses training at either one of the hospitals in Kingston.

Ski Banquet Held

Trail Sweepers held a dinner at Deanie's May 8 in honor of the girls and boys of KHS who participated in the races at Bellaire last winter. Those invited included Jean Milliken, Martha and Beverly Davenport, Judy Strong, Lowell and Lynn Brooks, Will Rogers, Bill Davenport, Lou Kuntz, Roger Billings and Ted Wright.

19 Join Leaders

Leaders' Club admitted 19 new members last week to replace the seniors who are graduating in June. The girls were first required to pass a written exam covering rules and techniques of various girls' sports. Those who succeeded were given a series of physical tests, including tumbling, apparatus work, and teaching of skills. The names of those qualified were then submitted to the teachers for recommendation. Finally, the present Leaders' Club voted on the girls who had met all of the previous requirements, choosing them on the basis of their leadership qualities.

Masquers Name Two

Maroon Masquers elected two officers for next year at their last meeting which was held May 5. Those chosen to serve during 1952-1953 were President Sally Rose, and Vice-President Barbara Warnecke. Other officers will be elected in the fall.

Journalism Officers

Journalism Club has elected as its new officers Glen Edinger president, president; Ann Hornbeck, vice-president; Fleurette Reon secretary-treasurer. This club assists Dame Rumor by writing special reports, and gathering ads which are important in the publication of Dame Rumor.

On Thursday the Sophomore Prisma girls elected officers for next year.

Those elected to office were Robin Strongin, president; Barbara Warnecke, vice-president; and Joanne Lee, secretary-treasurer.

Prisma is the largest girls' organization in school at present and offers a scholarship yearly to one girl who in their opinion is most deserving of it.

Prisma Officers

Theresa Turck and Rose Doyle were elected president and vice president of next year's Senior Prisma at a special meeting of Junior Prisma April 22. Eileen Sickler was also elected as the secretary of this club. The results of this week's election for next year's Sophomore Prisma are: Marilyn Johnson, president; Margaret Danford, vice president and Esther Schaffer as the secretary.

Junior Prom

This year's junior class had its prom May 3 with over 65 couples attending the dance at the MJM gym.

The theme of this year's Junior Prom was taken in remembrance of the 300th anniversary and The Netherlands' colors were used with a large windmill as the centerpiece.

Baccalaureate Speaker

The Rev. Frank Gollnick, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, has been selected by the Kingston High School seniors to deliver the annual baccalaureate address, Sunday, June 22. The speaker's son, Richard, is a member of the graduating class.

Dr. Gollnick, a graduate of Wagner College, held charges in Brooklyn, Oneonta and Rochester before coming to Kingston 10 years ago.

Honor Society

On Thursday morning, May 15, in the KHS auditorium, Honor Society will induct approximately 15 Juniors into its nation-wide organization.

Those who will be inducted are outstanding Juniors who have exhibited scholarship, leadership, service and character. Highlighting the assembly will be a speech given by the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra of the Fair Street Reformed Church.

Attend Contest

Kingston High School was represented by Gunther Polak, Louis Adler, Judy Strong and Ruth Cohen in the 14th annual Pi Mu Epsilon interscholastic mathematics contest at New York University April 26.

The scholarship was for $250 per year, four year scholarship to the senior who is the winner of the two hour comprehensive examination in elementary algebra, plane geometry, and intermediate algebra.

Some four hundred high schools have entered in the contest from New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut.

May Day Rehearsals

Special rehearsals for May Day are now being held daily with a full rehearsal scheduled for the May Day activities for Tuesday, May 13, at the municipal stadium. The girls are practicing folk dancing, which will be presented at the festivities and is directed by Miss Mary Leach. The boys' Gym Club under the direction of G. Warren Kias are practicing handsprings, handwalks and tumbling.

Don't Let Your Heart Fail At Child's Sex Questions

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Aunt Sue brought Patty a yellow plastic chicken when she came to visit. It was enclosed in a blue plastic egg attached to lillipops. When Aunt Sue showed Patty how the egg opened, she told her how mother hens have to sit on real eggs to hatch their babies.

Two days later, as Patty played with the chicken in her bath, she said to her mother, "How long did you have to sit on me to hatch me?"

Her mother dropped the soap. As she reached for it behind Patty's wet, pink back, she thought confusedly, "Oh, dear, it's started. She's begun to ask Those Questions . . . "

Patty's mother is in love with Patty's father. Why does her heart fail her at the prospect of answering Those Questions? Why can't she just kiss the top of Patty's head and say, "Oh, mothers of babies are much luckier than mothers of chickens. They carry their babies around inside them while they're growing. It's much cozier than leaving little boy and girl babies to grow all alone by themselves in eggs . . . "

Unfortunately, the "proper reaction" of mothers to Those Questions was established for Patty's parent some 22 years ago when she was six years old. Nothing she had read or heard has erased her impression that Those Questions were improper subject for discussions between parents and children.

Patty's grandmother gave Patty's mother this impression. When her child asked about something she had heard, Patty's grandmother had dropped a spool of thread instead of soap. Her horrified face is still a vivid memory for Patty's mother.

If she just thinks back, Patty's mother will recall the frustration, confusion and shame she felt when her mother burst into tears and wailed, "Your father must get us out of this neighborhood. You cannot be exposed to such evil-minded children."

Bewildered, Patty's mother had thought, "I guess grownups and children are not supposed to talk about these things together. I guess the grownups only want to talk of these among themselves. If I want to talk about them, I better confine my talk to people of my own age who do not burst into tears when asked a question."

As children approach their third birthdays, it is a good idea to prepare to deal with Those Questions by recalling our own experiences with sex education.

Did our parents give it to us? How? Did they make us feel that our curiosity had put them on the spot? Did we get our questions answered — or like Patty's mother did we let it go because it aroused such distress? Did we get our information from an older child? If so, was he frightened of what he conveyed — or were we given it with giggles and warnings "not to tell?"

The answers to these questions have great bearing on our own response when children request sex information. If we are disturbed, we can be pretty sure that someone we knew long ago was disturbed by our request.

And if we are so anxious to be modern that we give more information than the child can absorb, we are still reacting to the inadequate sex instruction that was given to us. Instead of being mature parents, we are defying someone whose training of us we resent—someone who said, "Nice litttle children don't want such information."

Fog Shrouds New York

New York, May 12 (AP)—A heavy fog shrouded the city this morning, delaying ferry service from Staten Island between five and 10 minutes and curtailing activities at La Guardia Field and Idlewild Airport. Outbound flights from both airports were cancelled and inbound flights were held in waiting areas or diverted to other airfields. The ceilings at each field was about 100 feet and visibility had dropped to one-quarter of a mile. The forecast for the day was cloudy with occasional showers and with temperatures in the 50's. The cloudy conditions were expected to prevail tomorrow.

The annual junior-senior carnival will be held Saturday night, May 24. The classes are planning an evening of fun and games and are looking forward to having an even better-than-ever time and entertainment. The program starts at 7 p. m.

The girls of the homemaking class recently were hostesses to the senior girls at a spring luncheon. The project, which was carried out as a class activity, featured efficient preparation and serving, as well as gracious entertaining on the part of the hostess class.

The seventh grade citizenship education class is making a scrapbook in connection with a folklore project. A section of the seventh grade is planning a walk with their teacher, Mrs. Louis Fredd.

The freshman class is rehearsing several short plays to be produced in June as an assembly program.

The introduction to business class, with Lawrence Ostrander as teacher, toured the Ellenville office of the New York Telephone Co., Wednesday, April 30. Arrangements for the visit were made with Sidney Delaney and Mrs. Irene Bell, and her assistants conducted small groups through the entire plant, explaining the operation of switchboards and answering the students questions.

Rehearsals are in progress for the senior play, It's Never too Late, which will be presented June 6. The cast includes Arthur Lapp, Barbara Decker, James Mesceda, Beatrice Booth, Ethel Smith, Dawn Divine, Beverly Brown, Donald Mesceda and Leonard Whitten.

On April 25 a successful Junior High School dance was held sponsored by the seventh and eighth grades. There was round and square dancing as well as games. Refreshments were served.

A one-act comedy Hold the Line, Please will be presented in the assembly program by the Junior Class May 23.

Joan Crawford, secretary of the junior class, has been in the hospital in New York. She is now home.

The music department, under Sanford J. Knoller, staged a successful operetta, Ask The Professor, at the high school auditorium.

The sophomore class is making plans to select class rings for next year. The purchases will be made after due discussion has been carried out with various representatives.

During an assembly program May 1, awards for the second annual Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation Lamp Contest were made by the committee in charge. The senior high school winners were: First prize, Dorothea Sherman; second prize, Bruce Cyr; third prize, Roger Squier. The Junior High awards were: first prize, Donald Finn; second prize, Werner Wustrau; and third prize, Edward Brown.

The Sunday schedule at the Kerhonkson Federated Church follows: Church school meets at 9:45 a. m., followed by divine worship at 11 a. m. There also is divine worship at the Liebhardt Methodist Church Sunday at 7:45 p. m. On Monday at 7:15, the Youth Fellowship meets in the church social hall. On Wednesday, at 8 p. m., the executive board will hold its regular meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Terwilliger entertained her brother and family from New Jersey last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Krom have been visiting her parents at Pulaski.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sahler and daughter Donna and son, Terry, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Schott Sahler at Pataukunk, who only returned home Thursday from a trip to Kentucky where they visited their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Purcell and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Black, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sahler spent Sunday boating on Honk Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Linsman spent Saturday in New York.

Mrs. Herbert Poppel and son, Barry, are spending the week in New York. Miss Renee Joy Poppel is spending the week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Berenbaum.

Donald Keator, Donald Sahler, John Krom and Philip McGowan were among those from here employed at the Napanoch Institution who attended the communion breakfast at the Masonic Home in Ellenville last Sunday.

Warren Cairo and sons are in New York where they will see the circus at Madison Square Garden during their stay.

Heavy Damage Caused

Alapaha, Ga., May 12 (AP)—Vicious winds of tornadic force leveled sections of this town of 600 persons yesterday and caused heavy property damage. No one was killed. The brief twister flattened dozens of homes and businesses, smashed the huge community water tank and wrecked all the school property. But despite the blow, only three persons were hospitalized. Mayor Julian P. Paulk estimated property damage would approach a half-million dollars. The tornado struck the farming-pulpwood-turpentine community at about 7:15 a. m. (EST).

Magna Cum Laude inducted 17 seniors with averages of 90 per cent or higher. Carol Strongin with an average of 94.888 will be valedictorian at the Commencement exercises and Beatrice Newkirk with an average of 93.294 will be salutatorian.

Other students in Magna Cum Laude are Gunther Polac with an average of 92.764; Myra Epstein, 92.083; Judith Strong, 91.725; Barbara Hutton, 91.688; Louis Adler, 91.305; Ruthann Christensen, 91.292; Adeline Gilson, 90.923 and Ernest Myer, 90.862.

The following also were selected: Elaine Solomon, 90.742; Peter Bruck, 90.631; Thomas DeMicco, 90.468; Gertrude Linck, 90.410; Dorothy Tarr, 90.363; William Gaudette, 90.200 and Thomas Brower, 90.142.

Kiwanis Scholarships

At a special assembly Thursday, the Rev. Arthur Oudemool guest speaker from the Kingston Kiwanis Club informed the students of KHS about the scholarships offered by the Kingston Kiwanis Club. The Kiwanis Club is offering eight scholarships to be awarded to eight seniors graduating this June. The senior boys have a possibility of winning four scholarships of $300 each to any college of their choice while the girls have a chance of winning four scholarships of $100 each to enter nurses training at either one of the hospitals in Kingston.

Ski Banquet Held

Trail Sweepers held a dinner at Deanie's May 8 in honor of the girls and boys of KHS who participated in the races at Bellaire last winter. Those invited included Jean Milliken, Martha and Beverly Davenport, Judy Strong, Lowell and Lynn Brooks, Will Rogers, Bill Davenport, Lou Kuntz, Roger Billings and Ted Wright.

19 Join Leaders

Leaders' Club admitted 19 new members last week to replace the seniors who are graduating in June. The girls were first required to pass a written exam covering rules and techniques of various girls' sports. Those who succeeded were given a series of physical tests, including tumbling, apparatus work, and teaching of skills. The names of those qualified were then submitted to the teachers for recommendation. Finally, the present Leaders' Club voted on the girls who had met all of the previous requirements, choosing them on the basis of their leadership qualities.

Masquers Name Two

Maroon Masquers elected two officers for next year at their last meeting which was held May 5. Those chosen to serve during 1952-1953 were President Sally Rose, and Vice-President Barbara Warnecke. Other officers will be elected in the fall.

Journalism Officers

Journalism Club has elected as its new officers Glen Edinger president, president; Ann Hornbeck, vice-president; Fleurette Reon secretary-treasurer. This club assists Dame Rumor by writing special reports, and gathering ads which are important in the publication of Dame Rumor.

Sophomore Prisma

On Thursday the Sophomore Prisma girls elected officers for next year.

Those elected to office were Robin Strongin, president; Barbara Warnecke, vice-president; and Joanne Lee, secretary-treasurer.

Prisma is the largest girls' organization in school at present and offers a scholarship yearly to one girl who in their opinion is most deserving of it.

Prisma Officers

Theresa Turck and Rose Doyle were elected president and vice president of next year's Senior Prisma at a special meeting of Junior Prisma April 22. Eileen Sickler was also elected as the secretary of this club. The results of this week's election for next year's Sophomore Prisma are: Marilyn Johnson, president; Margaret Danford, vice president and Esther Schaffer as the secretary.

Junior Prom

This year's junior class had its prom May 3 with over 65 couples attending the dance at the MJM gym.

The theme of this year's Junior Prom was taken in remembrance of the 300th anniversary and The Netherlands' colors were used with a large windmill as the centerpiece.

Baccalaureate Speaker

The Rev. Frank Gollnick, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church, has been selected by the Kingston High School seniors to deliver the annual baccalaureate address, Sunday, June 22. The speaker's son, Richard, is a member of the graduating class.

Dr. Gollnick, a graduate of Wagner College, held charges in Brooklyn, Oneonta and Rochester before coming to Kingston 10 years ago.

Honor Society

On Thursday morning, May 15, in the KHS auditorium, Honor Society will induct approximately 15 Juniors into its nation-wide organization.

Those who will be inducted are outstanding Juniors who have exhibited scholarship, leadership, service and character. Highlighting the assembly will be a speech given by the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra of the Fair Street Reformed Church.

Attend Contest

Kingston High School was represented by Gunther Polak, Louis Adler, Judy Strong and Ruth Cohen in the 14th annual Pi Mu Epsilon interscholastic mathematics contest at New York University April 26.

The scholarship was for $250 per year, four year scholarship to the senior who is the winner of the two hour comprehensive examination in elementary algebra, plane geometry, and intermediate algebra.

Some four hundred high schools have entered in the contest from New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut.

May Day Rehearsals

Special rehearsals for May Day are now being held daily with a full rehearsal scheduled for the May Day activities for Tuesday, May 13, at the municipal stadium. The girls are practicing folk dancing, which will be presented at the festivities and is directed by Miss Mary Leach. The boys' Gym Club under the direction of G. Warren Kias are practicing handsprings, handwalks and tumbling.

Don't Let Your Heart Fail At Child's Sex Questions

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

Aunt Sue brought Patty a yellow plastic chicken when she came to visit. It was enclosed in a blue plastic egg attached to lillipops. When Aunt Sue showed Patty how the egg opened, she told her how mother hens have to sit on real eggs to hatch their babies.

Two days later, as Patty played with the chicken in her bath, she said to her mother, "How long did you have to sit on me to hatch me?"

Her mother dropped the soap. As she reached for it behind Patty's wet, pink back, she thought confusedly, "Oh, dear, it's started. She's begun to ask Those Questions . . . "

Patty's mother is in love with Patty's father. Why does her heart fail her at the prospect of answering Those Questions? Why can't she just kiss the top of Patty's head and say, "Oh, mothers of babies are much luckier than mothers of chickens. They carry their babies around inside them while they're growing. It's much cozier than leaving little boy and girl babies to grow all alone by themselves in eggs . . . "

Unfortunately, the "proper reaction" of mothers to Those Questions was established for Patty's parent some 22 years ago when she was six years old. Nothing she had read or heard has erased her impression that Those Questions were improper subject for discussions between parents and children.

Patty's grandmother gave Patty's mother this impression. When her child asked about something she had heard, Patty's grandmother had dropped a spool of thread instead of soap. Her horrified face is still a vivid memory for Patty's mother.

If she just thinks back, Patty's mother will recall the frustration, confusion and shame she felt when her mother burst into tears and wailed, "Your father must get us out of this neighborhood. You cannot be exposed to such evil-minded children."

Bewildered, Patty's mother had thought, "I guess grownups and children are not supposed to talk about these things together. I guess the grownups only want to talk of these among themselves. If I want to talk about them, I better confine my talk to people of my own age who do not burst into tears when asked a question."

As children approach their third birthdays, it is a good idea to prepare to deal with Those Questions by recalling our own experiences with sex education.

Did our parents give it to us? How? Did they make us feel that our curiosity had put them on the spot? Did we get our questions answered — or like Patty's mother did we let it go because it aroused such distress? Did we get our information from an older child? If so, was he frightened of what he conveyed — or were we given it with giggles and warnings "not to tell?"

The answers to these questions have great bearing on our own response when children request sex information. If we are disturbed, we can be pretty sure that someone we knew long ago was disturbed by our request.

And if we are so anxious to be modern that we give more information than the child can absorb, we are still reacting to the inadequate sex instruction that was given to us. Instead of being mature parents, we are defying someone whose training of us we resent—someone who said, "Nice litttle children don't want such information."

Fog Shrouds New York

New York, May 12 (AP)—A heavy fog shrouded the city this morning, delaying ferry service from Staten Island between five and 10 minutes and curtailing activities at La Guardia Field and Idlewild Airport. Outbound flights from both airports were cancelled and inbound flights were held in waiting areas or diverted to other airfields. The ceilings at each field was about 100 feet and visibility had dropped to one-quarter of a mile. The forecast for the day was cloudy with occasional showers and with temperatures in the 50's. The cloudy conditions were expected to prevail tomorrow.

Heavy Damage Caused

Alapaha, Ga., May 12 (AP)—Vicious winds of tornadic force leveled sections of this town of 600 persons yesterday and caused heavy property damage. No one was killed. The brief twister flattened dozens of homes and businesses, smashed the huge community water tank and wrecked all the school property. But despite the blow, only three persons were hospitalized. Mayor Julian P. Paulk estimated property damage would approach a half-million dollars. The tornado struck the farming-pulpwood-turpentine community at about 7:15 a. m. (EST).

Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary Hears Talk At Meeting on Developing Healthy Attitudes

Discussing mental hygiene in inter-personal relations at the Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary meeting Wednesday, May 7, Dr. Edward F. Shea emphasized the importance of developing healthy attitudes for people of all ages and offered suggestions in attaining these attitudes ourselves and in helping those around us, particularly the very young and the aged.

Educational Trends

He also spoke of the modern trends in education and stressed the importance of parents understanding the potential ability of each individual child so that the child might better fulfill his needs and develop into a happy adult.

Pointing out the necessity of mental health for the aged, he said that the increasing life span has resulted in a larger proportion of this age group in our population. Hobbies and companionship were recommended.

The speaker outlined the work being carried on by the Ulster County Committee on Mental Health and mentioned some of the committee's future plans.

Reports on Ball

At the business session following the meeting, Miss Ann Campbell, treasurer of the recent ball, requested returns for tickets be made as soon as possible. Net proceeds of $2,173 were reported to date. Sister Berenice, Mrs. John A. Cooke, Jr., president of the auxiliary, and Mrs. Allen Baker, general chairman of the ball, thanked the committees and all those who worked to make the ball a success.

Mrs. Edwin Phalen and Mrs. Schuyler Schonger were appointed to arrange for the annual June luncheon.

The following eight new members were welcomed to the auxiliary: Mrs. Jay Melton, Mrs. Bernard F. Stone, Mrs. William E. Powers, Mrs. Walter T. Elston, Mrs. Arthur W. Hazenbush, Mrs. Allen Hanstein, Mrs. Edward J. Mulrean and Mrs. J. Robert Zelie.

A social hour concluded the meeting. Mrs. Donald Abernethy and Mrs. Guy Valeo were hostesses. Mrs. Fred Bruhn poured.

Patricia C. Bensing, Alex Vinson Mitchell Wed in Christ Church

The marriage of Miss Patricia Catherine Bensing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conrade Bensing, of Woodstock and 308 E. 79th street, New York, to Alex Vinson Mitchell, Bloomfield, N. J. son of Mrs. Gladys Vinson Mitchell of Woodstock and St. Augustine, Fla., and Alexander Cuthbertson Mitchell, 30 Charlton street, New York, took place Saturday, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in Christ Church, New York. The Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor, officiated at the ceremony. A reception and supper followed at the Society of Illustrators, 128 E. 63rd street, New York.

Traditional wedding selections were played by E. Tuchings, organist.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of white embroidered organdy over taffeta and a white velvet and net cap. She carried a small boquet of white roses.

Mrs. John Scott of 390 First avenue, New York, was her sister's honor attendant. She was attired in a yellow ballerina length gown. A yellow straw hat trimmed with daisies and a bouquet of daises completed her ensemble.

Stanley London of this city served as best man.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va., the couple will reside in Bloomfield, N. J. For traveling, the bride chose a black faille suit and black and white accessories.

Mrs. Mitchell, former society editor of The Freeman, was graduated from Northfield (Mass.) School for Girls, and Tufts College, Medford, Mass. She is editorial assistant with Cleworth Publishing Co., Inc., 551 Fifth avenue. Her father is a portrait painter and illustrator.

Mr. Mitchell served in the army for three years during the second world war. He was graduated from Northwestern University, '47, and is a member of the Institute of Radio Engineers, Inc. He is an electronics engineer with Tong-Sol Electric, Inc., of Newark, N. J.

Wooden Shoe Nursery Holds Registration

The Wooden Shoe Nursery School, 52 Main street, is taking registrations this week for the summer and fall terms. Summer sessions include morning and afternoon classes.

A pool and other new equipment has been added to the grounds. Children two and one-half through five years of age may be enrolled in the summer sessions. Provisions have been made for a noon meal for children attending all day sessions.

Arrangements may also be made for the care of children who must stay an extra hour or two after the close of the afternoon session.

For the fall term, beginning in September, children from two and one-half to four years and eight months will be registered.

The school is sponsored by the Old Dutch Church but is non-secretarian and open to all. It is directed by a board consisting of Arthur J. Laidlaw, Dr. Hamilton Boyd, and the Mmes. Charles Goble, Jr., Albert Sitzer, F. R. Monn, Dale Swartzmiller, Howard C. St. John, Alfred Harder and Dr. Herbert Johnson.

Mrs. Beatrice Jaffe, who has had many successful years experience in conducting nursery schools, is the teacher. She is assisted by Mrs. Roy Mayes.

Registrations will be taken in the nursery school rooms or at the church office, 272 Wall street, Tuesday through Friday, 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

AN UNPLEASING SERVICE

An unpleasant picture is presented in the following description: "When served tea with a tea bag in the cup, is it permissible, after lifting the tea bag out with the spoon, to fold the string attached to it around the tea bag and with it gently squeeze as much as possible of the tea into the cup before placing the tea bag onto the saucer? To place a dripping tea bag onto the rim of the saucer, fills it with a good deal of liquid which usually drips onto one's clothes when lifting the cup to drink the tea."

Faced with the situation you describe, it seems to me that what you suggest, although not correct, is probably the best thing you can do under the circumstances. Correctly, tea should be served from the teapot and the tea bags left in it—unseen.

Some Can—But Some Can't

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just started a new job as secretary to a business executive. I like my job very much but have one complaint. Many of the men who work in other departments but who come in contact with my boss from time to time, call me by my first name. I do not like this familiarity and think it sounds very undignified. Is there any way I can get these men to call me Miss Jones without seeming prissy?

Answer: The crux of the answer is the casual tone in which you say in reply "Miss Jones, if you please." In other words, it is all in how you say it.

Formal Acceptance

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just received an invitation to the wedding and reception of my employer's daughter. The reception invitation has R.S.V.P. on it. Will you please give me the correct wording for a formal acceptance?

New Paltz Teachers Alumni Plan Annual Reunion for May 24

Alumni of New Paltz State Teachers College will hold their annual reunion at the college, Saturday, May 24. The affair is planned in conjunction with dedication ceremonies for the new residence halls and College Union, and the breaking of ground for the new library building.

Governor Dewey to Speak

Governor Thomas E. Dewey and Dr. William S. Carlson, new president of the State University of New York, will participate in the events of the day.

Alumni activities are scheduled to begin at 11 a. m. with a business meeting of association members in the college auditorium. President Robert E. Molloy, Roosevelt, Long Island, will preside. Other officers include the following: Frances B. Buchanan, Freeport, first vice-president; Bertha H. Connelly, second vice-president; Genevieve W. Boland, New Paltz, secretary; and Kenneth E. Hasbrouck, New Paltz, treasurer.

The annual Alumni luncheon is scheduled for 12:30 p. m. in the College Union. Over 700 alumni, faculty, and invited guests are expected to attend. Alumni from the classes of 1927 and 1902 will be honored with observance of their respective 25th and 50th anniversaries.

Dedication of six residence halls and the College Union will take place at 1:30 p. m. Breaking of ground for the new library building is scheduled for 2:30. Governor Thomas E. Dewey and Dr. William S. Carlson, new president of the State University of New York, will speak. The public is cordially invited to attend the ceremonies and events following.

At 3:30 p. m., the college varsity baseball team will tangle with an alumni nine. Tea for alumni and guests will be served in the College Union beginning at 4:30 p. m.

Events of the day are being planned jointly by the College Board of Visitors, alumni and college officials. Chairmen of the reunion are Jay LeFevre for the board of visitors and Mrs. Edythe Abrams for the alumni association.

KHS Choir Concert Attracts Hundreds Friday and Saturday

Audiences of more than 900 persons each night, attending the concert Friday and Saturday evenings presented by the Kingston High School choir under the direction of Leonard Stine, expressed sheer amazement over the outstanding ability shown by the young people participating.

The cantata, I Hear America Singing, by Kleinsinger, arranged for four parts, was beautifully done and received a very warm response from the large audiences. As soloist and narrator, Nicholas Brown, baritone was exceptional. His deep fine voice and excellent diction coupled with the lovely quality of the youthful but well trained voices presented a moving vehicle. Many persons in attendance considered it most appropriate, that this special selection should be dedicated to the 300th anniversary celebration of this city.

A splendid spirit of appreciation was evidenced by the audience in the rendition of Nanie by Brahms which is considered to be one of the most difficult selections in choral literature.

Singing the solo in Seraphic Song by Rubinstein-Gaines, Miss Patricia Dixon showed great promise for a future musical career. Her charming personality, coupled with a warm contralto voice of beautiful range, was enthusiastically received. In this selection, too, the technique and understanding as presented in the violin solo by Jane Gunter, was warmly received.

Against great odds for a vocalist, a bad cold, Miss Phyllis Weiner, mezzo soprano, nevertheless gave a creditable performance Friday in her solo, Motherless Child by Ringwald. She was unable to appear Saturday.

The group of spirituals were popular and well done. Of special interest was Jack Brown's tenor solo, There is a Balm in Gilead.

Joan Timpson, soprano soloist, also received the plaudits of the music lovers in the audience for her rendition of The Omnipotence, by Schubert Spicker.

This review would not be complete without a tribute to the two-piano team accompanists, Richard Torrens and Cameron Rylance.

The public reaction to the splendid concert might well be summed up by the admiration expressed throughout the large auditorium following two encores at each performance, for the outstanding achievement of Leonard Stine in his work with the 100 or more students comprising the choir.

Woman Tells of Abduction

Chicago, May 12 (AP)—The attractive wife of an atomic scientist said an armed robber forced her to leave her husband's bed yesterday, took her on an auto ride and made her disrobe. The woman, Mrs. Joan Untermeyer, 30, told police the kidnaper, a Negro, did not otherwise harm her. His loot was $7,035 in cash and jewels. Her husband, Samuel, 37, is an atomic physicist at the Argonne National Laboratory. Police said the robber who awoke the couple in the second floor bedroom of their South Side home did not disturb their four sleeping children.

Food for Young

Burying beetles derive their name from the habit of burying their food. When they find a dead bird or mouse, they dig under the body until it settles down into the ground and, when deep enough, they cover it. Then the female digs down and deposits her eggs on the body and the larvae feed upon it.

John Burroughs Group Identifies 80 Birds In Area on Trip

On a field trip Saturday, members of the John Burroughs Natural History Society, led by Henry Dunbar, identified 80 different birds in this area. The Society is a local organization devoted to the study of wildlife and the encouragement of conservation.

"Although 80 species may seem like a very large list," commented one of the members, "many birds are known to be present and which escaped observation. At this season many birds are here for only a few days as they migrate northward to their summer homes. This is particularly true of the warblers of which 17 different species were seen."

The birds observed included—Wood Duck, Ruffed Grouse, Ring-necked Pheasant, Solitary Sandpiper, Mourning Dove, Black-billed Cuckoo, Screech Owl, Whip-poor-will, Chimney-Swift, Ruby-throated Hummingbird, Belted Kingfisher, Flicker, Pileated Woodpecker, Hairy Woodpecker, Downy Woodpecker, Kingbird, Crested Flycatcher.

Also—Phoebe, Least Flycatcher, Tree Swallow, Rough-winged Swallow, Barn Swallow, Blue Jay, Crow, Chickadee, White-breasted Nuthatch, Red-breasted Nuthatch, House Wren, Catbird, Brown Thrasher, Robin, Wood Thrush, Hermit Thrush, Veery.

Wed at Stewart Air Force Base, Newburgh

M/SGT. AND MRS. JOHN E. LAVIN

Julia Mauro Marries M/Sgt. John E. Lavin

The marriage of Miss Julia Mauro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore A. Mauro, Sr., of Glasco, to M/Sgt. John E. Lavin, U.S.A.F., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lavin, Fresno, Cal., took place Sunday, May 4, at Stewart Air Force Base in Newburgh, where the bridegroom is stationed. A reception for 200 guests followed at The Barn in this city.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of champagne Chantilly lace, with matching headpiece and veil. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of pink roses and a white orchid.

Mrs. Roland E. Mauro was the matron of honor. She was attired in toast-colored nylon net ballerina length gown with matching headpiece, and carried tallsman roses.

Mrs. Lavin attended Saugerties High School and the Moran-Spencerian School of Business in this city.

M/Sgt. Lavin attended Ada High School and East Central State Teachers College at Ada, Oklahoma. He has served with the U. S. Air Force for 10 years.

Patricia C. Bensing, Alex Vinson Mitchell Wed in Christ Church

The marriage of Miss Patricia Catherine Bensing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Conrade Bensing, of Woodstock and 308 E. 79th street, New York, to Alex Vinson Mitchell, Bloomfield, N. J. son of Mrs. Gladys Vinson Mitchell of Woodstock and St. Augustine, Fla., and Alexander Cuthbertson Mitchell, 30 Charlton street, New York, took place Saturday, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in Christ Church, New York. The Rev. Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, pastor, officiated at the ceremony. A reception and supper followed at the Society of Illustrators, 128 E. 63rd street, New York.

Traditional wedding selections were played by E. Tuchings, organist.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of white embroidered organdy over taffeta and a white velvet and net cap. She carried a small boquet of white roses.

Mrs. John Scott of 390 First avenue, New York, was her sister's honor attendant. She was attired in a yellow ballerina length gown. A yellow straw hat trimmed with daisies and a bouquet of daises completed her ensemble.

Stanley London of this city served as best man.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va., the couple will reside in Bloomfield, N. J. For traveling, the bride chose a black faille suit and black and white accessories.

Mrs. Mitchell, former society editor of The Freeman, was graduated from Northfield (Mass.) School for Girls, and Tufts College, Medford, Mass. She is editorial assistant with Cleworth Publishing Co., Inc., 551 Fifth avenue. Her father is a portrait painter and illustrator.

Mr. Mitchell served in the army for three years during the second world war. He was graduated from Northwestern University, '47, and is a member of the Institute of Radio Engineers, Inc. He is an electronics engineer with Tong-Sol Electric, Inc., of Newark, N. J.

Wooden Shoe Nursery Holds Registration

The Wooden Shoe Nursery School, 52 Main street, is taking registrations this week for the summer and fall terms. Summer sessions include morning and afternoon classes.

A pool and other new equipment has been added to the grounds. Children two and one-half through five years of age may be enrolled in the summer sessions. Provisions have been made for a noon meal for children attending all day sessions.

Arrangements may also be made for the care of children who must stay an extra hour or two after the close of the afternoon session.

For the fall term, beginning in September, children from two and one-half to four years and eight months will be registered.

The school is sponsored by the Old Dutch Church but is non-secretarian and open to all. It is directed by a board consisting of Arthur J. Laidlaw, Dr. Hamilton Boyd, and the Mmes. Charles Goble, Jr., Albert Sitzer, F. R. Monn, Dale Swartzmiller, Howard C. St. John, Alfred Harder and Dr. Herbert Johnson.

Mrs. Beatrice Jaffe, who has had many successful years experience in conducting nursery schools, is the teacher. She is assisted by Mrs. Roy Mayes.

Registrations will be taken in the nursery school rooms or at the church office, 272 Wall street, Tuesday through Friday, 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

AN UNPLEASING SERVICE

An unpleasant picture is presented in the following description: "When served tea with a tea bag in the cup, is it permissible, after lifting the tea bag out with the spoon, to fold the string attached to it around the tea bag and with it gently squeeze as much as possible of the tea into the cup before placing the tea bag onto the saucer? To place a dripping tea bag onto the rim of the saucer, fills it with a good deal of liquid which usually drips onto one's clothes when lifting the cup to drink the tea."

Faced with the situation you describe, it seems to me that what you suggest, although not correct, is probably the best thing you can do under the circumstances. Correctly, tea should be served from the teapot and the tea bags left in it—unseen.

Some Can—But Some Can't

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just started a new job as secretary to a business executive. I like my job very much but have one complaint. Many of the men who work in other departments but who come in contact with my boss from time to time, call me by my first name. I do not like this familiarity and think it sounds very undignified. Is there any way I can get these men to call me Miss Jones without seeming prissy?

Answer: The crux of the answer is the casual tone in which you say in reply "Miss Jones, if you please." In other words, it is all in how you say it.

Formal Acceptance

Dear Mrs. Post: I have just received an invitation to the wedding and reception of my employer's daughter. The reception invitation has R.S.V.P. on it. Will you please give me the correct wording for a formal acceptance?

Answer:

New Paltz Teachers Alumni Plan Annual Reunion for May 24

Alumni of New Paltz State Teachers College will hold their annual reunion at the college, Saturday, May 24. The affair is planned in conjunction with dedication ceremonies for the new residence halls and College Union, and the breaking of ground for the new library building.

Governor Dewey to Speak

Governor Thomas E. Dewey and Dr. William S. Carlson, new president of the State University of New York, will participate in the events of the day.

Alumni activities are scheduled to begin at 11 a. m. with a business meeting of association members in the college auditorium. President Robert E. Molloy, Roosevelt, Long Island, will preside. Other officers include the following: Frances B. Buchanan, Freeport, first vice-president; Bertha H. Connelly, second vice-president; Genevieve W. Boland, New Paltz, secretary; and Kenneth E. Hasbrouck, New Paltz, treasurer.

The annual Alumni luncheon is scheduled for 12:30 p. m. in the College Union. Over 700 alumni, faculty, and invited guests are expected to attend. Alumni from the classes of 1927 and 1902 will be honored with observance of their respective 25th and 50th anniversaries.

Dedication of six residence halls and the College Union will take place at 1:30 p. m. Breaking of ground for the new library building is scheduled for 2:30. Governor Thomas E. Dewey and Dr. William S. Carlson, new president of the State University of New York, will speak. The public is cordially invited to attend the ceremonies and events following.

At 3:30 p. m., the college varsity baseball team will tangle with an alumni nine. Tea for alumni and guests will be served in the College Union beginning at 4:30 p. m.

Events of the day are being planned jointly by the College Board of Visitors, alumni and college officials. Chairmen of the reunion are Jay LeFevre for the board of visitors and Mrs. Edythe Abrams for the alumni association.

KHS Choir Concert Attracts Hundreds Friday and Saturday

Audiences of more than 900 persons each night, attending the concert Friday and Saturday evenings presented by the Kingston High School choir under the direction of Leonard Stine, expressed sheer amazement over the outstanding ability shown by the young people participating.

The cantata, I Hear America Singing, by Kleinsinger, arranged for four parts, was beautifully done and received a very warm response from the large audiences. As soloist and narrator, Nicholas Brown, baritone was exceptional. His deep fine voice and excellent diction coupled with the lovely quality of the youthful but well trained voices presented a moving vehicle. Many persons in attendance considered it most appropriate, that this special selection should be dedicated to the 300th anniversary celebration of this city.

A splendid spirit of appreciation was evidenced by the audience in the rendition of Nanie by Brahms which is considered to be one of the most difficult selections in choral literature.

Singing the solo in Seraphic Song by Rubinstein-Gaines, Miss Patricia Dixon showed great promise for a future musical career. Her charming personality, coupled with a warm contralto voice of beautiful range, was enthusiastically received. In this selection, too, the technique and understanding as presented in the violin solo by Jane Gunter, was warmly received.

Against great odds for a vocalist, a bad cold, Miss Phyllis Weiner, mezzo soprano, nevertheless gave a creditable performance Friday in her solo, Motherless Child by Ringwald. She was unable to appear Saturday.

The group of spirituals were popular and well done. Of special interest was Jack Brown's tenor solo, There is a Balm in Gilead.

Joan Timpson, soprano soloist, also received the plaudits of the music lovers in the audience for her rendition of The Omnipotence, by Schubert Spicker.

This review would not be complete without a tribute to the two-piano team accompanists, Richard Torrens and Cameron Rylance.

The public reaction to the splendid concert might well be summed up by the admiration expressed throughout the large auditorium following two encores at each performance, for the outstanding achievement of Leonard Stine in his work with the 100 or more students comprising the choir.

Woman Tells of Abduction

Chicago, May 12 (AP)—The attractive wife of an atomic scientist said an armed robber forced her to leave her husband's bed yesterday, took her on an auto ride and made her disrobe. The woman, Mrs. Joan Untermeyer, 30, told police the kidnaper, a Negro, did not otherwise harm her. His loot was $7,035 in cash and jewels. Her husband, Samuel, 37, is an atomic physicist at the Argonne National Laboratory. Police said the robber who awoke the couple in the second floor bedroom of their South Side home did not disturb their four sleeping children.

Food for Young

Burying beetles derive their name from the habit of burying their food. When they find a dead bird or mouse, they dig under the body until it settles down into the ground and, when deep enough, they cover it. Then the female digs down and deposits her eggs on the body and the larvae feed upon it.

John Burroughs Group Identifies 80 Birds In Area on Trip

On a field trip Saturday, members of the John Burroughs Natural History Society, led by Henry Dunbar, identified 80 different birds in this area. The Society is a local organization devoted to the study of wildlife and the encouragement of conservation.

"Although 80 species may seem like a very large list," commented one of the members, "many birds are known to be present and which escaped observation. At this season many birds are here for only a few days as they migrate northward to their summer homes. This is particularly true of the warblers of which 17 different species were seen."

The birds observed included—Wood Duck, Ruffed Grouse, Ring-necked Pheasant, Solitary Sandpiper, Mourning Dove, Black-billed Cuckoo, Screech Owl, Whip-poor-will, Chimney-Swift, Ruby-throated Hummingbird, Belted Kingfisher, Flicker, Pileated Woodpecker, Hairy Woodpecker, Downy Woodpecker, Kingbird, Crested Flycatcher.

And, Bluebird, Ruby-crowned Kinglet, Starling, Yellow-throated Vireo, Red-eyed Vireo, Black and white Warbler, Golden-winged Warbler, Blue-winged Warbler, Nashville Warbler, Parula Warbler, Yellow Warbler Magnolia Warbler, Myrtle Warbler, Black-throated Green Warbler, Blackburnian Warbler, Chestnut-sided Warbler, Prairie Warbler, Ovenbird, Louisiana Water-Thrush, Yellow-throat, Yellow-breasted Chat, Redstart, English Sparrow, Bobolink, Meadowlark.

Accord Unit

The Accord Home Bureau Unit held its regular monthly meeting May 8, with 14 members present. Mrs. Ben Davis, vice-chairman, presided.

A food sale was planned for Friday beginning at 1:30 p. m., in the town clerk's office in Accord. Each member was asked to contribute food or make a donation for the sale.

Miss Rowe was the guest speaker and gave an instructive demonstration and talk on keeping clothes looking new.

The next meeting will take place Thursday, June 12, at 8 p. m., in the Pine Bush School. A large attendance is expected to decide on the next year's projects.

Wiltwyck Unit

The Wiltwyck Unit held its monthly meeting and tea May 6 at 410 Broadway. Mrs. Adam C. Thiel, chairman, presided. There were 21 members and one guest present.

A spring tea will be held Wednesday, May 26, at the home of Mrs. William Hand in Bearsville. Each member is asked to bring sandwiches or cookies. Members will meet at 12:30 p. m. at 410 Broadway.

Instead of the annual picnic, there will be a luncheon Tuesday, June 10. The place will be announced.

A cotton dress class will be held Wednesday, May 28 from 1 to 3 p. m. and the tray class will take place June 6, 9 and 13 from 1 to 3 p. m. each day. Dates for the plastic bag class will be announced.

Tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Walter Fallon, Mrs. D. Freer and Mrs. Ben Toffel. Mrs. Charles Lamphier and Mrs. Milford Woodland poured.

The Plank Road Home Bureau unit will hold its regular meeting Tuesday at 7:45 p. m. in Boice's Hall. All members are requested to attend as this will be the last meeting of the year.

To Attend Meeting

Mrs. William Douglas of Ellenville, chairman of the Ulster County Home Bureau, will attend the meeting of the Eastern Federation of Home Bureaus to be held in Albany May 12 and 13. Mrs. Douglas will report accomplishments of the leaders who were recently trained to teach the making of a basic rayon dress. Two leaders, Thomas Turck and Mrs. Fred Fahnrich of Kingston, will model the dresses and accessories they made. Mrs. William Powers of Kingston and the Misses Everice Parsons and Helen Rowe also will attend the meeting. Reports indicate there will be a large delegation of Home Bureau members attendance for at least one session of the two-day meeting. Bus loads are going from Modena and Centerville.

Family Life Session

The Family Life committee, headed by Mrs. Millard Davis of Kerhonkson, sponsor of Family Life studies on the executive committee, invites all interested in child development and family relations to attend the county-wide meeting scheduled for 8 p. m., Monday, May 19, at the Reformed Church Hall in Stone Ridge to hear a talk by Dr. Mary Fisher Langmuir of the Department of Child Study at Vassar College on Today's Problems of Today's Children. A brief summary will be given of the leaders conference recently held at the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell University.

Now that the canning season is here the Ulster County Home Bureau has reminded women that pressure canner gauges can be checked for accuracy at the office.

Mrs. Alvin Stiller of Highland will conduct a meeting at any community hall or church in the county if 10 women wish to enroll for cleaning and adjusting of their sewing machines. Enrollees bring their machines to the meeting and take them apart, clean and reassemble them and learn how to put them in good running order. Each woman adjusts her machine to produce a perfect stitch before leaving the meeting. Anyone wishing to attend such a meeting is invited to notify the Home Bureau Office, 280 Wall street in Kingston.

Gaudette Electrol Winner

O. William Gaudette, of Ulster Park, winner of the 1952 Engineering Scholarship offered by Electrol Inc., is at right, above, with B. N. Ashton, Electrol president, and Edmund L. Bower, of Hurley, selected as alternate.

Ulster Park Youth Given Engineering Scholarship Award

O. William Gaudette, 17, of Ulster Park, has been named recipient of the 1952 Engineering Scholarship offered by Electrol Incorporated, of this city, the firm announced today. Edmund L. Bower, 17, of Hurley, was named alternate. Both boys are Kingston High School seniors.

Gaudette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Opta Gaudette of Ulster Park, is editor-in-chief of the Maroon, Kingston High School's yearbook, president of the Key Club, secretary-treasurer of the Bookwalter Chapter of Hi-Y, and member of the Marshall Squad at the high school. He has been inducted into the National Honor Society. During his junior year at school, he attended the American Legion Boys' State, and he was secretary of his freshman class.

Bower Is Alternate

Bower, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund R. Bower of Hurley, is president of the senior class at Kingston High School, treasurer of the Student Council, member of National Honor Society, Key Club, band, and was on the jayvee basketball squad. Outside school, he has served as president and vice president of his local 4-H club and is active in Youth Fellowship work. He has been Hi-Y chaplain for four years.

The scholarship is awarded by Electrol Incorported to an outstanding student in Ulster county. It represents full tuition for four years in any accredited Engineering School of the student's choice. The student may choose to specialize in aeronautical, mechanical, civil or electrical engineering, provided his primary interest is a career in the aviation industry.

Electrol Incorporated also offers summer employment to the scholarship winner, if he desires it, and upon successful completion of the full engineering course will offer employment if suitable positions are available.

The Electrol scholarship committee consists of the chairman, B. N. Ashton, president of Electrol Inc.; Hon. John T. Loughran, chief judge of the Court of Appeals; Ernest A. Steuding, superintendent of the Board of Public Works; John Henry Martin, principal of Kingston High School; Ronald Reigal, principal of Kerhonkson High School; James A. Dwyer, president of Rondout National Bank, and James E. Tobin, director of guidance, Kingston city schools.

Battle of the Bags

By FRANK TRIPP

Breathes there a couple who cannot remember those tense, silent first hours of a journey together? That tight-lipped period after the bags were finally packed; when both wished they were going alone—at least not with each other. The flurry of the getaway.

The number and bounce of these meaningless little squalls is determined, in otherwise tranquil households, only by the frequency of the occasions. If you're ashamed of it as something peculiar to your house, just broach the subject to any honest acquaintance and learn that you're about average.

It usually starts from two days to a week before departure. When it is being decided what luggage to take or what loaning friend has the right bags to borrow. Invariably the man fires the first gun. He says:

"This time, dear, let's not go loaded down with a lot of truck that we'll have no use for."

She says: "If you're referring to me, darling, take the advice unto thyself."

He says: "You know that I always take the mere necessities. It's you who loads up the luggage; I know how to travel."

"Dear" and "darling" from here on cease to clutter up the conversation. She leers: "Then when we get there you go out and buy some misfits that you never can use when you get back home."

Now they're off! He leers back: "You know better than that. I do no such thing. I know what to take."

She says: "Oh yeah; what about that heliotrope sports coat that's hung in the attic five years—the one with the big pearl buttons?"

THEY FINALLY DECIDE to take a certain three bags; get 'em out, dusted, and opened up in the bedroom. She begins to pack two days before the takeoff. By night the three bags are full. She has four dresses yet to pack and his stuff still rests on top of the dresser.

From then to departure all ground rules are off and no holds barred. They barely miss Reno before he consents to substitute a steamer trunk for one of the bags—provided there'll be no cussed pasteboard hat box on the party. He decides he'd better move in and preempt space for his belongings.

So he takes first crack at the steamer trunk. When he gets through there's only one compartment left. She beats it to the attic and brings back the bag that the steamer trunk was to replace.

She unloads everything of his from the trunk and stuffs it in the retrieved bag. Swearing he'll never go any place with her again as long as he lives, he too makes a trip to the attic. He brings down a big packing case; a battered old-fashioned thing — to shame her.

He takes all of his things out of the bag where she had stuffed them, slams them in the packing case, spreads his suits on top, straps it up and leaves her with a dirty look that says: "There, damn it; now it's all yours!"

THEY STARTED. with three bags. Now they have three bags, a steamer trunk and a packing case. Whereupon she decides that there's room for some things she hadn't planned to take. After three tries she finally gets it all in, all except her hats.

She takes her shoes out of the trunk to put her hats there. They won't fit. Another trip to the attic. The nearest he ever came to killing her was when she came back with a pasteboard hat box, two feet in diameter.

Time comes to load. The inventory now is a steamer trunk, three bags, a packing case and a hat box. It takes half an hour of cute engineering to sandwich them into the car.

They get in the car and she speaks the first word in ten hours: "Aren't you taking your golf clubs?" He also speaks: "Where in hell would I put golf clubs?" Just the same he goes to get them.

In the doorway she calls, "And the radio; we forgot the radio." At length they're off, with golf bag and radio a front seat barrier to threatening homicide.

Two hours out the beauties of nature overcome them. "Let's not spoil our trip; let's be friends," she says. He pulls to the side of the road and kisses her. They get out to stretch. She points to the rear, right tire. It is flat as a pancake—and the spare buried under the luggage.

The silence is broken, but what he said can't be told here.

Opening lead—♣ 5

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

When the average bridge player gets a long succession of miserable hands, his heart sinks and his brain shuts down. A demoralized expert often plays worse than a beginner.

The opposite is true of my old friend Abe Wechsler, who spends his time as a big bean in the coffee business when he isn't busy as an ace at bridge. Mr. Wechsler moans gently about the bad cards he holds but concentrates on playing the defense as skilfully as possible. The result is very annoying to his opponents.

Take the hand shown today as an example. South won the opening club lead with the nine and noted that he needed two heart tricks to make sure of his contract. He therefore led a low heart from his hand and played the queen from dummy.

This was a mistake on South's part, as you've surely noticed. (If you don't see the error, don't admit it. We'll come back to it.)

Mr. Wechsler, holding the East cards, pounced on South's mistake by allowing dummy's queen of hearts to hold the trick. This was a very neat bit of pouncing, because it gave South a chance to go down. If East had taken the first heart, nothing could stop leclarer from bringing in two heart tricks to make his contract.

Declarer continued by playing the jack of hearts from dummy, and this time Mr. Wechsler won with the king of hearts. Now dummy's hearts were dead. South would have to lead the suit twice more from dummy to set up the last heart, and then he would need a third entry to dummy to cash that last heart. Since dummy had only two entries, this could not be done.

South might have made the contract by good guessing, but he floundered about with unsuccessful finesses in spades and diamonds and wound up with only eight tricks.

While we're congratulating Mr. Wechler for a very pretty defensive play, let's not forget to roast South for his bad play at the second trick. The right play is to finesse the eight of hearts, or to lead the seven of hearts and let it ride.

This obliges East to win the first round of hearts with the nine. South wins the spade return with the ace (or a club return with the king) and leads his remaining heart. Now South will surely win two heart tricks, and he is not at the mercy of guesses and finesses.

Town of Ulster Plans Meeting on Purchases

Vernon Felton, town superintendent of highways of the town of Ulster, has recommended to the town board the purchase of a Studebaker dump truck for $3,262.39 and also a Trojan LM75 Loadster for $6,730 for use in the highway department.

A meeting of the town board will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. at the town barn, Albany avenue extension, to consider this recommendation. Members of the town board request appearance of the residents of the town at the meeting to let the board know whether they favor purchase of this equipment.

Autopsy Ordered In Woman's Death

An autopsy was ordered this morning to determine the cause of the death last night of Mrs. Anna Harrison, 46, of West Shokan.

Mrs. Harrison was pronounced dead on arrival at the office of Dr. Paul LePaige of Ashokan when she was taken there about 9:40 p. m. Sunday by her husband, James Harrison, after she suffered a nose bleed at her home, state police reported.

Troopers learned that Mrs. Harrison, apparently in good health, was at home Sunday evening with her husband and 15-year-old son when she suffered a severe nose bleed. After attempts to stop the bleeding failed, she was taken in the family automobile to the doctor's office.

Coroner Michael A. Galietta ordered an autopsy this morning at the Lasher Funeral Home in Woodstock.

Cpl. Ray Dunne and Trooper E. J. Devine, who began the investigation, were joined this morning by Sgt. Arthur A. Reilly of the BCI.

Turnpike Gasoline Supplies Dwindle Despite Promise

Newark, N. J., May 12 (AP)—Gasoline supplies on the New Jersey turnpike dwindled further today despite a promise that they would be replenished "by hook or by crook."

One of the nine gas stations on the 118-mile superhighway shut down late yesterday after it went dry, and most of the others are rationing what's left of their stores.

George F. Smith, turnpike vice chairman who made the "hook or crook" promise last night, announced that there would be a meeting today between turnpike commissioners, Cities Service Oil Co., operators of the stations, and representatives of the CIO oilworkers.

However, Anthony F. McConlogue, president of Oilworkers Local 337, said he didn't know anything about such a meeting.

Smith declined to give details of what the turnpike authority planned doing to maintain gasoline service on the toll road. His announcement followed a refusal by the CIO oilworkers to permit Cities Service to deliver supplies to turnpike stations. The stations are being picketed as part of a nationwide oil strike.

Accord Unit

The Accord Home Bureau Unit held its regular monthly meeting May 8, with 14 members present. Mrs. Ben Davis, vice-chairman, presided.

A food sale was planned for Friday beginning at 1:30 p. m., in the town clerk's office in Accord. Each member was asked to contribute food or make a donation for the sale.

Miss Rowe was the guest speaker and gave an instructive demonstration and talk on keeping clothes looking new.

The next meeting will take place Thursday, June 12, at 8 p. m., in the Pine Bush School. A large attendance is expected to decide on the next year's projects.

Wiltwyck Unit

The Wiltwyck Unit held its monthly meeting and tea May 6 at 410 Broadway. Mrs. Adam C. Thiel, chairman, presided. There were 21 members and one guest present.

A spring tea will be held Wednesday, May 26, at the home of Mrs. William Hand in Bearsville. Each member is asked to bring sandwiches or cookies. Members will meet at 12:30 p. m. at 410 Broadway.

Instead of the annual picnic, there will be a luncheon Tuesday, June 10. The place will be announced.

A cotton dress class will be held Wednesday, May 28 from 1 to 3 p. m. and the tray class will take place June 6, 9 and 13 from 1 to 3 p. m. each day. Dates for the plastic bag class will be announced.

Tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Walter Fallon, Mrs. D. Freer and Mrs. Ben Toffel. Mrs. Charles Lamphier and Mrs. Milford Woodland poured.

The Plank Road Home Bureau unit will hold its regular meeting Tuesday at 7:45 p. m. in Boice's Hall. All members are requested to attend as this will be the last meeting of the year.

To Attend Meeting

Mrs. William Douglas of Ellenville, chairman of the Ulster County Home Bureau, will attend the meeting of the Eastern Federation of Home Bureaus to be held in Albany May 12 and 13. Mrs. Douglas will report accomplishments of the leaders who were recently trained to teach the making of a basic rayon dress. Two leaders, Thomas Turck and Mrs. Fred Fahnrich of Kingston, will model the dresses and accessories they made. Mrs. William Powers of Kingston and the Misses Everice Parsons and Helen Rowe also will attend the meeting. Reports indicate there will be a large delegation of Home Bureau members attendance for at least one session of the two-day meeting. Bus loads are going from Modena and Centerville.

Family Life Session

The Family Life committee, headed by Mrs. Millard Davis of Kerhonkson, sponsor of Family Life studies on the executive committee, invites all interested in child development and family relations to attend the county-wide meeting scheduled for 8 p. m., Monday, May 19, at the Reformed Church Hall in Stone Ridge to hear a talk by Dr. Mary Fisher Langmuir of the Department of Child Study at Vassar College on Today's Problems of Today's Children. A brief summary will be given of the leaders conference recently held at the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell University.

Now that the canning season is here the Ulster County Home Bureau has reminded women that pressure canner gauges can be checked for accuracy at the office.

Mrs. Alvin Stiller of Highland will conduct a meeting at any community hall or church in the county if 10 women wish to enroll for cleaning and adjusting of their sewing machines. Enrollees bring their machines to the meeting and take them apart, clean and reassemble them and learn how to put them in good running order. Each woman adjusts her machine to produce a perfect stitch before leaving the meeting. Anyone wishing to attend such a meeting is invited to notify the Home Bureau Office, 280 Wall street in Kingston.

Ulster Park Youth Given Engineering Scholarship Award

O. William Gaudette, 17, of Ulster Park, has been named recipient of the 1952 Engineering Scholarship offered by Electrol Incorporated, of this city, the firm announced today. Edmund L. Bower, 17, of Hurley, was named alternate. Both boys are Kingston High School seniors.

Gaudette, son of Mr. and Mrs. Opta Gaudette of Ulster Park, is editor-in-chief of the Maroon, Kingston High School's yearbook, president of the Key Club, secretary-treasurer of the Bookwalter Chapter of Hi-Y, and member of the Marshall Squad at the high school. He has been inducted into the National Honor Society. During his junior year at school, he attended the American Legion Boys' State, and he was secretary of his freshman class.

Bower Is Alternate

Bower, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund R. Bower of Hurley, is president of the senior class at Kingston High School, treasurer of the Student Council, member of National Honor Society, Key Club, band, and was on the jayvee basketball squad. Outside school, he has served as president and vice president of his local 4-H club and is active in Youth Fellowship work. He has been Hi-Y chaplain for four years.

The scholarship is awarded by Electrol Incorported to an outstanding student in Ulster county. It represents full tuition for four years in any accredited Engineering School of the student's choice. The student may choose to specialize in aeronautical, mechanical, civil or electrical engineering, provided his primary interest is a career in the aviation industry.

Electrol Incorporated also offers summer employment to the scholarship winner, if he desires it, and upon successful completion of the full engineering course will offer employment if suitable positions are available.

The Electrol scholarship committee consists of the chairman, B. N. Ashton, president of Electrol Inc.; Hon. John T. Loughran, chief judge of the Court of Appeals; Ernest A. Steuding, superintendent of the Board of Public Works; John Henry Martin, principal of Kingston High School; Ronald Reigal, principal of Kerhonkson High School; James A. Dwyer, president of Rondout National Bank, and James E. Tobin, director of guidance, Kingston city schools.

Battle of the Bags

By FRANK TRIPP

Breathes there a couple who cannot remember those tense, silent first hours of a journey together? That tight-lipped period after the bags were finally packed; when both wished they were going alone—at least not with each other. The flurry of the getaway.

The number and bounce of these meaningless little squalls is determined, in otherwise tranquil households, only by the frequency of the occasions. If you're ashamed of it as something peculiar to your house, just broach the subject to any honest acquaintance and learn that you're about average.

It usually starts from two days to a week before departure. When it is being decided what luggage to take or what loaning friend has the right bags to borrow. Invariably the man fires the first gun. He says:

"This time, dear, let's not go loaded down with a lot of truck that we'll have no use for."

She says: "If you're referring to me, darling, take the advice unto thyself."

He says: "You know that I always take the mere necessities. It's you who loads up the luggage; I know how to travel."

"Dear" and "darling" from here on cease to clutter up the conversation. She leers: "Then when we get there you go out and buy some misfits that you never can use when you get back home."

Now they're off! He leers back: "You know better than that. I do no such thing. I know what to take."

She says: "Oh yeah; what about that heliotrope sports coat that's hung in the attic five years—the one with the big pearl buttons?"

THEY FINALLY DECIDE to take a certain three bags; get 'em out, dusted, and opened up in the bedroom. She begins to pack two days before the takeoff. By night the three bags are full. She has four dresses yet to pack and his stuff still rests on top of the dresser.

From then to departure all ground rules are off and no holds barred. They barely miss Reno before he consents to substitute a steamer trunk for one of the bags—provided there'll be no cussed pasteboard hat box on the party. He decides he'd better move in and preempt space for his belongings.

So he takes first crack at the steamer trunk. When he gets through there's only one compartment left. She beats it to the attic and brings back the bag that the steamer trunk was to replace.

She unloads everything of his from the trunk and stuffs it in the retrieved bag. Swearing he'll never go any place with her again as long as he lives, he too makes a trip to the attic. He brings down a big packing case; a battered old-fashioned thing — to shame her.

He takes all of his things out of the bag where she had stuffed them, slams them in the packing case, spreads his suits on top, straps it up and leaves her with a dirty look that says: "There, damn it; now it's all yours!"

THEY STARTED. with three bags. Now they have three bags, a steamer trunk and a packing case. Whereupon she decides that there's room for some things she hadn't planned to take. After three tries she finally gets it all in, all except her hats.

She takes her shoes out of the trunk to put her hats there. They won't fit. Another trip to the attic. The nearest he ever came to killing her was when she came back with a pasteboard hat box, two feet in diameter.

Time comes to load. The inventory now is a steamer trunk, three bags, a packing case and a hat box. It takes half an hour of cute engineering to sandwich them into the car.

They get in the car and she speaks the first word in ten hours: "Aren't you taking your golf clubs?" He also speaks: "Where in hell would I put golf clubs?" Just the same he goes to get them.

In the doorway she calls, "And the radio; we forgot the radio." At length they're off, with golf bag and radio a front seat barrier to threatening homicide.

Two hours out the beauties of nature overcome them. "Let's not spoil our trip; let's be friends," she says. He pulls to the side of the road and kisses her. They get out to stretch. She points to the rear, right tire. It is flat as a pancake—and the spare buried under the luggage.

The silence is broken, but what he said can't be told here.

Turnpike Gasoline Supplies Dwindle Despite Promise

Newark, N. J., May 12 (AP)—Gasoline supplies on the New Jersey turnpike dwindled further today despite a promise that they would be replenished "by hook or by crook."

One of the nine gas stations on the 118-mile superhighway shut down late yesterday after it went dry, and most of the others are rationing what's left of their stores.

George F. Smith, turnpike vice chairman who made the "hook or crook" promise last night, announced that there would be a meeting today between turnpike commissioners, Cities Service Oil Co., operators of the stations, and representatives of the CIO oilworkers.

However, Anthony F. McConlogue, president of Oilworkers Local 337, said he didn't know anything about such a meeting.

Win Four Firsts; Kingston High Cops 440 Relay

Goldbacks Strong In Field Events

Middletown and Newburgh dominated the Class A section of the first annual Hudson Valley Relay Carnival with four first places Saturday at New Paltz Central's new quarter mile track.

The Middies took first in the 880 and mile relays and placed winners in the discus and high jump.

The Goldbacks captured the medley relay and had winners in the shot put, javelin and pole vault.

Kingston High's lone victory came in the 440 relay with a winning quartet of Webster Henderson, A. Miller, Orville Giles and Charlie Johnson, who ran in that order.

Muzzy Wright, the football and basketball star, picked up a first place for Poughkeepsie with a leap of 19 feet, 7½ inches in the running board jump.

Kingston's winning 440 relay team was clocked in 47.2 seconds.

Sam Leghorn, of basketball fame, tossed the shot 43 feet, 1½ inches for a NFA victory. Harold Weissman heaved the javelin for 160 feet, 3 inches, and Richie Spree vaulted 9 feet, 10 inches, for other Newburgh wins.

Saddlemire of Middletown won the discus with a heave of 119 feet, 2 inches. His teammate, Saunders, came up with a 5 foot 6 inch leap in the high jump. Frank Koenig and Bon Bondar finished in a tie for second, one inch lower. The winning mark was well under the 5' 11" set by Koenig last week for a new all-time KHS record.

The summaries:

Class A Races

Mile Relay—Won by Middletown High; second, Poughkeepsie; third, Kingston (Mazzucca, H. Miller, Billings, Craft); fourth Newburgh. Time—3:46.1.

Medley Relay—Won by Newburgh Academy; second, Middletown; third, Kingston.

Shot Put—Won by Sam Leghorn, Newburgh; second, Saddlemire, Middletown; third, Corrado, Newburgh. Distance—43 ft., 1½ in.

Discus — Won by Saddlemire, Middletown; second, White, Middletown; third, Borello, Newburgh. Distance—119 ft., 2 in.

Javelin—Won by Weissman, NFA; second, Wright, PHS; third, Smith, PHS. Distance—160 ft., 3 in.

Pole Vault—Won by Richie Spreer, NFA; second, Hutchinson, Middletown; third, Wright, PHS. Height—9 ft., 10 in.

High Jump—Won by Saunders, Middletown; second, tie between Koenig and Bondar, KHS. Height—5 ft., 6 in.

Broad Jump—Won by Wright, PHS; second, Cappolla, Middletown; third, Burkowski, NFA. Distance—19 ft., 7½ in.

Standing Board Adamant as State Tenpin Tournament Is Down to Last 300 Teams

Two weekends and 300 teams away from the final shot in the New York State bowling tournament, the current leaders look safe enough to take the cash prizes and medals right now.

The last big weekend of the 55-day tenpin marathon created no major changes, although 15 combines grossed better than "3000" and twice that number rolled over 2900.

Only major change occurred Friday night when Ted Richardson, of Stottville, a 35-year veteran with a 150-average, posted 2066 in the all-events. A new fifth-place man cropped up late last night when Arthur Annechorico of New York shot 2030 for his nine-game aggregate.

The leaders in the five-man gross and net divisions were unchallenged and the scoreboard hasn't been disturbed for two weekends.

New 5th Doubles

Not a bowler was able to crash either the first ten gross or top five in the net division of the singles. One change was created in the gross doubles. Ray White and Harold Hallen of Syracuse posted a 1402 score to take third place in gross doubles.

White furnished 734 and Hallen had 668. The former moved into seventh place in the all-events with 651 in the team and 534 in singles on top of the 734 blast in the doubles.

Fromer Petroleum held fast in the gross team division with 3249 and nobody has even come close to Wagner-Adler's 3219 net score. Eugene Hoffmeister, of Rome, is off by himself with 833 in the gross singles and his 733 also tops the net.

The doubles section is paced by Dean Place and Warren McPherson of Elmira with 1407. Bill Hansley and Johnny Bomba of New York have 1346 in the net division and that figure will take a lot of beating.

The "2000" all-events totals by Annechorico and Ray White boosted to ten the number of "2000s" in the nine-game division for what is believed to be a new all-time state record. Ted Richardson's 2066 must be conceded an excellent chance of standing up, although many bowlers will be flirting with it before the last ball is rolled on Monday, May 26.

Best Score is 3119

The best five-man score for the weekend was posted by the Benham Hotel keglers of Penn Yan, who fired 3119 on a net 2822 and 299-handicap.

Naglee's Moving & Storage of Elmira rolled 3088 and Ideal Sign of Utica had 3065.

Fromer's lead was in jeopardy for a couple of games on Saturday's final squad when Rudge Ripple of Troy opened with 1047 and 100 on actual counts of 988 and 939. Then the Trojans got to thinking about the prize melon within their reach, tightened up and ran into a mess of splits and misses. They dipped to a mediocre 765 in the stretch to wind up with 3049.

Four "1300" Doubles

Only one team made the standing board in the gross doubles but four tandems rolled 1300 or better. Best score was a 1311 credited to J. Temple Nelson and John Nelson of Freesburg with 1311. J. Temple shot 648 and John Nelson furnished 663.

G. Dickerson and D. Beaver of Lakewood toppled 1308. C. Langnus and P. Mazzeo of New York hit for 1304 and W. Lyczke and R. Halgas of Amsterdam had 1302. Lyczke was the big man with 704.

Hymie Arlensky Tops All Events

Hymie Arlensky, one of the state tournament statisticians at the Bowlatorium, is in line for a handsome trophy for the best Kingston score in the gross events division of the state tournament.

Arlensky was riding in the first ten for several days up to last night with a sparkling 1983. He compiled a net of 1704 with 505 in the team event, 609 doubles, and 590 singles, and a 279-pin handicap.

Win Y Softball Sets Dodgers and Giants

Jim Cullum's Dodgers nosed out Pete Ferraro's Yankees, 9 to 8, in the YMCA Softball League Saturday at the Athletic Field.

In the other set, Ray Christiana's Giants walloped Jim Millard's Pirates, 18 to 4.

Vince Kelder of the Dodgers set up the winning rally for his team in the bottom of the seventh. He led off with a double, stole third and scored on an infield out.

The Giants scored in every inning against the Pirates. They racked up four runs in the first and third frames and a cluster of six in the second.

Trotters at Yonkers

Yonkers, May 12 (AP)—The Grand Circuit moves to Yonkers Raceway tonight and when the session ends on May 24, horsemen will have carted away more than $200,000 in purses. Top event on tonight's program will be the $3,600 Hasting Pace which has attracted a field of 11. Scottish Chief, which finished in the money in 27 of 30 starts last year, rules the favorite. This will be his first start of the year.

Rain Wipes Out Rhinebeck Race

Rhinebeck Speedway has its first double feature main event set up for next Saturday night, as the result of Saturday night's washout of the 25-lap feature.

The rains descended on the Speedway just after Dick Barnitt had spun in front of the stands entangling three other cars and locking with them so that it required the efforts of a wrecker and the entire pit crew to separate them.

Bob Disbrow of Poughkeepsie had ironed out some of the wrinkles that he had encountered in his modified job, No. 105, last week and returned to take the first qualifying heat. Claude Wagner won the second heat and Ulster county's Larry Shurter grabbed the third in his No. 75.

Jack Nichols, veteran driver of Carmel, with car No. 6N, won the first semi-final. Charlie Barry, of Syracuse, who took home the cream of the purse last week, returned to try again with his sportsman No. 49 and took the first place in the second semi-final.

Byron Fisher of Rhinebeck, driving No. 11 owned by Vernon Rifenburgh, won the consolation, with second place going to Doug Garrison, the up and coming Tri-State speedster from Holmes.

Of course, Jupe Pluvius took the feature race, but he received no points and no pay off, so the fans hope he'll decide to stay away from Rhinebeck Speedway henceforth. The inclement weather cut down somewhat on the anticipated large field of racing stars.

The first event on May 17 at 8:30 will be the rained-out 25-lapper. Following will be a complete card of seven NASCAR races, including a second 25-lap race around the northern Dutchess oval.

City Softball Loop Opens With 9 Teams

The nine-team City Softball League launches its 1952 season with four games this evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Games are scheduled on Monday and Wednesdays at four playing areas—upper and lower Hasbrouck Park, Block Park and upper Forsyth.

The league as usual is under the supervision of the Department of Recreation, with Andy Murphy III serving as director.

The opening day slate:

Hilltop vs. Sickler's at lower Hasbrouck.

Cuneo's vs. Beichert's at upper Hasbrouck.

Subway vs. Kingston Knitting, Block Park.

V.F.W. vs. American Legion at upper Forsyth.

Snead's 64 Captures Greenbrier Open

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 12 (AP)—There's no place like home, of course, and for Sam Snead there's no place like his home course.

Sam proved it again yesterday with a four-under-par 66 in a drenching rain to win the $1,800 first prize in the Greenbrier Open, played over the layout where he also picks up loose change as golf professional.

It was the Slammer's fourth straight sub-par round and gave him a 72-hole total of 264. His 16 strokes under par were six better than the second-place effort turned in by Ed (Porky) Oliver of Lemont, Ill., who pocketed $1,000.

Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., copped third with a 271 and $700 in prize money.

Dinner May 21 For Horsemen

Indications are that the annual dinner of the Kingston Horsemen's Association, May 21, at The Barn, will surpass any to date in attendance

This was announced today by President Harry B. Walker, who said that tickets are in demand by city residents and horsemen in many surrounding communities.

There'll be a good time said the former mayor, whose first love is promoting the horsemen's association.

The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. and will be followed by an entertainment.

Chairman of the dinner is James McCabe, local restaurateur, and pony concession operator on Route 28. Assistaing him besides President Walker are Sgt. John Roosa, A. H. Chambers, Isadore Epstein, Clifford Anderson and Ferd Gildersleeve.

They all are selling tickets and advise that those contemplating attendance procure them as soon as possible before the supply runs out.

Frank Cookingham has tickets in Rhinebeck, James Baxter in Red Hook, William Martin in Ellenville and James McCabe in Saugerties.

Walker, recently reelected president by the association, is the only survivor of the group that started it back in 1918.

He is well known in trotting circles although he has retired as an active participant and owner.

New York Five Rolls Big Game

Jamestown, N. Y., May 12 (AP)—Joe Doran's Five of New York City has posted the highest single team game in the New York state women's bowling tournament.

The Manhattan quinitet took over third place in Class A team rolling Saturday night when they amassed a tally of 2527. The single game achievement went in the books as a 974 mark.

There were no changes among the leaders last night.

Pat Volpe and Chris Tantalo of Rochester also shook up the standings a bit Saturday night when they hit the pins for a 972 score to move into first place, Class C doubles.

In the only other change over the weekend, the Brooders of Rochester rolled a 2192 Friday night to gain third place in Class C team competition.

The standings, for the most part, were unchanged.

The leaders:

Class A Singles—1. Rose Schatzel, Kingston, 616; 2. Babs Reichmeyer, Buffalo, 610; Dot Hartleben, Rochester (tie for second) 610.

Class A Teams—1. Pure Quill, Rochester, 2585; 2. Turner Club, Rochester, 2544; 3. Joe Doran's Five, New York city, 2527.

Separated

The burial of the heart apart from the body was a practice in both ancient Egypt and medieval Europe, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

In birds the chest is not separated from the abdomen and breathing is carried on by the abdominal muscles.

The SCOREBoard

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

What happened to the lively ball? Like the dodo bird, it appears to have become extinct.

Remember when those pitchers were wailing about too much jackrabbit in the ball? That was only two years ago. Now the hitters are doing the moaning and groaning and with good reason.

Just look at these figures of futility on the part of the batters:

The major league season is less than a month old and already 28 shutouts have been pitched. American League hurlers, who have turned in 17 whitewashing jobs, have spun seven 1-0 games to equal their full-season total of 1951.

Bob Lemon of Cleveland and Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees pitched brilliant 1-0, two-hit victories yesterday. That boosted the total of low-hit games this year to 35. Recently, Bob Feller of Cleveland, Bob Cain of the St. Louis Browns and Art Houtteman of Detroit, hurled one-hitters.

Only four home runs were hit yesterday. That raised the two leagues' total to 217, exactly 70 fewer than the 287 hit last year at a corresponding date.

Tribe Leads by Two

Lemon's two-hit victory was followed by Mike Garcia's eight-hit 3-1 triumph. It enabled the Indians to sweep a doubleheader from the Browns and increase their American League lead to two games over the runner-up Washington Senators.

Lemon was extended to the limit as Ned Garver, Brownie ace, yielded only four hits himself. Three of them came in the last half of the ninth to furnish the only run. Dale Mitchell's two-out single with the bases loaded broke up the mound duel.

The Indians collected only five hits off loser Cain and two relievers in the second game but made them all count for Garcia's fourth victory.

Reynolds, who hurled a no-hitter against the Red Sox last September, nearly duplicated the stunt. The only hits the Red Sox got yesterday were first-inning singles by Dom DiMaggio and Vern Stephens. Hank Bauer singled off loser Mel Parnell with one out in the fifth, advanced to second on a grounder and scored on a line single by Irv Noren.

The Senators defeated the Philadelphia Athletics in 11 innings of the first game of a doubleheader. Rain washed out the second tilt after two scoreless innings.

With the bases loaded and two out in the 11th, Eddie Yost raised a pop foul. Elmer Valo and Skeets Kell let the ball drop in foul territory behind first, and Yost singled on the next pitch to drive in two runs.

Tigers Break Slump

The Detroit Tigers snapped their seven-game losing streak, nipping Chicago, 2-1, after the White Sox had won the first game of the doubleheader, 6-5. Rookie George Lerchen's eighth-inning single drove Johnny Lipon home from second with the winning Tiger run in the eighth.

Minnie Minoso's two-run homer and strong relief pitching by Saul Rogovin, another ex-Tiger, won the opener for Chicago.

The Dodgers whittled New York's National League lead to one game, edging Philadelphia, 4-3, in 10 innings.

An error set up Brooklyn's winning run. Peewee Reese got a life on Granny Hamner's bobble, stole second and scored on a two-out single by Roy Campanella.

Joe Adcock walloped two homers and a single to lead the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Chicago split a twin bill with Pittsburgh. The Pirates, who had lost 20 of 24 starts, rallied to whip the Bruins, 11-2 after losing the opener, 8-2.

The scheduled doubleheader between the Giants and Braves in Boston was postponed because of rain.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting: Joe Adcock, Reds—Hammered two home runs and a single to lead Cincinnati to an 8-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Pitching: Bob Lemon, Indians and Allie Reynolds, Yankees—Lemon pitched a two-hit, 1-0 victory over Ned Garver and the St. Louis Browns. Reynolds pitched a two-hit, 1-0 victory over Mel Parnell and the Boston Red Sox.

15-Year-Old Youth Wins Trapshoot Title

Pelham Manor, N. Y., May 12 (AP)—Dick Baldwin, a 15-year-old Danbury, Conn., sharpshooter, is young in years, but he can show the veterans a couple of pointers in marksmanship.

Baldwin yesterday won the distance handicap title in the American Amateur Trapshooting championships with a 93, two better than Al Cornwall of Brookville Center, Conn. It was Dick's second crown in two days. Saturday, he defended his junior title successfully.

Young Baldwin, who holds the National Sub-Junior championship of North America, broke 473 targets in four separate events in the three day shoot.

Final Meeting

The City Baseball League's final meeting before the seasonal opener Sunday, May 18, will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 at the city court room in city hall.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

They said the guy titillates the fans and titivates the industry. That's why he's the new sensation of the Saturday night TV wrestling network out of Chicago.

Well, Irish Pat O'Connor, that handsome hunk of Gaelic manhood, was all of that in his Kingston debut Friday night. Rocca looked great. So did fellows like Primo Carnera, Gene Stanlee, Verne Gagne, Mighty Atlas. But this young fellow out of New Zealand is the Babe Ruth of the crowd at the moment.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The village of Saugerties is stirred by the advent of its first Little League on June 10. The Lions Club formerly operated a junior league and is behind the movement to start Little League activity in a community that is rich in baseball tradition. John Sauer is president of the league, while Ernie Schirmer and Ben Fein are big men behind the movement. Bob Umpleby, president of the Kingston Athletic Association, will address the Saugerties organization Tuesday night. Pfc. William "Boo" Schaffer of the U. S. Marine Corps barely missed being aboard the aircraft carrier Wasp, which was in collision with the destroyer "Hobson" in mid-Atlantic several days ago. The well known Saugerties baseball and basketball star who had served on the carrier since August 1951, was transferred to land duty in Brooklyn only a day before the Wasp was struck. Joe Vozdik, the popular Saugerties referee, has been assigned to the U. S. Olympic Eastern United States boxing finals at Hawkins Stadium, Albany, on May 26 and 27.

• Of Men and Mice:

Did Charlie Brodhead start that rumor about the Can-Am reorganizing with five teams for the 1952 season? The baseball world is still waiting to hear about the results of Fred Davi's meeting with the Building and Supplies Committee of the Common Council. If semi-pro baseball is to operate in Kingston, Davi is the man to run it. But the Glasco promoter is entitled to every possible assistance if he can meet his financial commitments. We understand he is ready to post a bond for a 12-game package deal with the committee. Meanwhile, Davi and Andy Murphy III, the recreation director, are supposed to be hatching up a baseball story due to break any day. Joe Scott, the tennis addict, says he is encouraged by prospects of opening up three courts at Forsyth Park. We presume that Coach Theron Culver and the KHS squad would like that setup, too. Scott points out that free loan of tennis rackets and balls will be available this summer at Hutton, Forsyth and Hasbrouck Parks, largely through the success of a drive last fall for donations of rackets by the public. The rackets have been reconditioned and youngsters may sign them out at any of the parks. There will be four or five rackets at each park. The only requirement is that sneakers be worn on the clay courts. Street shoes are verboten.

Start of a Serial: Beacon High has quit the tennis section of the DUSO League. Other sports to follow.

• Women Play Big Role in Little League:

Don't overlook the adult phase of Little League. In 1951, there were 11,842 grownups supervising play in one way or another. And 870 of them were women. Why, when one Dayton, O., youngster's team ran out of batting practice pitchers, he ran home to mother. She's been fogging 'em across in practice ever since.

Although good sportsmanship is stressed, Little League was not organized as a juvenile-reform measure, though civic leaders enthusiastically endorse it as a wholesome influence for the small-fry.

Is Little League making better citizens of our youngsters?

"I don't know what it's doing for the kids," replies Ed Kemp, Hagerstown, Md., Little League official, "but it certainly is doing a great job on the parents."

The 5100 fans who paid to see the RPI-St. Lawrence hockey game at Troy on Feb. 16 represented the largest crowd ever to attend an indoor sport event in the Tri-City area (Troy, Albany and Schenectady).

Rawls Takes Lead In Weathervane

Seattle, May 12 (AP) — Betsy Rawls, a quiet Texan with a talkative putter, was looking today for some way to "wrap up this Broadmoor Golf course and take it with me."

The straight shooter from Austin knocked a stroke off men's par of 70 at Broadmoor Sunday. She tacked this 69 onto an even 70 of the day before and the 139 total was good for first place in the Seattle leg of the cross-country Weathervane Open tournament.

Good enough? It was so good that the second-place finishers—Alice and Marlene Bauer of Sarasota, Fla.—were 11 strokes back with 150s. It was so good it sent Betsy into first place in the Weathervane by nine strokes after she had started the Seattle tourney seven strokes behind Babe Didriksen Zaharias.

The Babe, dogged by tough luck, chuckled as she picked up the $60 check for last money in the $3,000 payoff: "I guess there has to be a first time for everything, and I'm glad to get the sixty."

Mrs. Zaharias cost herself three strokes before she even swung a club Sunday. She reported to tournament officials that the 77 credited to her Saturday was wrong, and that her scorer had missed one stroke. The officials made the change and added a two-stroke penalty for the mistake.

Win Four Firsts; Kingston High Cops 440 Relay

Goldbacks Strong In Field Events

Middletown and Newburgh dominated the Class A section of the first annual Hudson Valley Relay Carnival with four first places Saturday at New Paltz Central's new quarter mile track.

The Middies took first in the 880 and mile relays and placed winners in the discus and high jump.

The Goldbacks captured the medley relay and had winners in the shot put, javelin and pole vault.

Kingston High's lone victory came in the 440 relay with a winning quartet of Webster Henderson, A. Miller, Orville Giles and Charlie Johnson, who ran in that order.

Muzzy Wright, the football and basketball star, picked up a first place for Poughkeepsie with a leap of 19 feet, 7½ inches in the running board jump.

Kingston's winning 440 relay team was clocked in 47.2 seconds.

Sam Leghorn, of basketball fame, tossed the shot 43 feet, 1½ inches for a NFA victory. Harold Weissman heaved the javelin for 160 feet, 3 inches, and Richie Spree vaulted 9 feet, 10 inches, for other Newburgh wins.

Saddlemire of Middletown won the discus with a heave of 119 feet, 2 inches. His teammate, Saunders, came up with a 5 foot 6 inch leap in the high jump. Frank Koenig and Bon Bondar finished in a tie for second, one inch lower. The winning mark was well under the 5' 11" set by Koenig last week for a new all-time KHS record.

The summaries:

Class A Races

Mile Relay—Won by Middletown High; second, Poughkeepsie; third, Kingston (Mazzucca, H. Miller, Billings, Craft); fourth Newburgh. Time—3:46.1.

Medley Relay—Won by Newburgh Academy; second, Middletown; third, Kingston.

Shot Put—Won by Sam Leghorn, Newburgh; second, Saddlemire, Middletown; third, Corrado, Newburgh. Distance—43 ft., 1½ in.

Discus—Won by Saddlemire, Middletown; second, White, Middletown; third, Borello, Newburgh. Distance—119 ft., 2 in.

Javelin—Won by Weissman, NFA; second, Wright, PHS; third, Smith, PHS. Distance—160 ft., 3 in.

Pole Vault—Won by Richie Spreer, NFA; second, Hutchinson, Middletown; third, Wright, PHS. Height—9 ft., 10 in.

High Jump—Won by Saunders, Middletown; second, tie between Koenig and Bondar, KHS. Height—5 ft., 6 in.

Standing Board Adamant as State Tenpin Tournament Is Down to Last 300 Teams

Two weekends and 300 teams away from the final shot in the New York State bowling tournament, the current leaders look safe enough to take the cash prizes and medals right now.

The last big weekend of the 55-day tenpin marathon created no major changes, although 15 combines grossed better than "3000" and twice that number rolled over 2900.

Only major change occurred Friday night when Ted Richardson, of Stottville, a 35-year veteran with a 150-average, posted 2066 in the all-events. A new fifth-place man cropped up late last night when Arthur Annechorico of New York shot 2030 for his nine-game aggregate.

The leaders in the five-man gross and net divisions were unchallenged and the scoreboard hasn't been disturbed for two weekends.

New 5th Doubles

Not a bowler was able to crash either the first ten gross or top five in the net division of the singles. One change was created in the gross doubles. Ray White and Harold Hallen of Syracuse posted a 1402 score to take third place in gross doubles.

White furnished 734 and Hallen had 668. The former moved into seventh place in the all-events with 651 in the team and 534 in singles on top of the 734 blast in the doubles.

Fromer Petroleum held fast in the gross team division with 3249 and nobody has even come close to Wagner-Adler's 3219 net score. Eugene Hoffmeister, of Rome, is off by himself with 833 in the gross singles and his 733 also tops the net.

The doubles section is paced by Dean Place and Warren McPherson of Elmira with 1407. Bill Hansley and Johnny Bomba of New York have 1346 in the net division and that figure will take a lot of beating.

The "2000" all-events totals by Annechorico and Ray White boosted to ten the number of "2000s" in the nine-game division for what is believed to be a new all-time state record. Ted Richardson's 2066 must be conceded an excellent chance of standing up, although many bowlers will be flirting with it before the last ball is rolled on Monday, May 26.

Best Score is 3119

The best five-man score for the weekend was posted by the Benham Hotel keglers of Penn Yan, who fired 3119 on a net 2822 and 299-handicap.

Naglee's Moving & Storage of Elmira rolled 3088 and Ideal Sign of Utica had 3065.

Fromer's lead was in jeopardy for a couple of games on Saturday's final squad when Rudge Ripple of Troy opened with 1047 and 100 on actual counts of 988 and 939. Then the Trojans got to thinking about the prize melon within their reach, tightened up and ran into a mess of splits and misses. They dipped to a mediocre 765 in the stretch to wind up with 3049.

Four "1300" Doubles

Only one team made the standing board in the gross doubles but four tandems rolled 1300 or better. Best score was a 1311 credited to J. Temple Nelson and John Nelson of Freesburg with 1311. J. Temple shot 648 and John Nelson furnished 663.

G. Dickerson and D. Beaver of Lakewood toppled 1308. C. Langnus and P. Mazzeo of New York hit for 1304 and W. Lyczke and R. Halgas of Amsterdam had 1302. Lyczke was the big man with 704.

Hymie Arlensky Tops All Events

Hymie Arlensky, one of the state tournament statisticians at the Bowlatorium, is in line for a handsome trophy for the best Kingston score in the gross events division of the state tournament.

Arlensky was riding in the first ten for several days up to last night with a sparkling 1983. He compiled a net of 1704 with 505 in the team event, 609 doubles, and 590 singles, and a 279-pin handicap.

Win Y Softball Sets Dodgers and Giants

Jim Cullum's Dodgers nosed out Pete Ferraro's Yankees, 9 to 8, in the YMCA Softball League Saturday at the Athletic Field.

In the other set, Ray Christiana's Giants walloped Jim Millard's Pirates, 18 to 4.

Vince Kelder of the Dodgers set up the winning rally for his team in the bottom of the seventh. He led off with a double, stole third and scored on an infield out.

The Giants scored in every inning against the Pirates. They racked up four runs in the first and third frames and a cluster of six in the second.

Trotters at Yonkers

Yonkers, May 12 (AP)—The Grand Circuit moves to Yonkers Raceway tonight and when the session ends on May 24, horsemen will have carted away more than $200,000 in purses. Top event on tonight's program will be the $3,600 Hasting Pace which has attracted a field of 11. Scottish Chief, which finished in the money in 27 of 30 starts last year, rules the favorite. This will be his first start of the year.

Rain Wipes Out Rhinebeck Race

Rhinebeck Speedway has its first double feature main event set up for next Saturday night, as the result of Saturday night's washout of the 25-lap feature.

The rains descended on the Speedway just after Dick Barnitt had spun in front of the stands entangling three other cars and locking with them so that it required the efforts of a wrecker and the entire pit crew to separate them.

Bob Disbrow of Poughkeepsie had ironed out some of the wrinkles that he had encountered in his modified job, No. 105, last week and returned to take the first qualifying heat. Claude Wagner won the second heat and Ulster county's Larry Shurter grabbed the third in his No. 75.

Jack Nichols, veteran driver of Carmel, with car No. 6N, won the first semi-final. Charlie Barry, of Syracuse, who took home the cream of the purse last week, returned to try again with his sportsman No. 49 and took the first place in the second semi-final.

Byron Fisher of Rhinebeck, driving No. 11 owned by Vernon Rifenburgh, won the consolation, with second place going to Doug Garrison, the up and coming Tri-State speedster from Holmes.

Of course, Jupe Pluvius took the feature race, but he received no points and no pay off, so the fans hope he'll decide to stay away from Rhinebeck Speedway henceforth. The inclement weather cut down somewhat on the anticipated large field of racing stars.

The first event on May 17 at 8:30 will be the rained-out 25-lapper. Following will be a complete card of seven NASCAR races, including a second 25-lap race around the northern Dutchess oval.

City Softball Loop Opens With 9 Teams

The nine-team City Softball League launches its 1952 season with four games this evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Games are scheduled on Monday and Wednesdays at four playing areas—upper and lower Hasbrouck Park, Block Park and upper Forsyth.

The league as usual is under the supervision of the Department of Recreation, with Andy Murphy III serving as director.

The opening day slate:

Hilltop vs. Sickler's at lower Hasbrouck.

Cuneo's vs. Beichert's at upper Hasbrouck.

Subway vs. Kingston Knitting, Block Park.

V.F.W. vs. American Legion at upper Forsyth.

Snead's 64 Captures Greenbrier Open

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 12 (AP)—There's no place like home, of course, and for Sam Snead there's no place like his home course.

Sam proved it again yesterday with a four-under-par 66 in a drenching rain to win the $1,800 first prize in the Greenbrier Open, played over the layout where he also picks up loose change as golf professional.

It was the Slammer's fourth straight sub-par round and gave him a 72-hole total of 264. His 16 strokes under par were six better than the second-place effort turned in by Ed (Porky) Oliver of Lemont, Ill., who pocketed $1,000.

Dave Douglas of Newark, Del., copped third with a 271 and $700 in prize money.

Dinner May 21 For Horsemen

Indications are that the annual dinner of the Kingston Horsemen's Association, May 21, at The Barn, will surpass any to date in attendance

This was announced today by President Harry B. Walker, who said that tickets are in demand by city residents and horsemen in many surrounding communities.

There'll be a good time said the former mayor, whose first love is promoting the horsemen's association.

The dinner is scheduled for 6:30 p. m. and will be followed by an entertainment.

Chairman of the dinner is James McCabe, local restaurateur, and pony concession operator on Route 28. Assistaing him besides President Walker are Sgt. John Roosa, A. H. Chambers, Isadore Epstein, Clifford Anderson and Ferd Gildersleeve.

They all are selling tickets and advise that those contemplating attendance procure them as soon as possible before the supply runs out.

Frank Cookingham has tickets in Rhinebeck, James Baxter in Red Hook, William Martin in Ellenville and James McCabe in Saugerties.

Walker, recently reelected president by the association, is the only survivor of the group that started it back in 1918.

He is well known in trotting circles although he has retired as an active participant and owner.

New York Five Rolls Big Game

Jamestown, N. Y., May 12 (AP)—Joe Doran's Five of New York City has posted the highest single team game in the New York state women's bowling tournament.

The Manhattan quinitet took over third place in Class A team rolling Saturday night when they amassed a tally of 2527. The single game achievement went in the books as a 974 mark.

There were no changes among the leaders last night.

Pat Volpe and Chris Tantalo of Rochester also shook up the standings a bit Saturday night when they hit the pins for a 972 score to move into first place, Class C doubles.

In the only other change over the weekend, the Brooders of Rochester rolled a 2192 Friday night to gain third place in Class C team competition.

The standings, for the most part, were unchanged.

The leaders:

Class A Singles—1. Rose Schatzel, Kingston, 616; 2. Babs Reichmeyer, Buffalo, 610; Dot Hartleben, Rochester (tie for second) 610.

Class A Teams—1. Pure Quill, Rochester, 2585; 2. Turner Club, Rochester, 2544; 3. Joe Doran's Five, New York city, 2527.

Separated

The burial of the heart apart from the body was a practice in both ancient Egypt and medieval Europe, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

In birds the chest is not separated from the abdomen and breathing is carried on by the abdominal muscles.

The SCOREBoard

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

What happened to the lively ball? Like the dodo bird, it appears to have become extinct.

Remember when those pitchers were wailing about too much jackrabbit in the ball? That was only two years ago. Now the hitters are doing the moaning and groaning and with good reason.

Just look at these figures of futility on the part of the batters:

The major league season is less than a month old and already 28 shutouts have been pitched. American League hurlers, who have turned in 17 whitewashing jobs, have spun seven 1-0 games to equal their full-season total of 1951.

Bob Lemon of Cleveland and Allie Reynolds of the New York Yankees pitched brilliant 1-0, two-hit victories yesterday. That boosted the total of low-hit games this year to 35. Recently, Bob Feller of Cleveland, Bob Cain of the St. Louis Browns and Art Houtteman of Detroit, hurled one-hitters.

Only four home runs were hit yesterday. That raised the two leagues' total to 217, exactly 70 fewer than the 287 hit last year at a corresponding date.

Tribe Leads by Two

Lemon's two-hit victory was followed by Mike Garcia's eight-hit 3-1 triumph. It enabled the Indians to sweep a doubleheader from the Browns and increase their American League lead to two games over the runner-up Washington Senators.

Lemon was extended to the limit as Ned Garver, Brownie ace, yielded only four hits himself. Three of them came in the last half of the ninth to furnish the only run. Dale Mitchell's two-out single with the bases loaded broke up the mound duel.

The Indians collected only five hits off loser Cain and two relievers in the second game but made them all count for Garcia's fourth victory.

Reynolds, who hurled a no-hitter against the Red Sox last September, nearly duplicated the stunt. The only hits the Red Sox got yesterday were first-inning singles by Dom DiMaggio and Vern Stephens. Hank Bauer singled off loser Mel Parnell with one out in the fifth, advanced to second on a grounder and scored on a line single by Irv Noren.

The Senators defeated the Philadelphia Athletics in 11 innings of the first game of a doubleheader. Rain washed out the second tilt after two scoreless innings.

With the bases loaded and two out in the 11th, Eddie Yost raised a pop foul. Elmer Valo and Skeets Kell let the ball drop in foul territory behind first, and Yost singled on the next pitch to drive in two runs.

Tigers Break Slump

The Detroit Tigers snapped their seven-game losing streak, nipping Chicago, 2-1, after the White Sox had won the first game of the doubleheader, 6-5. Rookie George Lerchen's eighth-inning single drove Johnny Lipon home from second with the winning Tiger run in the eighth.

Minnie Minoso's two-run homer and strong relief pitching by Saul Rogovin, another ex-Tiger, won the opener for Chicago.

The Dodgers whittled New York's National League lead to one game, edging Philadelphia, 4-3, in 10 innings.

An error set up Brooklyn's winning run. Peewee Reese got a life on Granny Hamner's bobble, stole second and scored on a two-out single by Roy Campanella.

Joe Adcock walloped two homers and a single to lead the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Chicago split a twin bill with Pittsburgh. The Pirates, who had lost 20 of 24 starts, rallied to whip the Bruins, 11-2 after losing the opener, 8-2.

The scheduled doubleheader between the Giants and Braves in Boston was postponed because of rain.

Yesterday's Stars

(By The Associated Press)

Batting: Joe Adcock, Reds—Hammered two home runs and a single to lead Cincinnati to an 8-5 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Pitching: Bob Lemon, Indians and Allie Reynolds, Yankees—Lemon pitched a two-hit, 1-0 victory over Ned Garver and the St. Louis Browns. Reynolds pitched a two-hit, 1-0 victory over Mel Parnell and the Boston Red Sox.

15-Year-Old Youth Wins Trapshoot Title

Pelham Manor, N. Y., May 12 (AP)—Dick Baldwin, a 15-year-old Danbury, Conn., sharpshooter, is young in years, but he can show the veterans a couple of pointers in marksmanship.

Baldwin yesterday won the distance handicap title in the American Amateur Trapshooting championships with a 93, two better than Al Cornwall of Brookville Center, Conn. It was Dick's second crown in two days. Saturday, he defended his junior title successfully.

Final Meeting

The City Baseball League's final meeting before the seasonal opener Sunday, May 18, will be held Tuesday night at 7:30 at the city court room in city hall.

SPORTS

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Freeman Sports Editor

They said the guy titillates the fans and titivates the industry. That's why he's the new sensation of the Saturday night TV wrestling network out of Chicago.

Well, Irish Pat O'Connor, that handsome hunk of Gaelic manhood, was all of that in his Kingston debut Friday night. Rocca looked great. So did fellows like Primo Carnera, Gene Stanlee, Verne Gagne, Mighty Atlas. But this young fellow out of New Zealand is the Babe Ruth of the crowd at the moment.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

The village of Saugerties is stirred by the advent of its first Little League on June 10. The Lions Club formerly operated a junior league and is behind the movement to start Little League activity in a community that is rich in baseball tradition. John Sauer is president of the league, while Ernie Schirmer and Ben Fein are big men behind the movement. Bob Umpleby, president of the Kingston Athletic Association, will address the Saugerties organization Tuesday night. Pfc. William "Boo" Schaffer of the U. S. Marine Corps barely missed being aboard the aircraft carrier Wasp, which was in collision with the destroyer "Hobson" in mid-Atlantic several days ago. The well known Saugerties baseball and basketball star who had served on the carrier since August 1951, was transferred to land duty in Brooklyn only a day before the Wasp was struck. Joe Vozdik, the popular Saugerties referee, has been assigned to the U. S. Olympic Eastern United States boxing finals at Hawkins Stadium, Albany, on May 26 and 27.

• Of Men and Mice:

Did Charlie Brodhead start that rumor about the Can-Am reorganizing with five teams for the 1952 season? The baseball world is still waiting to hear about the results of Fred Davi's meeting with the Building and Supplies Committee of the Common Council. If semi-pro baseball is to operate in Kingston, Davi is the man to run it. But the Glasco promoter is entitled to every possible assistance if he can meet his financial commitments. We understand he is ready to post a bond for a 12-game package deal with the committee. Meanwhile, Davi and Andy Murphy III, the recreation director, are supposed to be hatching up a baseball story due to break any day. Joe Scott, the tennis addict, says he is encouraged by prospects of opening up three courts at Forsyth Park. We presume that Coach Theron Culver and the KHS squad would like that setup, too. Scott points out that free loan of tennis rackets and balls will be available this summer at Hutton, Forsyth and Hasbrouck Parks, largely through the success of a drive last fall for donations of rackets by the public. The rackets have been reconditioned and youngsters may sign them out at any of the parks. There will be four or five rackets at each park. The only requirement is that sneakers be worn on the clay courts. Street shoes are verboten.

Start of a Serial: Beacon High has quit the tennis section of the DUSO League. Other sports to follow.

• Women Play Big Role in Little League:

Don't overlook the adult phase of Little League. In 1951, there were 11,842 grownups supervising play in one way or another. And 870 of them were women. Why, when one Dayton, O., youngster's team ran out of batting practice pitchers, he ran home to mother. She's been fogging 'em across in practice ever since.

Although good sportsmanship is stressed, Little League was not organized as a juvenile-reform measure, though civic leaders enthusiastically endorse it as a wholesome influence for the small-fry.

Is Little League making better citizens of our youngsters?

"I don't know what it's doing for the kids," replies Ed Kemp, Hagerstown, Md., Little League official, "but it certainly is doing a great job on the parents."

The 5100 fans who paid to see the RPI-St. Lawrence hockey game at Troy on Feb. 16 represented the largest crowd ever to attend an indoor sport event in the Tri-City area (Troy, Albany and Schenectady).

Rawls Takes Lead In Weathervane

Seattle, May 12 (AP) — Betsy Rawls, a quiet Texan with a talkative putter, was looking today for some way to "wrap up this Broadmoor Golf course and take it with me."

The straight shooter from Austin knocked a stroke off men's par of 70 at Broadmoor Sunday. She tacked this 69 onto an even 70 of the day before and the 139 total was good for first place in the Seattle leg of the cross-country Weathervane Open tournament.

Good enough? It was so good that the second-place finishers—Alice and Marlene Bauer of Sarasota, Fla.—were 11 strokes back with 150s. It was so good it sent Betsy into first place in the Weathervane by nine strokes after she had started the Seattle tourney seven strokes behind Babe Didriksen Zaharias.

The Babe, dogged by tough luck, chuckled as she picked up the $60 check for last money in the $3,000 payoff: "I guess there has to be a first time for everything, and I'm glad to get the sixty."

Mrs. Zaharias cost herself three strokes before she even swung a club Sunday. She reported to tournament officials that the 77 credited to her Saturday was wrong, and that her scorer had missed one stroke. The officials made the change and added a two-stroke penalty for the mistake.

Fresno, Calif. — George Brown, UCLA, broad jumped 26 feet 3¼ inches, in the west coast relays.

Dallas — Walter Davis high-jumped 6 feet 10½ inches in the Southwest Conference track meet, a half-inch below the world record.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. —Sam Snead won the Greenbrier Open with a 264.

Seattle — Besty Rawls, Austin, Tex., fired a 69 — six under women's par—to win the Seattle link of the Weathervane Open golf tournament.

Mexico City — Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago, won the first Pan American golf tournament, with a 279.

Cambridge, Mass.—Navy's varsity crew defeated Pennsylvania and Harvard to win the Adams Cup Regatta on Charles River.

Boston—LaSalle of Philadelphia retained its championship in the Dad Vail Regatta, premier event for smaller rowing colleges.

Princeton, N. J.—Princeton won the Carnegie Cup Regatta by beating Yale and Cornell on Lake Carnegie.

Baltimore—Real Delight ($2.60) won the $25,000-added Black-Eyed Susan Stakes at Pimlico, going a mile and an eighth in 1:51 4/5.

Rome—Chicago's Golden Gloves boxing team fought a 5-5 draw with Italy in its last European appearance.

Hamilton, Bermuda—Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, captured the Coral Beach tennis championship by beating Mexico's Gustavo Palafox, 6-4, 9-7, 6-3.

Began Night Schools

Kentucky originated the idea of evening schools in 1911. The state held classes on moonlit nights for the purpose of teaching adult illiterates to read and write.

A pint of ordinary water weighs about a pound.

LAUNDRYMAN SPECIAL

New York Yankees Outfielder Hank Bauer (9) gets nothing but a soiled uniform out of this force out at second in third inning of game with Boston Red Sox at Yankee Stadium. Red Sox Second Baseman Ted Uepcio jumps clear of the sliding Bauer after Third Baseman Johnny Pesky's relay of Phil Rizzuto's grounder. Umpire Bill McKinley leaves no doubt about his decision. Yanks won, 1-0.

Civil Service Exam

The New York State Department of Civil Service has scheduled an open-competitive examination for the position of matron in the State Correction Department's female institutions at Westfield State Farm, Bedford Hills, Westchester county; and Albion State Training School, Albion, Orleans county. The entrance salary is $2,771 with five annual increases up to the maximum of $3,571. Applications will be accepted up to June 6. Detailed announcements and applications may be obtained by mail or in person from the New York State Department of Civil Service, Governor Alfred E. Smith Building, Albany 1. The examination will be given July 12.

A MESSAGE FROM THE CIO

To the Kingston Shipyard Employees, Their Families, and the Community

THURSDAY, MAY 15, WILL BE AN IMPORTANT DAY IN THE LIVES OF THE KINGSTON SHIPYARD EMPLOYEES, THEIR FAMILIES, AND THE COMMUNITY.

KINGSTON SHIPYARD EMPLOYEES: YOU WILL BE GIVEN THE OPPORTUNITY TO FREELY VOTE IN A SECRET UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT SUPERVISED ELECTION FOR A UNION OF YOUR OWN CHOICE — CIO, AFL, OR NO UNION.

WHEN YOU ENTER THE POLLING BOOTH AND PLACE YOUR MARK ON YOUR BALLOT YOU WILL BE HANDING DOWN YOUR OWN VERDICT. YOU'LL GET WHAT YOU ASK FOR!

YOU, AND YOU ALONE, WILL KNOW HOW YOU VOTE. THE FAITH AND PLEDGE OF THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT GUARANTEES YOU THAT PRIVILEGE, CONTRARY TO UNFOUNDED AND IRRESPONSIBLE RUMORS CIRCULATED THROUGH THE SHIPYARDS.

THE INDUSTRIAL UNION OF MARINE AND SHIPBUILDING WORKERS OF AMERICA, CIO (IUMSWA – CIO ON THE BALLOT) PETITIONED AND WON THE RIGHT FOR A DEMOCRATIC ELECTION AT THE URGENT REQUEST OF SCORES OF KINGSTON SHIPYARD EMPLOYEES, WHO WANTED THE OPPORTUNITY TO RID THEMSELVES OF THE AFL.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

We Appeal to the Kingston Shipyard Employees to:

- VOTE CIO BECAUSE we can be of mutual benefit to each other. We need you; you need us.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE only an industrial union can unite all shipyard employees to attain a higher standard of living, job security, and humane working conditions.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE only democratic control of your union, of, by and for the Kingston shipyard employees can guarantee you a fair and square deal.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE you, and you alone, will elect every one of your officers at rank and file meetings. Under no circumstances will any officer, shop steward or member of any committees be appointed.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE you are assured of regular monthly membership meetings at which you can think and speak freely without fear, intimidation, coercion or reprisal.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE a full financial report must be rendered at every membership meeting. All expenditures must be authorized and approved by the membership.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE you will elect your own rank and file negotiating committee to bargain with the employer on the wages, working conditions and other provisions of your contract.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE no contract can be signed unless every word of it meets with your approval and you democratically discuss and vote for it.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE the CIO will install real job security in the Kingston shipyards through bona fide seniority, grievance machinery, and other strong safeguards against favoritism, unjust layoffs and discharges.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE every Kingston shipyard employee lost a minimum of 20% in his pay envelope during 1951.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE the Kingston shipyard employees received only a top rate of $1.45 per hour prior to October 1951. From that date to the present time, your top rate has been $1.70 per hour. CIO members have been paid $1.80 per hour since January 1, 1951.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE the $1.70 A.F.L. rate was negotiated in June and did not become effective until October. The CIO $1.80 rate was approved by the Wage Stabilization Board in May, 1951, but under the CIO agreements with the companies, was retroactive to January 1, 1951.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE the present Kingston shipyard employees' pay rates are the lowest in the industry.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE scores of you are performing skilled $1.80 work for $1.47 laborers' rate. Get a square deal with CIO, proper pay and the right classification for the work you do.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE you are entitled to incentive, higher differential, premium, call-in, reporting, and hazardous work pay equal to that which CIO shipworkers now enjoy.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE you will be assured of paid one, two, and three weeks' vacation, paid holidays, time and one-half and double time for Saturday, Sunday and holiday work as such.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE the CIO Shipbuilders Union contract calls for a minimum $2.00 monthly dues payment and a $2.00 initiation fee.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE the CIO Shipbuilders Union has never in its history levied an assessment against its membership, in contrast to exorbitant, forced AFL recurring assessments, and sky-high initiation fees.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE your CIO membership book grants you the right and privilege of transferring your membership to any other CIO affiliated organization without payment of any extra initiation fee.

Many AFL Locals are closed to new members. You're shut out. If you are permitted to work in any other AFL craft local other than that to which you belong, you'll pay through the nose.

KINGSTON SHIPYARD EMPLOYEES' WIVES SHOULD URGE THEIR HUSBANDS TO VOTE FOR CIO

- BECAUSE a CIO contract guaranteeing safety provisions will protect your breadwinners' health and life and keep him from bodily injury.
- BECAUSE CIO shipbuilders' wives and dependents are covered by liberal health, surgical and hospital insurance which guarantees adequate, skilled medical care to all the members of the family in case of sickness or accident.
- BECAUSE CIO iron-clad safety contract provisions are more urgently necessary for shipworkers due to the extreme hazards in the industry. The U. S. Department of Labor, which issued its annual report a few weeks ago, stated that boatbuilders and ship repairers suffered the second highest injury rate of any industry in the country.
- BECAUSE more take-home pay by your providers will put more food on the family table, supply more clothing for your children, provide better living quarters for the family, and give you an opportunity to save some money for a rainy day.
- BECAUSE a strict seniority clause and grievance procedure in a CIO contract will protect your husband's job, secure him from discriminatory lay-offs and unjust discharge.
- BECAUSE CIO contracts guarantee pension rights for old-time shipyard workers without cost to employees, so that when your husband's best productive years are behind him and he is unable to keep pace with younger men, he will not be thrown on the unemployed scrap heap. He will be able to live out his life in security, in dignity and provide for his family.
- BECAUSE a CIO safety committee in the shipyards will wipe out the dangerous poisoning which has caused innumerable severe infections, pulmonary disorders, painful skin diseases, and needless other suffering of your men.
- BECAUSE CIO labor agreements protect the family with up to $3,000 life insurance, and $6,000 in case of accidental death, on or off the job.
- BECAUSE CIO contracts grant sick pay from the first day up to 26 weeks in any one year during the time of the shipyard employees' illness or accident not covered by Workmen's Compensation.
- BECAUSE your husbands during 1951 alone lost $14.00 per week under the AFL by failing to receive the CIO nation-wide established rate for mechanics of $1.80 per hour. Other workers lost equivalent sums and more in the lower paid brackets.
- BECAUSE many of you are compelled to seek employment to supplement the low family income.
- BECAUSE many mothers are forced to remove their children from school and send them to factories and other work places to help provide the family with the bare necessities of life.

A VOTE FOR CIO WILL BENEFIT THE KINGSTON COMMUNITY

- BECAUSE higher wages for the Kingston shipyard employees will create hundreds of thousands of dollars in new purchasing power to aid business and professional sectors of the community.
- BECAUSE new homes, cars, clothes, food and all of the essentials of life will be bought in Kingston stores and will necessitate the expansion of working forces.
- BECAUSE with expanded employment added opportunities for job advancement will open up for old employees.
- BECAUSE more contented and more prosperous families in every community is the best preventive for juvenile and adult delinquency and results in less cost to the community.
- BECAUSE better paid Kingston families will make for healthier and happier citizens and homes.
- BECAUSE CIO's Washington office and its entire administrative machinery will help bring ship construction work to the Kingston yards for steady, continuous employment.
- BECAUSE CIO will promote the good and welfare of the community by its support of State legislation to assist County government to meet its needs and rising costs.
- BECAUSE Kingston well-paid shipyard employees will be able to catch up with the increased high cost of living.
- BECAUSE bigger payrolls and advanced benefits will give the Kingston shipyard employees' children brighter prospects for higher education and increased earning power.

Began Night Schools

Kentucky originated the idea of evening schools in 1911. The state held classes on moonlit nights for the purpose of teaching adult illiterates to read and write.

A pint of ordinary water weighs about a pound.

LAUNDRYMAN SPECIAL

New York Yankees Outfielder Hank Bauer (9) gets nothing but a soiled uniform out of this force out at second in third inning of game with Boston Red Sox at Yankee Stadium. Red Sox Second Baseman Ted Uepcio jumps clear of the sliding Bauer after Third Baseman Johnny Pesky's relay of Phil Rizzuto's grounder. Umpire Bill McKinley leaves no doubt about his decision. Yanks won, 1-0.

Civil Service Exam

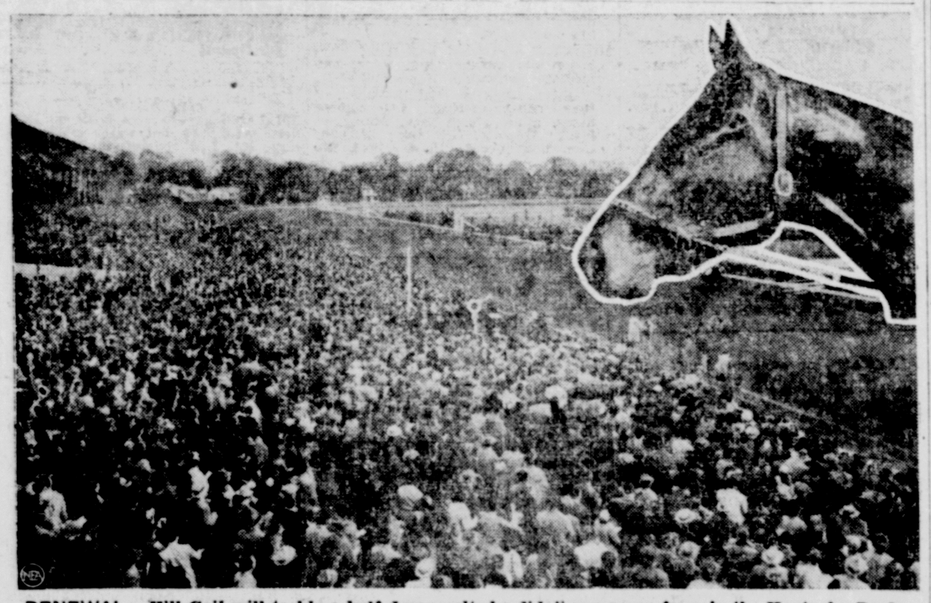
The New York State Department of Civil Service has scheduled an open-competitive examination for the position of matron in the State Correction Department's female institutions at Westfield State Farm, Bedford Hills, Westchester county; and Albion State Training School, Albion, Orleans county. The entrance salary is $2,771 with five annual increases up to the maximum of $3,571. Applications will be accepted up to June 6. Detailed announcements and applications may be obtained by mail or in person from the New York State Department of Civil Service, Governor Alfred E. Smith Building, Albany 1. The examination will be given July 12.

The first machine for making wire nails from iron and brass was built over 100 years ago in New York city.



RENEWAL—Hill Gail will tackle a half dozen colts he didn't run away from in the Kentucky Derby, but the newest Calumet Comet will still be an odds-on favorite in the 76th running of The Preakness at old Pimlico. (NEA)

ABOUT KINGSTON SHIPYARD CONDITIONS

JOHNNY GROGAN

National President of the Industrial Union of Marine & Shipbuilding Workers of America, C.I.O.

OVER WKNY

TUESDAY, MAY 13th — 7:15 to 7:30 P. M.

A MESSAGE FROM THE CIO

To the Kingston Shipyard Employees, Their Families, and the Community

THURSDAY, MAY 15, WILL BE AN IMPORTANT DAY IN THE LIVES OF THE KINGSTON SHIPYARD EMPLOYEES, THEIR FAMILIES, AND THE COMMUNITY.

KINGSTON SHIPYARD EMPLOYEES: YOU WILL BE GIVEN THE OPPORTUNITY TO FREELY VOTE IN A SECRET UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT SUPERVISED ELECTION FOR A UNION OF YOUR OWN CHOICE — CIO, AFL, OR NO UNION.

WHEN YOU ENTER THE POLLING BOOTH AND PLACE YOUR MARK ON YOUR BALLOT YOU WILL BE HANDING DOWN YOUR OWN VERDICT. YOU'LL GET WHAT YOU ASK FOR!

YOU, AND YOU ALONE, WILL KNOW HOW YOU VOTE. THE FAITH AND PLEDGE OF THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT GUARANTEES YOU THAT PRIVILEGE, CONTRARY TO UNFOUNDED AND IRRESPONSIBLE RUMORS CIRCULATED THROUGH THE SHIPYARDS.

THE INDUSTRIAL UNION OF MARINE AND SHIPBUILDING WORKERS OF AMERICA, CIO (IUMSWA – CIO ON THE BALLOT) PETITIONED AND WON THE RIGHT FOR A DEMOCRATIC ELECTION AT THE URGENT REQUEST OF SCORES OF KINGSTON SHIPYARD EMPLOYEES, WHO WANTED THE OPPORTUNITY TO RID THEMSELVES OF THE AFL.

NOW IS YOUR CHANCE!

We Appeal to the Kingston Shipyard Employees to:

- VOTE CIO BECAUSE we can be of mutual benefit to each other. We need you; you need us.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE only an industrial union can unite all shipyard employees to attain a higher standard of living, job security, and humane working conditions.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE only democratic control of your union, of, by and for the Kingston shipyard employees can guarantee you a fair and square deal.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE you, and you alone, will elect every one of your officers at rank and file meetings. Under no circumstances will any officer, shop steward or member of any committees be appointed.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE you are assured of regular monthly membership meetings at which you can think and speak freely without fear, intimidation, coercion or reprisal.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE a full financial report must be rendered at every membership meeting. All expenditures must be authorized and approved by the membership.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE you will elect your own rank and file negotiating committee to bargain with the employer on the wages, working conditions and other provisions of your contract.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE no contract can be signed unless every word of it meets with your approval and you democratically discuss and vote for it.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE the CIO will install real job security in the Kingston shipyards through bona fide seniority, grievance machinery, and other strong safeguards against favoritism, unjust layoffs and discharges.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE every Kingston shipyard employee lost a minimum of 20% in his pay envelope during 1951.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE the Kingston shipyard employees received only a top rate of $1.45 per hour prior to October 1951. From that date to the present time, your top rate has been $1.70 per hour. CIO members have been paid $1.80 per hour since January 1, 1951.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE the $1.70 A.F.L. rate was negotiated in June and did not become effective until October. The CIO $1.80 rate was approved by the Wage Stabilization Board in May, 1951, but under the CIO agreements with the companies, was retroactive to January 1, 1951.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE the present Kingston shipyard employees' pay rates are the lowest in the industry.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE scores of you are performing skilled $1.80 work for $1.47 laborers' rate. Get a square deal with CIO, proper pay and the right classification for the work you do.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE you are entitled to incentive, higher differential, premium, call-in, reporting, and hazardous work pay equal to that which CIO shipworkers now enjoy.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE you will be assured of paid one, two, and three weeks' vacation, paid holidays, time and one-half and double time for Saturday, Sunday and holiday work as such.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE the CIO Shipbuilders Union contract calls for a minimum $2.00 monthly dues payment and a $2.00 initiation fee.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE the CIO Shipbuilders Union has never in its history levied an assessment against its membership, in contrast to exorbitant, forced AFL recurring assessments, and sky-high initiation fees.
- VOTE CIO BECAUSE your CIO membership book grants you the right and privilege of transferring your membership to any other CIO affiliated organization without payment of any extra initiation fee.

Many AFL Locals are closed to new members. You're shut out. If you are permitted to work in any other AFL craft local other than that to which you belong, you'll pay through the nose.

KINGSTON SHIPYARD EMPLOYEES' WIVES SHOULD URGE THEIR HUSBANDS TO VOTE FOR CIO

- BECAUSE a CIO contract guaranteeing safety provisions will protect your breadwinners' health and life and keep him from bodily injury.
- BECAUSE CIO shipbuilders' wives and dependents are covered by liberal health, surgical and hospital insurance which guarantees adequate, skilled medical care to all the members of the family in case of sickness or accident.
- BECAUSE CIO iron-clad safety contract provisions are more urgently necessary for shipworkers due to the extreme hazards in the industry. The U. S. Department of Labor, which issued its annual report a few weeks ago, stated that boatbuilders and ship repairers suffered the second highest injury rate of any industry in the country.
- BECAUSE more take-home pay by your providers will put more food on the family table, supply more clothing for your children, provide better living quarters for the family, and give you an opportunity to save some money for a rainy day.
- BECAUSE a strict seniority clause and grievance procedure in a CIO contract will protect your husband's job, secure him from discriminatory lay-offs and unjust discharge.
- BECAUSE CIO contracts guarantee pension rights for old-time shipyard workers without cost to employees, so that when your husband's best productive years are behind him and he is unable to keep pace with younger men, he will not be thrown on the unemployed scrap heap. He will be able to live out his life in security, in dignity and provide for his family.
- BECAUSE a CIO safety committee in the shipyards will wipe out the dangerous poisoning which has caused innumerable severe infections, pulmonary disorders, painful skin diseases, and needless other suffering of your men.
- BECAUSE CIO labor agreements protect the family with up to $3,000 life insurance, and $6,000 in case of accidental death, on or off the job.
- BECAUSE CIO contracts grant sick pay from the first day up to 26 weeks in any one year during the time of the shipyard employees' illness or accident not covered by Workmen's Compensation.
- BECAUSE your husbands during 1951 alone lost $14.00 per week under the AFL by failing to receive the CIO nation-wide established rate for mechanics of $1.80 per hour. Other workers lost equivalent sums and more in the lower paid brackets.
- BECAUSE many of you are compelled to seek employment to supplement the low family income.
- BECAUSE many mothers are forced to remove their children from school and send them to factories and other work places to help provide the family with the bare necessities of life.

A VOTE FOR CIO WILL BENEFIT THE KINGSTON COMMUNITY

- BECAUSE higher wages for the Kingston shipyard employees will create hundreds of thousands of dollars in new purchasing power to aid business and professional sectors of the community.
- BECAUSE new homes, cars, clothes, food and all of the essentials of life will be bought in Kingston stores and will necessitate the expansion of working forces.
- BECAUSE with expanded employment added opportunities for job advancement will open up for old employees.
- BECAUSE more contented and more prosperous families in every community is the best preventive for juvenile and adult delinquency and results in less cost to the community.
- BECAUSE better paid Kingston families will make for healthier and happier citizens and homes.
- BECAUSE CIO's Washington office and its entire administrative machinery will help bring ship construction work to the Kingston yards for steady, continuous employment.
- BECAUSE CIO will promote the good and welfare of the community by its support of State legislation to assist County government to meet its needs and rising costs.
- BECAUSE Kingston well-paid shipyard employees will be able to catch up with the increased high cost of living.
- BECAUSE bigger payrolls and advanced benefits will give the Kingston shipyard employees' children brighter prospects for higher education and increased earning power.

The ordinance published herewith has been adopted on the 6th day of May, 1952, and the validity of the obligations authorized by such ordinance may be hereafter contested only if such obligations were authorized for an object or purpose for which The City of Kingston, New York, is not authorized to expend money or if the provisions of law which should have been complied with as of the date of publication of this notice were not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the publication of this notice, or such obligations were authorized in violation of the provisions of the constitution.

BERNHARDT S. KRAMER
City Clerk

BOND ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., ADOPTED MAY 6, 1952, AUTHORIZING STREET IMPROVEMENTS IN THE CITY, AS A LOCAL IMPROVEMENT, APPROPRIATING $30,000 THEREFOR AND AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF $30,000 SERIAL BONDS OF THE CITY TO FINANCE SAID APPROPRIATION.

THE COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, IN THE COUNTY OF ULSTER, NEW YORK, CONVENED IN REGULAR SESSION, HEREBY ORDAINS (by the favorable vote of not less than two-thirds of all the members of said Council) as follows:

Section 1. As a local improvement in and for the City of Kingston, the reconstruction or resurfacing is hereby authorized of Deitz Court at an estimated maximum cost of $21,000.00 and of Melvin Drive at an estimated maximum cost of $9,000.00, including construction of the necessary curbs, sidewalks, gutters, drainage and other incidental improvements, the pavement of said streets to be of more durable construction than sand and gravel, water bound macadam or penetration process. The estimate of the maximum total cost of said object or purpose, including preliminary costs and costs incidental thereto, is $30,000 and the said amount is hereby appropriated therefor to the Board of Public Works. The plan of financing is the issuance of $30,000 serial bonds of the City to finance said appropriation, and the levy of a tax upon all the taxable real property in the City to pay the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon. Of said amount appropriated, seventy-five per cent (75%) thereof will be assessed against the respective properties specially benefited and the amount of any special assessments when levied and collected on the respective properties specially benefited by the improvements above described may be budgeted as an offset to the taxes thus to be levied.

Sec. 2. Serial bonds of the City in the principal amount of $30,000 are hereby authorized to be issued pursuant to the provisions of the Local Finance Law, constituting Chapter 33-a of the Consolidated Laws of the State of New York, as amended.

Sec. 3. The following additional matters are hereby determined and stated:

(a) The period of probable usefulness of the specific object or purpose for which the bonds authorized by this ordinance are to be issued, within the limitations of Section 11.00 a. 20 of said Local Finance Law, is ten (10) years, the pavement of said streets to be of more durable construction than sand and gravel, water bound macadam or penetration process.

(b) Current funds are not required by the said Law to be provided prior to the issuance of the bonds authorized by this resolution, at least fifty per cent (50%) of the cost to be paid being levied upon real property benefited in an area less than the area of the City.

(c) Special assessments upon the property specially benefited by the object or purpose described in Section 1 of this ordinance are expected to be levied to the extent set forth in Section 1 hereof upon the property specially benefited thereby.

Sec. 4. Each of the bonds authorized by this ordinance shall contain the recital of validity prescribed by §52.00 of said Local Finance Law and said bonds and any notes issued in anticipation of said bonds shall be general obligations of the City of Kingston, payable as to both principal and interest by a general tax upon all the taxable real property within the City, without limitation as to rate or amount. The faith and credit of the City of Kingston are hereby irrevocably pledged to the punctual payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds and provision shall be made annually in the budgets of the City by appropriation for (a) the amortization and redemption of the bonds to mature in such year and (b) the payment of interest to be due and payable in such year.

Sec. 5. Subject to the provisions of this ordinance and pursuant to §30.00 of said Local Finance Law relative to the authorization of the issuance of bond anticipation notes and of §50.00 and §§56.00 to 60.00 of said Law, the powers and duties of the Common Council relative to prescribing the terms, form and contents and as to the sale and issuance of the bonds authorized by this ordinance and of any notes authorized and issued in anticipation of said bonds, are hereby delegated to the Treasurer of the City as chief fiscal officer of the City.

Sec. 6. The validity of the bonds authorized by this ordinance, and of any notes issued in anticipation of said bonds, may be contested only if:

(a) such obligations are authorized for an object or purpose for which the City is not authorized to expend money, or

(b) the provisions of law which should be complied with at the date of the publication of such ordinance, are not substantially complied with,

and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity, is commenced within twenty days after the date of such publication, or

(c) such obligations are authorized in violation of the provisions of the constitution.

Sec. 7. This ordinance shall be published at least twice in the "Kingston Daily Freeman" and in the "Ulster County News and Kingston Leader," together with a notice prescribed by §81.00 of the Local Finance Law appended by the City Clerk (which newspapers are allied to and support the two political parties which cast the greater number of votes at the preceding general election and are the official newspapers of the City), and shall take effect immediately after such publication.

Submitted to the Mayor by the City Clerk the 8th day of May 1952.

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON ENTITLED: "AN ORDINANCE TO REGULATE AND RESTRICT THE LOCATION OF TRADES AND INDUSTRIES, AND THE LOCATION OF BUILDINGS DESIGNED FOR SPECIFIC USES AND FOR SUCH PURPOSE TO DIVIDE THE CITY INTO DISTRICTS AND TO PRESCRIBE FOR EACH DISTRICT, TRADES AND INDUSTRIES THAT SHALL BE EXCLUDED OR SUBJECT TO SPECIAL REGULATIONS, AND THE USES FOR WHICH BUILDINGS MAY NOT BE ERECTED OR ALTERED, IN THE INTEREST OF THE PROMOTION OF PUBLIC HEALTH, SAFETY AND GENERAL WELFARE, AND THE CONSERVATION OF PROPERTY VALUES."

BE IT ORDAINED by the Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, as follows:

SECTION 1. That an ordinance of the City of Kingston entitled: "An Ordinance to regulate and restrict the location of trades and industries, and the location of buildings designed for specific uses and for such purpose to divide the City into districts, and to prescribe for each district, trades and industries that shall be excluded or subject to special regulations, and the uses for which buildings may not be erected or altered, in the interest of the promotion of public health, safety and general welfare, and the conservation of property values," be amended as follows:

That the following described parcel of land now in the industrial district be included in the residence district and that the building zone maps, a part of the aforesaid ordinance, be amended to include said parcel of land within the residence district:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Third Ward of the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York and more particularly bounded and described as follows.

BEGINNING at a stone monument set in the ground, said monument being located at the intersection of the North Street Line of Flatbush Avenue and the West Street Line of the marginal street of Colonial Gardens (Kingston Housing Authority Project), and from said monument north 2 degrees 37 minutes east for a distance of 743.5 feet, more or less; thence north 86 degrees 58 minutes west for a distance of 150 feet; thence south 2 degrees 37 minutes west for a distance of 744 feet, more or less, to a point on the north street line of Flatbush Avenue; thence along said north street line of Flatbush Avenue north 87 degrees 50 minutes west for a distance of 150 feet to the point or place of beginning.

SECTION 2. This ordinance shall be published twice in each of the official newspapers of the City of Kingston and shall take effect immediately following such publication.

Area Men Aboard Carrier Oriskany

Two Kingston area men are currently serving aboard the USS Oriskany, the navy's newest and fourth largest aircraft carrier, which will soon transfer to the Pacific Fleet.

They are Frank F. Ferguell, Route 1, East Kingston, the son of Louis Ferguell and Larry Lidz of Woodstock, son of Mrs. Cecile Forman of Woodstock.

The Oriskany will transfer to the Pacific Fleet by traveling around the Cape Horn, southernmost tip of South America. It is because of the Oriskany's excessive size which prevents the vessel from proceeding through the Panama Canal, that she is undertaking this 15,000 mile cruise.

The carrier is now completing a six-month stay at the New York Naval Shipyard.

In Training

WILLIAM L. WRIXON, JR.

Pvt. William L. Wrixon, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wrixon, Sr., of Woodland, near Phoenicia, has arrived at Headquarters, 9th Infantry Division, at Fort Dix, N. J. Prior to entering service, Pvt. Wrixon attended Kingston High School. He will receive eight weeks of basic training.

Miller in Korea

Cpl. Donald J. Miller, 127 O'Neil street, Kingston, is now serving with the 7th Infantry Division in the west-central sector of the front in North Korea. Cpl. Miller, a truck driver in the 17th Infantry Regiment's Service Company, arrived in Korea April 13, 1952. He entered the army in October 1950 and received basic training at Camp Pickett, Va.

college alumni and from 1917 to 1919 was president of the Alumni Federation of the University.

In 1916, Coykendall was elected Alumni Trustee of the University, was made permanent trustee in 1922, and became chairman of University Trustees in 1933. On Oct. 12, 1948, in his role as chairman, he handed to General Dwight D. Eisenhower the historic charters and keys of Columbia while more than 20,000 persons watched the ceremonies attending the formal transfer of responsibility to the general as Columbia's 13th president.

His Literary Work

He is the author of A Note on the Monk, and compiler of Arthur Rackham: A List of Books Illustrated by Him. His article on M. G. Lewis in The Colophon, 1935, is cited in the Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature as an authority on the subject. He was president of the Grolier Club from 1935 to 1939, holds the Class of '89 Gold Medal for Achievement at Columbia, and has an honorary LL.D. degree from Hamilton College. He is a brother of the late Edward Coykendall of this city, who died February, 1949.

Zoning Board

business have used said property in creating an industrial activity in a residential district."

The Zoning Board holds that the property is located in a residential zone; that the engagement of the respondent Rudi Hohenberger in the storage and warehouse business is a violation of the zoning ordinance since it is of an "industrial character"; that the Olsen business is one of an industrial character and "far beyond its restricted limited use by its former occupants" or by the occupants since August 8, 1928.

In support of the zoning ordinance the order recites:

"Haphazard conditions respecting the location of buildings for specified trades, industries and uses existed in our municipalities prior to zoning ordinances. Owners were permitted to erect buildings as they pleased and use them for a trade, industry or dwelling except where restricted by deeds of conveyances and except where the use constituted a nuisance. Apartment houses, stores, garages, factories, horseshoeing or blacksmith shops were placed upon the same streets without regard to the interest of owners of private lands, the development of the neighborhood, the maintenance of values or the prosperity of the community."

The zoning ordinance restricted and regulated use of properties in particular zones.

Case Is Cited

Citing an Appellate Division case, Bove V. Donner-Hanna Coke Corporation, which referred to the rule "that one may not use his own property to the injury of any legal right of another" the decision of the zoning commissioners quotes from the decision "such a rule is imperative, or life today in our congested centers would be intolerable and unbearable if a citizen was given no protection against unjust harassmant, arising from the use to which the property of his neighbor was put, the comfort and value of his home could easily be destroyed by anyone who chose to erect an annoyance nearby, and no one would be safe unless he was rich enough to buy sufficient land about his home to render such disturbance impossible * * *."

That decision goes on to say the object of the zoning ordinance is to protect public health and safety and to preserve the character of the neighborhoods by uniform and limited use thereof in the interest of the general public. Variance from the zoning ordinance is to afford a safety valve, so that carrying out the strict letter of the Zoning Ordinance may not occasion unnecessary hardship to a particular property owner, but the necessity of observing the spirit of an ordinance and maintaining public welfare and safety persists even where the variance is granted.

The decision in the Cordts vs. Hutton Company involving extending excavation by the Hutton Company for brick manufacturing is cited. In this case the courts held further excavations would constitute a non-conforming use because such excavations would "necessarily involve structural alterations of the premises."

A late case decided in 1952 by the Court of Appeals in the matter of City of Buffalo against Roadway Transit Co. involving the conversion of a public garage, which was a non-conforming public use, to a freight terminal, is cited. There the courts held such change was illegal.

On the findings of fact and the conclusions of law the board unanimously directs discontinuance of the present use of the Pine street property and gives the owner and lessee until September 1, 1952, to make arrangements to comply with the direction to discontinue present operations at the location.

Eisenhower Leaves

which would give him the 604 needed for the nomination on an early ballot.

After a weekend of delegate picking, a tabulation of delegates by the Assdciated Press gave him 343, Eisenhower 290. Taft claims about 80 more at the present time.

The AP tabulation is based on delegates pledged, instructed, favorable to or willing to state a first ballot choice, and candidate concessions.

Workers, Officials

goal to replace present night work premiums of 4, 5 and 6 cents.

Barney McMahon, IUPM representative, said 96 per cent of the 5,000 union members concerned voted approval of the terms. He added the vote indicates a "sound basis for other California settlements and possibly for the union as a whole."

Was to Be Submitted

The agreement was to be submitted to the WSB in Washington today. McMahon said prompt approval was expected.

A similar agreement between the IUPW and Union Coal Company of California is being voted on by the 1,100 workers covered by it.

Disaster also cut at fuel supplies. Fire following derailment of a freight train near Corsicana, Tex., destroyed 16 tank cars of fuel oil and four of high octane gasoline. About a quarter million gallons of gasoline were lost in a barge explosion near New Orleans.

Fire swept a five-acre area of crude oil storage tanks at the Houston refinery of the Eastern States Petroleum Co., one of those not affected by the strike.

With government restrictions on gasoline deliveries in the eastern two-thirds of the nation, more motorists are beginning to feel the growing shortage. One filling station on the New Jersey Turnpike went dry yesterday and gasoline purchases at the others were limited to $1.50 per vehicle.

Latest airline cancellations included two United Airline daily roundtrips out of Salt Lake City for Boise, Idaho, and San Francisco. And four United flights out of Seattle daily.

Trans-Canada Airlines dropped two round trips from New York to Toronto and Montreal. Eastern Airlines said it has canceled or consolidated 30 per cent of its flights.

UN Leaders

sounding board. This appears to be a course of action."

The talks are tightly deadlocked over the exchange of prisoners. The United Nations command has demanded voluntary repatriation of POWs. The Reds have insisted that all held by the UNC be returned, by force if necessary.

More than half the Red prisoners held by the allies have said they will forcibly resist being returned to Red rule.

Joy opened Monday's debate with a statement that he had "some brief remarks to make." But Nam Il interrupted to say he had a statement to make.

Joy cut in: "I also have a statement to make and I indicated my intentions first."

Joy declared:

"It has long been evident that your side dares not admit before the world that some of your captured personnel could not be returned to you without the use of force.

Not Willing to Verify

"It is obvious that you are not willing to verify this fact for yourselves by participating in an impartial screening after the signing of an armistice * * *.

"In order to avoid facing up to the truth your side apparently is quite willing to delay indefinitely the settlement of this issue and the attainment of an armistice, and meanwhile continue to utilize these plenary sessions to trumpet your false propaganda."

Nam Il told Joy:

"It is your side who dares not face the facts. Your side even dares not allow your own news reporters go to Koje for an on-the-spot investigation of the atrocities in your prisoner of war camps. Your side stealthily introduced large amounts of armed forces to Koje and dares not make this public to your own news reporters."

Even as he spoke, a group of allied correspondents departed from Eighth Army headquarters for Koje.

Hit-Run Drivers

was struck by a car which did not stop and he was knocked down. The infant was apparently uninjured, and Jackson reported no injuries.

At 3:32 a. m., John Forsyth, of Lockport, a guest at the Stuyvesant Hotel, reported seeing a sedan back into his car on Fair street. The car left the scene before he could get out of the hotel to talk to its driver, he said.

Plowed Through Gates

Another report at 4:05 a. m., said that a pickup truck went through the gates at the Smith avenue crossing. The driver continued without stopping, but a check is being made on a license number obtained by the gatekeeper.

Earl Terwilliger of Ulster Park reported to the police Sunday night that at about 1:30 a. m., his son, Robert, operating a car toward Broadway on Foxhall avenue, when at Grand street a car passed a stop sign and almost struck the Terwilliger car.

Terwilliger yelled at the driver, the report said, and the latter and three others got out of the vehicle, broke a window, did other damage to the Terwilliger car and drove away.

Officers Leonard Ellsworth and Carl Janasiewicz investigated the report of the injured man at Kingston Hospital and said Albert Green, 32, of 23 West Strand, was being treated for a laceration above the bridge of the nose and a badly blackened eye.

Green supplied the license number of the car from which he said his assailant came and a police check indicated that the owner was a New York man. The report indicated the alleged assault took place in the downtown area early today.

Some psychologists think that dreams are the disguised fulfillment of a repressed wish.

Clarification Is Given on Lapsed, Expired Policies

The Veterans Administration Contact Office, 286 Fair street, Kingston, serving the five county Catskill Mountain area, desires to clarify the difference between a lapsed and expired GI insurance policy.

A permanent policy will lapse, if premiums remain unpaid when due; it does not expire. A term policy also may lapse due to nonpayment of premiums; in addition it also will expire at the end of the term period for which it was written. The holder of a term policy wishing to keep his insurance protection in force must either change to a permanent plan or renew for another term before the current term expires.

In the case of NSLI term policies, F. William Sheehan, of the local office, announces the expiration date is the day a policy reaches the end of its term. A policy issued on or before December 31, 1945, is good for eight years. Those issued after that date remain good for five years. All subsequent term renewals are for five years.

Can't Get New Insurance

A lapsed policy, is not necessarily dead. However, it must be reinstated before it provides any insurance protection. This is done by meeting health requirements and by paying the premiums required to return the lapsed policy to good standing. In the case of lapsed term insurance, the restatement must, of course, take place before the term expires. Under existing law a veteran whose term policy has expired can no longer obtain new GI insurance.

To retinstate a permanent type of policy a holder must, in addition to meeting the usual health requirements, also pay all back premiums, plus interest.

If a policy—either term or permanent — has lapsed for three months or more, the holder must pass a physical examination to get his insurance back into force.

Veterans desiring additional information, application and premium rates, may secure the same by contacting Sheehan at 286 Fair street or by calling Kingston 5180.

Meteor Is Suspected

Seattle, May 12 (AP)—U. S. Air Force investigators and astronomers, after checking hundreds of eyewitness reports, said today a fiery object which exploded with violent force over Seattle and the surrounding Puget Sound country early Sunday probably was a meteor. They continued questioning witnesses from Olympia, 50 miles south of here, to Bellingham, 80 miles north, however, and started a search for "strange" materials they said might have come from a meteor.

About 14 per cent of air is oxygen.

Air Reserves Will Meet Tuesday Night

The 9267th Volunteer Air Corps Reserve Training Squadron will hold the first of its regular semi-monthly meetings Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the reserve headquarters, 22 Ferry street.

Major Theodore Lee, commanding officer, will open the meeting with a resume of Air Corps Reserve activities and a discussion of the world situation. T/Sgt. Hoff will lecture on the subject covered by Period 26 of the Air Reserve Training curriculum, Science and the Air Force. All local reservists are requested to be present at this meeting.

LEGAL NOTICES

NOTICE

The ordinance published herewith has been adopted on the 6th day of May, 1952, and the validity of the obligations authorized by such ordinance may be hereafter contested only if such obligations were authorized for an object or purpose for which The City of Kingston, New York, is not authorized to expend money or if the provisions of law which should have been complied with as of the date of publication of this notice were not substantially complied with, and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity is commenced within twenty days after the publication of this notice, or such obligations were authorized in violation of the provisions of the constitution.

BERNHARDT S. KRAMER
City Clerk

BOND ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., ADOPTED MAY 6, 1952, AUTHORIZING STREET IMPROVEMENTS IN THE CITY, AS A LOCAL IMPROVEMENT, APPROPRIATING $30,000 THEREFOR AND AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF $30,000 SERIAL BONDS OF THE CITY TO FINANCE SAID APPROPRIATION.

THE COMMON COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON, IN THE COUNTY OF ULSTER, NEW YORK, CONVENED IN REGULAR SESSION, HEREBY ORDAINS (by the favorable vote of not less than two-thirds of all the members of said Council) as follows:

Section 1. As a local improvement in and for the City of Kingston, the reconstruction or resurfacing is hereby authorized of Deitz Court at an estimated maximum cost of $21,000.00 and of Melvin Drive at an estimated maximum cost of $9,000.00, including construction of the necessary curbs, sidewalks, gutters, drainage and other incidental improvements, the pavement of said streets to be of more durable construction than sand and gravel, water bound macadam or penetration process. The estimate of the maximum total cost of said object or purpose, including preliminary costs and costs incidental thereto, is $30,000 and the said amount is hereby appropriated therefor to the Board of Public Works. The plan of financing is the issuance of $30,000 serial bonds of the City to finance said appropriation, and the levy of a tax upon all the taxable real property in the City to pay the principal of said bonds and the interest thereon. Of said amount appropriated, seventy-five per cent (75%) thereof will be assessed against the respective properties specially benefited and the amount of any special assessments when levied and collected on the respective properties specially benefited by the improvements above described may be budgeted as an offset to the taxes thus to be levied.

Sec. 2. Serial bonds of the City in the principal amount of $30,000 are hereby authorized to be issued pursuant to the provisions of the Local Finance Law, constituting Chapter 33-a of the Consolidated Laws of the State of New York, as amended.

Sec. 3. The following additional matters are hereby determined and stated:

(a) The period of probable usefulness of the specific object or purpose for which the bonds authorized by this ordinance are to be issued, within the limitations of Section 11.00 a. 20 of said Local Finance Law, is ten (10) years, the pavement of said streets to be of more durable construction than sand and gravel, water bound macadam or penetration process.

(b) Current funds are not required by the said Law to be provided prior to the issuance of the bonds authorized by this resolution, at least fifty per cent (50%) of the cost to be paid being levied upon real property benefited in an area less than the area of the City.

(c) Special assessments upon the property specially benefited by the object or purpose described in Section 1 of this ordinance are expected to be levied to the extent set forth in Section 1 hereof upon the property specially benefited thereby.

Sec. 4. Each of the bonds authorized by this ordinance shall contain the recital of validity prescribed by §52.00 of said Local Finance Law and said bonds and any notes issued in anticipation of said bonds shall be general obligations of the City of Kingston, payable as to both principal and interest by a general tax upon all the taxable real property within the City, without limitation as to rate or amount. The faith and credit of the City of Kingston are hereby irrevocably pledged to the punctual payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds and provision shall be made annually in the budgets of the City by appropriation for (a) the amortization and redemption of the bonds to mature in such year and (b) the payment of interest to be due and payable in such year.

Sec. 5. Subject to the provisions of this ordinance and pursuant to §30.00 of said Local Finance Law relative to the authorization of the issuance of bond anticipation notes and of §50.00 and §§56.00 to 60.00 of said Law, the powers and duties of the Common Council relative to prescribing the terms, form and contents and as to the sale and issuance of the bonds authorized by this ordinance and of any notes authorized and issued in anticipation of said bonds, are hereby delegated to the Treasurer of the City as the chief fiscal officer of the City.

Sec. 6. The validity of the bonds authorized by this ordinance, and of any notes issued in anticipation of said bonds, may be contested only if:

(a) such obligations are authorized for an object or purpose for which the City is not authorized to expend money, or

(b) the provisions of law which should be complied with at the date of the publication of such ordinance, are not substantially complied with,

and an action, suit or proceeding contesting such validity, is commenced within twenty days after the date of such publication, or

(c) such obligations are authorized in violation of the provisions of the constitution.

Sec. 7. This ordinance shall be published at least twice in the "Kingston Daily Freeman" and in the "Ulster County News and Kingston Leader," together with a notice prescribed by §81.00 of the Local Finance Law appended by the City Clerk (which newspapers are allied to and support the two political parties which cast the greater number of votes at the preceding general election and are the official newspapers of the City), and shall take effect immediately after such publication.

Submitted to the Mayor by the City Clerk the 8th day of May 1952.

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF KINGSTON ENTITLED: "AN ORDINANCE TO REGULATE AND RESTRICT THE LOCATION OF TRADES AND INDUSTRIES, AND THE LOCATION OF BUILDINGS DESIGNED FOR SPECIFIC USES AND FOR SUCH PURPOSE TO DIVIDE THE CITY INTO DISTRICTS AND TO PRESCRIBE FOR EACH DISTRICT, TRADES AND INDUSTRIES THAT SHALL BE EXCLUDED OR SUBJECT TO SPECIAL REGULATIONS, AND THE USES FOR WHICH BUILDINGS MAY NOT BE ERECTED OR ALTERED, IN THE INTEREST OF THE PROMOTION OF PUBLIC HEALTH, SAFETY AND GENERAL WELFARE, AND THE CONSERVATION OF PROPERTY VALUES."

BE IT ORDAINED by the Common Council of the City of Kingston, New York, as follows:

SECTION 1. That an ordinance of the City of Kingston entitled: "An Ordinance to regulate and restrict the location of trades and industries, and the location of buildings designed for specific uses and for such purpose to divide the City into districts, and to prescribe for each district, trades and industries that shall be excluded or subject to special regulations, and the uses for which buildings may not be erected or altered, in the interest of the promotion of public health, safety and general welfare, and the conservation of property values," be amended as follows:

That the following described parcel of land now in the industrial district be included in the residence district and that the building zone maps, a part of the aforesaid ordinance, be amended to include said parcel of land within the residence district:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Third Ward of the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York and more particularly bounded and described as follows.

BEGINNING at a stone monument set in the ground, said monument being located at the intersection of the North Street Line of Flatbush Avenue and the West Street Line of the marginal street of Colonial Gardens (Kingston Housing Authority Project), and from said monument north 2 degrees 37 minutes east for a distance of 743.5 feet, more or less; thence north 86 degrees 58 minutes west for a distance of 150 feet; thence south 2 degrees 37 minutes west for a distance of 744 feet, more or less, to a point on the north street line of Flatbush Avenue; thence along said north street line of Flatbush Avenue north 87 degrees 50 minutes west for a distance of 150 feet to the point or place of beginning.

SECTION 2. This ordinance shall be published twice in each of the official newspapers of the City of Kingston and shall take effect immediately following such publication.

Area Men Aboard Carrier Oriskany

Two Kingston area men are currently serving aboard the USS Oriskany, the navy's newest and fourth largest aircraft carrier, which will soon transfer to the Pacific Fleet.

They are Frank F. Ferguell, Route 1, East Kingston, the son of Louis Ferguell and Larry Lidz of Woodstock, son of Mrs. Cecile Forman of Woodstock.

The Oriskany will transfer to the Pacific Fleet by traveling around the Cape Horn, southernmost tip of South America. It is because of the Oriskany's excessive size which prevents the vessel from proceeding through the Panama Canal, that she is undertaking this 15,000 mile cruise.

The carrier is now completing a six-month stay at the New York Naval Shipyard.

WILLIAM L. WRIXON, JR.

Pvt. William L. Wrixon, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wrixon, Sr., of Woodland, near Phoenicia, has arrived at Headquarters, 9th Infantry Division, at Fort Dix, N. J. Prior to entering service, Pvt. Wrixon attended Kingston High School. He will receive eight weeks of basic training.

Miller in Korea

Cpl. Donald J. Miller, 127 O'Neil street, Kingston, is now serving with the 7th Infantry Division in the west-central sector of the front in North Korea. Cpl. Miller, a truck driver in the 17th Infantry Regiment's Service Company, arrived in Korea April 13, 1952. He entered the army in October 1950 and received basic training at Camp Pickett, Va.

college alumni and from 1917 to 1919 was president of the Alumni Federation of the University.

In 1916, Coykendall was elected Alumni Trustee of the University, was made permanent trustee in 1922, and became chairman of University Trustees in 1933. On Oct. 12, 1948, in his role as chairman, he handed to General Dwight D. Eisenhower the historic charters and keys of Columbia while more than 20,000 persons watched the ceremonies attending the formal transfer of responsibility to the general as Columbia's 13th president.

His Literary Work

He is the author of A Note on the Monk, and compiler of Arthur Rackham: A List of Books Illustrated by Him. His article on M. G. Lewis in The Colophon, 1935, is cited in the Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature as an authority on the subject. He was president of the Grolier Club from 1935 to 1939, holds the Class of '89 Gold Medal for Achievement at Columbia, and has an honorary LL.D. degree from Hamilton College. He is a brother of the late Edward Coykendall of this city, who died February, 1949.

Zoning Board

business have used said property in creating an industrial activity in a residential district."

The Zoning Board holds that the property is located in a residential zone; that the engagement of the respondent Rudi Hohenberger in the storage and warehouse business is a violation of the zoning ordinance since it is of an "industrial character"; that the Olsen business is one of an industrial character and "far beyond its restricted limited use by its former occupants" or by the occupants since August 8, 1928.

In support of the zoning ordinance the order recites:

"Haphazard conditions respecting the location of buildings for specified trades, industries and uses existed in our municipalities prior to zoning ordinances. Owners were permitted to erect buildings as they pleased and use them for a trade, industry or dwelling except where restricted by deeds of conveyances and except where the use constituted a nuisance. Apartment houses, stores, garages, factories, horseshoeing or blacksmith shops were placed upon the same streets without regard to the interest of owners of private lands, the development of the neighborhood, the maintenance of values or the prosperity of the community."

The zoning ordinance restricted and regulated use of properties in particular zones.

Case Is Cited

Citing an Appellate Division case, Bove V. Donner-Hanna Coke Corporation, which referred to the rule "that one may not use his own property to the injury of any legal right of another" the decision of the zoning commissioners quotes from the decision "such a rule is imperative, or life today in our congested centers would be intolerable and unbearable if a citizen was given no protection against unjust harassment, arising from the use to which the property of his neighbor was put, the comfort and value of his home could easily be destroyed by anyone who chose to erect an annoyance nearby, and no one would be safe unless he was rich enough to buy sufficient land about his home to render such disturbance impossible * * *."

That decision goes on to say the object of the zoning ordinance is to protect public health and safety and to preserve the character of the neighborhoods by uniform and limited use thereof in the interest of the general public. Variance from the zoning ordinance is to afford a safety valve, so that carrying out the strict letter of the Zoning Ordinance may not occasion unnecessary hardship to a particular property owner, but the necessity of observing the spirit of an ordinance and maintaining public welfare and safety persists even where the variance is granted.

The decision in the Cordts vs. Hutton Company involving extending excavation by the Hutton Company for brick manufacturing is cited. In this case the courts held further excavations would constitute a non-conforming use because such excavations would "necessarily involve structural alterations of the premises."

A late case decided in 1952 by the Court of Appeals in the matter of City of Buffalo against Roadway Transit Co. involving the conversion of a public garage, which was a non-conforming public use, to a freight terminal, is cited. There the courts held such change was illegal.

On the findings of fact and the conclusions of law the board unanimously directs discontinuance of the present use of the Pine street property and gives the owner and lessee until September 1, 1952, to make arrangements to comply with the direction to discontinue present operations at the location.

Eisenhower Leaves

which would give him the 604 needed for the nomination on an early ballot.

After a weekend of delegate picking, a tabulation of delegates by the Assdciated Press gave him 343, Eisenhower 290, Taft claims about 80 more at the present time.

The AP tabulation is based on delegates pledged, instructed, favorable to or willing to state a first ballot choice, and candidate concessions.

Workers, Officials

goal to replace present night work premiums of 4, 5 and 6 cents.

Barney McMahon, IUPM representative, said 96 per cent of the 5,000 union members concerned voted approval of the terms. He added the vote indicates a "sound basis for other California settlements and possibly for the union as a whole."

Was to Be Submitted

The agreement was to be submitted to the WSB in Washington today. McMahon said prompt approval was expected.

A similar agreement between the IUPW and Union Coal Company of California is being voted on by the 1,100 workers covered by it.

Disaster also cut at fuel supplies. Fire following derailment of a freight train near Corsicana, Tex., destroyed 16 tank cars of fuel oil and four of high octane gasoline. About a quarter million gallons of gasoline were lost in a barge explosion near New Orleans.

Fire swept a five-acre area of crude oil storage tanks at the Houston refinery of the Eastern States Petroleum Co., one of those not affected by the strike.

With government restrictions on gasoline deliveries in the eastern two-thirds of the nation, more motorists are beginning to feel the growing shortage. One filling station on the New Jersey Turnpike went dry yesterday and gasoline purchases at the others were limited to $1.50 per vehicle.

Latest airline cancellations included two United Airline daily roundtrips out of Salt Lake City for Boise, Idaho, and San Francisco. And four United flights out of Seattle daily.

Trans-Canada Airlines dropped two round trips from New York to Toronto and Montreal. Eastern Airlines said it has canceled or consolidated 30 per cent of its flights.

UN Leaders

sounding board. This appears to be a course of action."

The talks are tightly deadlocked over the exchange of prisoners. The United Nations command has demanded voluntary repatriation of POWs. The Reds have insisted that all held by the UNC be returned, by force if necessary.

More than half the Red prisoners held by the allies have said they will forcibly resist being returned to Red rule.

Joy opened Monday's debate with a statement that he had "some brief remarks to make." But Nam Il interrupted to say he had a statement to make.

Joy cut in: "I also have a statement to make and I indicated my intentions first."

Joy declared:

"It has long been evident that your side dares not admit before the world that some of your captured personnel could not be returned to you without the use of force.

Not Willing to Verify

"It is obvious that you are not willing to verify this fact for yourselves by participating in an impartial screening after the signing of an armistice * * *.

"In order to avoid facing up to the truth your side apparently is quite willing to delay indefinitely the settlement of this issue and the attainment of an armistice, and meanwhile continue to utilize these plenary sessions to trumpet your false propaganda."

Nam Il told Joy:

"It is your side who dares not face the facts. Your side even dares not allow your own news reporters go to Koje for an on-the-spot investigation of the atrocities in your prisoner of war camps. Your side stealthily introduced large amounts of armed forces to Koje and dares not make this public to your own news reporters."

Even as he spoke, a group of allied correspondents departed from Eighth Army headquarters for Koje.

Hit-Run Drivers

was struck by a car which did not stop and he was knocked down. The infant was apparently uninjured, and Jackson reported no injuries.

At 3:32 a. m., John Forsyth, of Lockport, a guest at the Stuyvesant Hotel, reported seeing a sedan back into his car on Fair street. The car left the scene before he could get out of the hotel to talk to its driver, he said.

Plowed Through Gates

Another report at 4:05 a. m., said that a pickup truck went through the gates at the Smith avenue crossing. The driver continued without stopping, but a check is being made on a license number obtained by the gatekeeper.

Earl Terwilliger of Ulster Park reported to the police Sunday night that at about 1:30 a. m., his son, Robert, operating a car toward Broadway on Foxhall avenue, when at Grand street a car passed a stop sign and almost struck the Terwilliger car.

Terwilliger yelled at the driver, the report said, and the latter and three others got out of the vehicle, broke a window, did other damage to the Terwilliger car and drove away.

Officers Leonard Ellsworth and Carl Janasiewicz investigated the report of the injured man at Kingston Hospital and said Albert Green, 32, of 23 West Strand, was being treated for a laceration above the bridge of the nose and a badly blackened eye.

Green supplied the license number of the car from which he said his assailant came and a police check indicated that the owner was a New York man. The report indicated the alleged assault took place in the downtown area early today.

Some psychologists think that dreams are the disguised fulfillment of a repressed wish.

Clarification Is Given on Lapsed, Expired Policies

The Veterans Administration Contact Office, 286 Fair street, Kingston, serving the five county Catskill Mountain area, desires to clarify the difference between a lapsed and expired GI insurance policy.

A permanent policy will lapse, if premiums remain unpaid when due; it does not expire. A term policy also may lapse due to nonpayment of premiums; in addition it also will expire at the end of the term period for which it was written. The holder of a term policy wishing to keep his insurance protection in force must either change to a permanent plan or renew for another term before the current term expires.

In the case of NSLI term policies, F. William Sheehan, of the local office, announces the expiration date is the day a policy reaches the end of its term. A policy issued on or before December 31, 1945, is good for eight years. Those issued after that date remain good for five years. All subsequent term renewals are for five years.

Can't Get New Insurance

A lapsed policy, is not necessarily dead. However, it must be reinstated before it provides any insurance protection. This is done by meeting health requirements and by paying the premiums required to return the lapsed policy to good standing. In the case of lapsed term insurance, the restatement must, of course, take place before the term expires. Under existing law a veteran whose term policy has expired can no longer obtain new GI insurance.

To retinstate a permanent type of policy a holder must, in addition to meeting the usual health requirements, also pay all back premiums, plus interest.

If a policy—either term or permanent — has lapsed for three months or more, the holder must pass a physical examination to get his insurance back into force.

Veterans desiring additional information, application and premium rates, may secure the same by contacting Sheehan at 286 Fair street or by calling Kingston 5180.

Meteor Is Suspected

Seattle, May 12 (AP)—U. S. Air Force investigators and astronomers, after checking hundreds of eyewitness reports, said today a fiery object which exploded with violent force over Seattle and the surrounding Puget Sound country early Sunday probably was a meteor. They continued questioning witnesses from Olympia, 50 miles south of here, to Bellingham, 80 miles north, however, and started a search for "strange" materials they said might have come from a meteor.

About 14 per cent of air is oxygen.

Air Reserves Will Meet Tuesday Night

The 9267th Volunteer Air Corps Reserve Training Squadron will hold the first of its regular semi-monthly meetings Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the reserve headquarters, 22 Ferry street.

Major Theodore Lee, commanding officer, will open the meeting with a resume of Air Corps Reserve activities and a discussion of the world situation. T/Sgt. Hoff will lecture on the subject covered by Period 26 of the Air Reserve Training curriculum, Science and the Air Force. All local reservists are requested to be present at this meeting.

Elks' Officers To Be Feted at Dinner Tuesday

The first event of the regime of Francis J. McCardle as exalted ruler of Kingston Lodge, 550, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, is the dinner scheduled Tuesday for Meet the Exalted Ruler Night.

The dinner is to be held at 6:30 p. m. in the Elks' Club on Fair street, and a record attendance is expected.

Exalted Ruler McCardle has extended a cordial invitation to all members of Kingston Lodge to attend the dinner at which the officers of the lodge for the ensuing year will be introduced.

Officers for 1952, elected to serve with Exalted Ruler McCardle, are:

Robert M. Smith, esteemed leading knight; John L. Machione, esteemed loyal knight; Charles Higgins, esteemed lecturing knight; Sydney Flisser, secretary.

Also: Paul J. Kaman, Jr., treasurer; Thomas Hoffman, esquire; Dr. Harry Meinhardt, tiler; the Rev. Stanley Dean, chaplain and Francis McDonough, inner guard.

Trustees are Joseph Epstein, Dr. Robert K. Ploss, Jack Feye, Herbert Van Deusen, and Harry Rose.

31 Persons Hurt

Bell Ville, Argentina, May 12 (AP)—Thirty-one persons were killed and at least 100 injured by a wall which toppled on a crowd at a prizefight here Saturday night. The weight of rain water on a canvas roof pulled over the supporting 15-foot masonry wall at the outdoor arena. Part of the crowd of 1,000 was caught in the crush. Others were trampled in a panicky stampede.
